F. D. R. REDUCED ARMY'S BUDGET FROM '34 TO '40

Records Locked Up Since 1942.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—A sensation was created in the house today when Rep. Engel [R., Mich.] disclosed the New Deal suppression of official records showing that President Roosevelt from 1934 to 1940 consistently hampered the national preparedness program.

Rep. Engel.

Engel's revelation was expected to discredit the commander in chief theme of Mr. Roosevelt's campaign for a fourth term and his claims that he alone foresaw the approaching war and built up the national defense.

Locked in a house appropriations committee safe since Feb. 17, 1942, said Engel, have been war department figures showing that Mr. Roosevelt for a six year period prior to Pearl Harbor slashed the army's requests for annual appropriations by hundreds of millions of dollars.

Impounded 62 Millions.

The President's first act, Engel said, upon assuming office, was to impound $62,618,830 which had been appropriated in President Hoover's term for building up the army. From that year, 1934, until 1940, Mr. Roosevelt never failed to reduce war department requests for funds by sizable percentages.

The figures also show that congress, often assailed by the New Deal for retarding the national defense, always appropriated more money than the President asked.

The records were suppressed by order of Rep. Cannon [D., Mo.], chairman of the appropriations committee, Engel said, presumably after Cannon recognized they were laden with political dynamite.

Cannon Is Not Present.

Cannon was not on the floor when Engel spoke. He said later he did not know what records were referred to by Engel, but presumed they were "matters which the war department wanted kept secret for military reasons."

His appearance on the floor was precipitated by an attack from Rep. Bulwinkle [D., N. C.] on Gov. Dewey, the Republican Presidential candidate. Bulwinkle challenged the truth of Dewey's assertion recently that "we have an administration seeking continuance in office which was in control for eight years and made absolutely no preparations for war."

Figures Obtained.

"The records will show," Engel replied, "that in February, 1942, Rep. Powers [R., N. J.] and I, as members of the appropriations committee, insisted that the war department furnish a statement showing the annual appropriations it requested of the President each year since 1940, the amounts forwarded by the President to congress, and the amounts actually appropriated.

"That statement has been, since Feb. 17, 1942, locked up by order of the chairman in a committee safe."

Engel refused to give specific details, but the following figures on war department funds were later obtained from official sources:

1935.....	$ 288,960,155	$292,719,772
1936.....	320,459,277	368,601,408
1937.....	391,065,510	419,984,465
1938.....	426,870,336	514,011,757
1939.....	618,541,016	647,996,490
1940.....	868,948,188	879,554,059

The "secret" figures, it was learned, show the war department in every instance asked 10 per cent and upward more than President Roosevelt recommended.

Eastern Coast Hit by Storm; Huge Damage

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

A hurricane which swept up the Atlantic coast last night with wind velocity ranging from 90 to 100 miles per hour at some points, tore into New England early today after it had taken a toll of 11 lives and caused widespread property damage.

The storm center passed over Providence, R. I., shortly after midnight and was expected to skirt Boston before veering out to sea.

Roofs and walls also were ripped from apartment houses in Atlantic City, leaving hundreds of families homeless.

Wreaking the same havoc that marked its progress northward along the coast from North Carolina, the storm disrupted traffic, felled trees and wires, and plunged into darkness much of the same New England area that was battered by the 1938 hurricane.

Famous Piers Wrecked.

Famous piers in Atlantic City and other New Jersey coastal resorts were damaged by waves described by coast guards as the highest they had ever seen, and sections of boardwalks were swept inland or carried away.

With the wind in that area reported to have reached 90 miles an hour, numerous homes and buildings were said to have suffered heavily, with a possibility that damage would run into millions of dollars.

The Homestead restaurant on the Ocean Grove, N. J., boardwalk, near Asbury Park, was washed into the sea.

A 250 foot freighter, the Thomas Tracy, was driven ashore earlier at Rehoboth Beach, Del., but its crew of 31 was rescued by the Coast Guard shortly before the vessel broke in half under a heavy pounding by high seas.

Disrupts Train Service.

The storm disrupted most train service in and out of New York City, plunged thousands of homes into darkness in the New Jersey and New York area, and sunk or sent adrift hundreds of small boats in bays and inlets along New Jersey and Long Island.

Among the dead were an Atlantic City air raid warden, struck by a piece of cornice ripped from a building, and a Brooklyn motorman, electrocuted as he stepped from his car. One man was drowned off Port Washington, N. Y.

All records for wind velocity in New York City were broken when the wind reached 80 miles an hour at 8:25 p. m. Gusts as high as 95 miles an hour were reported there by the weather bureau. The bureau said the highest previous velocity in the nation's largest city was 73 miles an hour in 1912.

Later reports from Atlantic City said water to a depth of 24 feet flooded the city's $15,000,000 auditorium,

SANTA'S PROBLEM

Mystery Hides Choice of Head for Pacific War

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Sept. 14.—Quebec was a world series town with an electric scoreboard tonight, pop-eyed at the world figures who were coming to bat.

Here are the day's developments at the Roosevelt-Churchill conference:

1. It was indicated that a supreme allied commander may already have been chosen to direct the war against the Japanese, and there was speculation that he may be Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the American fleet, or Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

2. Anthony Eden, foreign secretary of Great Britain, who had just conferred with Polish leaders in London, arrived after a dramatic flight across the Atlantic. This raised the possibility that Premier Stalin's territorial ambitions in Europe might be the most important topic of the conference.

3. Prime Minister Churchill gave this picturesque French-Canadian city the show it had been impatiently awaiting: A public appearance complete with V for victory salute, big cigar, twinkling eye, and waving hat. The prime minister called on officials, including Maurice Duplessis, Quebec's premier.

4. Mrs. Roosevelt went home.

Secretary Bares Secret.

Stephen Early, President Roosevelt's press secretary, revealed the conference's most carefully guarded secret in what many said was a moment of pique while being questioned about a statement by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that Gen. MacArthur should be given "greater scope and recognition" in the Pacific and that MacArthur had been suppressed in the past.

Early said there would be no comment on the Dewey suggestion. When another question was asked regarding a supreme commander, Early emphasized that his answer would have no relation to the question concerning Dewey.

Then, with a stern admonition to newspaper men who have been predicting that the conference would name the supreme commander, Early said there is no question at the conference regarding the appointment of a supreme commander.

That question, he said, had been "disposed of" before the conference. But he declined to explain.

He was asked if the commander's name would be made public after the conference, but he had no answer. He said, however, that the Pacific command might remain in "status quo," leading some to believe that a supreme commander may have been in charge for some time.

Three Major Candidates.

Persons close to the military situation said that King and Nimitz had been the most likely candidates for the command, altho certain of them favored Gen. MacArthur.

Early declined to say whether the decision had been made by the Americans alone or by the British and Americans together.

Eden came directly from London conferences held yesterday with the Polish prime minister and foreign minister, leaving no doubt in many minds that the Russian-Polish dispute is of utmost concern.

Russia has been the unseen influence at the conference since its beginning, altho officials have insisted that soviet lack of representation was not significant and that the conference was chiefly to plan the future of the Japanese war.

Of Vital Importance.

His arrival recalled reports that Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt have been gravely disturbed by Stalin's plans for territorial grabs.

The British gave strong indication that Eden would confer at length with both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, thus discounting their own earlier assertions that he was coming primarily to consult with Mr. Churchill on empire matters in general.

Mr. Roosevelt had announced that he would end his participation in the conference this week-end.

Tell How Arab Sentry Shot Gen. Giraud

ALGIERS, Sept. 14 (AP).—French military authorities are investigating a recent attempt on the life of Gen. Henri Giraud, former co-president with Gen. Charles de Gaulle in French North Africa, by an Arab sentry who thus far has been quoted only as saying: "Allah told me I kill Giraud."

Gen. Giraud.

The explanation of the Arab assailant—a marabout, fanatically religious Moslem—has not been considered sufficient, and the case is being investigated by Gen. Georges Catroux, commissioner of state for North Africa, on the personal orders of Gen. de Gaulle, who later became president of the French national committee after Giraud was dropped.

Aide Tells Story.

The story as told by members of Giraud's entourage is this:

Giraud was returning home late in the evening with his daughter-in-law, the wife of Capt. Henri Giraud.

The two were within 12 or 15 yards of his villa when the Arab fired on Giraud from behind, using a rifle from about a yard away. At the instant of the shot, Giraud turned his head to answer a question and the bullet, instead of going right thru his head, hit the general in the neck on the left side and came out his left cheek near his nose.

In Hospital an Hour.

An aide hurried from the villa at the sound of the shot and the Arab was arrested.

Giraud was taken to a hospital at Mostaganem, near Oran. An hour later he returned to his villa.

Informants said the shooting was not by any member of Giraud's staff, numbering 15, some of whom escaped with him from Germany, but was by a sentry supplied by French military authorities.

It is said there had been five or six previous incidents inside the villa grounds with no serious consequences.

One informant said all rumors as to a motive were untrue, but refused a personal opinion, leaving the point obscure.

Yanks Smash Ahead Along 90 Mile Front

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 15 [Friday] (AP). — The American 1st army opened a full scale assault on the great Siegfried line citadel of Aachen today, driving to within a mile of the city from the south.

American tanks and infantry poured across the German frontier at a number of points in a general offensive extending southward more than 90 miles.

Aachen, [Aix-la-Chapelle] an important industrial city as well as a gateway to the Nazis' prized Ruhr and Rhineland regions, was already partially ringed from the west as well as the south as American armored power plowed thru tank traps and pill boxes and rolled thru half a dozen outlying villages to close in on the border bastion.

Drive Eight Miles Into Germany.

Southward 40 miles the Americans made a new penetration of Germany, driving into Nazi territory some eight miles at a point northwest of Prum. This is 30 miles above Trier, near where the first invasion of Germany was made, and 40 miles west of Coblenz on a main road to that important city.

Near Trier Yankee infantrymen and tanks fought into the Siegfried line for a depth of two miles and widened their breach to four miles thru thinly manned and lightly armed fortifications.

American reconnaissance flyers returning to United States 9th air force headquarters in France reported sighting American vehicles 16 miles inside the German border at one point, not immediately identified.

Seize Three More Villages.

The 1st army in closing on Aachen captured Hergenrath and Gemmenich, Belgian border towns three miles south and three miles southwest, respectively, and seized the Nazi village of Forstebach two miles inside the border and five miles south of Aachen.

The Germans made no effort to hide the success of the American attack, announcing that "with the largest array of forces" at Aachen the invaders had "succeeded in penetrating forefield positions of the westwall at two points."

Calls Progress "Very Satisfactory."

An American staff officer summed up the day's successes as "very satisfactory—very much so!"

Field dispatches described German opposition as still surprisingly light in the Aachen area, with some forts in the Siegfried line not even manned, but the thin Nazi forces northwest of Trier fought like fanatics and had to be blasted from their forts. German villages were burned to the ground to rout their suicide defenders.

Heavy weather drastically reduced aerial support for the advancing troops.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Sept. 14 (AP).—In four days of Philippine raids within range of Japan's ring of airdromes around Manila, American planes from carriers of Adm. William F. Halsey's 3d fleet knocked the Japanese air force out of the sky, accounted for 501 enemy planes, sank or damaged 173 surface craft, and devastated ground defenses.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the complete results today of a victory which cost the Americans relatively light air losses and not a single warship, as Japan's fleet—last seen when it disappeared in mid-June behind the Philippines after defeat off the Marianas—remained in hiding.

Blast 84 More Ships.

Nimitz' latest bulletin boosted previously announced totals by 233 more aircraft and 84 more ships. Two previous bulletins, covering a Sept. 8 attack on Mindanao, and a Sept. 11 raid in the central Philippines, had accounted for 268 planes and 89 surface craft, including 37 sampans.

Today's bulletin extended the raids thru Sept. 12 and 13, but the over-all total of 173 surface craft did not list an unspecified number of sampans accounted for Sept. 12 and 13. It disclosed that American planes returned to Panay, Cebu, and Negros, and visited Leyte.

Yank planes shot down many enemy aircraft as they ran into "considerable" enemy opposition Sept. 11. They found the enemy still formidable the next day thru night time reënforcements. The enemy confined his efforts to intercepting planes.

Smash Plane Defenses.

American planes were effective enough, so the aerial opposition on the third day was "entirely nonexistent."

The breakdown for the newly announced raids showed ships sunk were two large cargo ships, one medium transport, two destroyer escorts, and 35 small craft. Five cargo ships, one medium oiler, 36 small ships and two motor torpedo boats were damaged.

Ashore, United States planes bombed and strafed several air fields, fired oil storage facilities, ammunition dumps, warehouses and other buildings.

The bulletin added that United States carrier aircraft also hit the Palau group of islands east of the Philippines again Sept. 12 with 90 tons of bombs and 165 individual rockets. Targets were selected on the Angaur, Peleliu, and Ngesebus Islands, including coastal guns, warehouses and a lighthouse.

Sink 5 Ships in Kuriles.

ALEUTIAN HDQ., 11th Air Force, Sept. 11 [Delayed]—(AP).—Aleutian-based medium Mitchell bombers sank five Japanese ships and possibly two others off the Kurile Islands today in the biggest kill yet scored in the series of offensive sweeps started last May. Naval Venturas of fleet air wing 4 attacked Araido, Onekotan and Paramushiro Islands.

GENERAL HDQ., Southwest Pacific, Sept. 15 [Friday]—(AP).—Yank invasion forces, heading toward the Philippines, have invaded Morotai, northernmost of the Moluccas Islands within 300 miles of Mindanao—easy fighter plane range—Gen. MacArthur announced today in a special bulletin.

After decoying Japanese ground forces farther south in the Halmahera group by repeated bombings there, MacArthur moved an invasion force around them and landed against light resistance on Morotai, 12 miles off the tip of Halmahera Island.

After going ashore with his men, MacArthur later told them, "You have done well. You now dominate the last stronghold which barred you from the Philippines. The enemy, as usual, was not in the right places at the right time."

Plans Air Base.

The general told a group of officers, "We shall shortly have an air and light naval base here within 300 miles of the Philippines."

MacArthur announced the landing within a few hours after his men accomplished it. It was made at two points on the southwest coast near an unused airdrome.

"We have landed in the Halmaheras [Moluccas], 300 miles beyond New Guinea," MacArthur's bulletin said. "Our ground forces under cover of naval and air bombardment have seized a beachhead on the Island of Morotai, most northern of the Halmahera group.

"The point of landing was unexpected, the enemy having apparently anticipated it in the lower part of the island where he had accumulated very strong forces in heavily defended positions. In bypassing these forces and landing farther to the north, he was taken by surprise and his initial resistance is being rapidly overcome.

"Losses Very Light."

"Our ground force losses up to the present have been very light and we have had no naval or air losses.

"The Halmahera-Philippine line has now been penetrated and enemy conquests to the south are imperilled by threat of envelopment. Rolling up of the remainder of this line would cut off and isolate garrisons in the East Indies, estimated at nearly 200,000 men, comprising the 16th and 19th armies, and would sever vital supply to the Japanese mainland of oil and other war essentials."

Heavy attacks by planes and warships preceded the landings.

Morotai is 350 miles northwest of Sansapor, MacArthur's most advanced base on Dutch New Guinea. Swift establishment of air bases on the island, which lies north of the equator, would enable fighter planes to escort huge forces of land based bombers in raids on the Philippines.

Island 40 Miles Long.

Morotai is a 40 mile long island, with flatlands on the southwest side but largely mountainous, with the highest point more than 4,000 feet.

In one of the heaviest attack days recorded in this Southwest Pacific area, 384 tons of explosives were spread over widely separated objectives from Celebes to Palau, 600 miles east of the Philippines, as MacArthur pressed home his aerial campaign that will lead to the Philippines.

Airdromes on Dutch Celebes to the west meantime were plastered with 157 tons of explosives. Escort fighters damaged small craft and Liberator bombers sank or damaged five small vessels off Amboina and Ceram, other Dutch East Indies islands lying south of the Philippines.

A steady stream of 3d army infantry and armor poured across the river between Toul and Metz, a 21 mile stretch in the Nancy area.

Fighting edged closer to the Moselle west of Metz and in Thionville to the north, late front dispatches said. American infantrymen pushed east of Pont-a-Mousson.

German broadcasts reported that a 3d army spearhead had reached Chateau Salins, about 18 miles east of the Moselle, and that the fortress city of Metz was under heavy attack. Chateau Salins is 24 miles southeast of Metz and 14 miles northeast of Nancy.

Overrun Many Villages.

Numerous German villages were overrun in the area immediately east of Rotgen, the little border town nine miles southeast of Aachen which was the first to fall to Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' 1st army. Yesterday's aggregate advance in that area was about six miles, placing Hodges' troops well east of Aachen.

Headquarters announced a new crossing of the Dutch frontier near Maastricht, 15 miles north of Liege, but did not say whether it was by British or American troops.

Canadian infantry advancing along the northern coast of Belgium were reported fighting fiercely to hold a crossing of the 300-foot wide Leopold canal they made late yesterday at Moerkerke, north of Brugge. They were under heavy enemy artillery fire.

The British 2d army, which took 39,000 prisoners in the first 12 days of September as it drove across Belgium, was pushing the Germans back from the Leopold onto the Schelde canal. Some Nazis were believed to be trapped between the two waterways, as they prematurely blew up many bridges over the Schelde, and the only one left standing was in allied hands.

CRACK BELFORT OUTPOSTS

ROME, Sept. 14 (AP).—American and French forces of the 7th army have cracked three strong outposts of German defenses guarding Belfort and the Belfort gap, but the gap itself is still open for the movement of Nazi units north of the Doubs river and west of the Vosges mountains.

The closing stages of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's campaign in southern France have brought his divisions into the toughest fighting they have encountered so far.

Meet Stiff Opposition.

"Considerable opposition" was encountered by Americans advancing northeast from Vesoul, Gen. Patch's headquarters announced, indicating the importance the Germans are attaching to holding this last line of retreat open. French troops pushing north from Champlitte, 36 miles northwest of Vesoul, are encountering some enemy units who so far have been unable to reach the gap.

On the extreme right wing, after two days of street fighting, other French troops dislodged enemy garrisons from Pont de Roide, 10 miles farther southeast, as well as from the neighboring village of Autechaux. The Nazis threw an armored column into a violent counter-attack near Pont de Roide.

Seventh army columns moving northward along the Soane and upper Marne valleys encountered dwindling opposition for the third straight day and overran Langres, 15 miles south of Chaumont, which was Gen. Pershing's headquarters in the last war.

BOMBERS BLAST BREST; RENEW RAIDS ON REICH

LONDON, Sept. 15 [Friday]—(AP). Allied heavy bombers roared over the continent during the night in a renewed assault on German targets after bad weather had restricted aerial warfare during the day yesterday. The Hungarian radio warned of an attack in the region of Pecs, near the Yugoslav frontier.

Medium bombers shouldered the brunt of the aerial offensive against the enemy yesterday. A 50 minute blasting was given the French port of Brest, where a German garrison still is holding out stubbornly.

Six formations of Marauders and Havocs of the United States 9th air force dropped more than 250 tons of explosives on five enemy fortresses on the Crozon peninsula south of Brest.

Mediums also dropped nearly 2,000,000 safe conduct surrender leaflets on Nazi holdout nests at Dunkerque, Calais, and Boulogne.

LONDON, Sept. 14 (AP).—Ernst Thaelmann, German Communist leader whom Adolph Hitler threw into a concentration camp, was reported by the German radio to have been killed in an allied air attack Aug. 28. The statement aroused skepticism here.

Ernst Thaelmann.

The Nazi broadcast said Thaelmann and Dr. Rudolf Breitscheid, one time Prussian minister of the interior and German delegate to the league of nations, were killed in the Buchenwalde concentration camp near Weimar Aug. 28.

Neither allied nor German reports have mentioned Weimar as a target since March 25. Persons in London suggested the two Socialists were victims of Hitler's campaign to wipe out every possible political leader who might make peace with the allies.

REPORT BRITAIN WON'T APPROVE CURRENCY PACT

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—The agreement reached at the United nations monetary and financial conference last July at Bretton Woods, N. H., which provided for establishment of an 8 billion 800 million dollar international monetary fund to stabilize post-war currencies and a 9 billion 100 million dollar bank for international reconstruction and investment, is headed for shipwreck on the rocks of international suspicion, it was authoritatively learned tonight.

The British have quietly informed this government that the agreement is unsatisfactory to his majesty's government and that it will never be approved by parliament. Altho delegates of 44 nations signed the agreement July 23, they did so with the understanding that they did not have plenipotentiary powers and could do nothing but "submit" the agreement to their governments "without recommendations."

A Cool Reception.

After the British studied the agreement, which was signed on their part by John Maynard Keynes, noted British economist, the government gave the program a cool reception. It was reported on highest authority that the British have since made known their disapproval of the pact to President Roosevelt and have informed him that it will not be approved.

The British action is significant in that it wrecks the program of one of the major New Deal conferences intended to establish a new world Eden. The monetary conference was preceded by the food conference at Hot Springs, Va., and the relief and rehabilitation conference at Atlantic City. It was followed by the security conference now under way among Britain, Russia and the United States at Dumbarton Oaks, historic capital estate.

As the Dumbarton Oaks conference was encountering difficult waters in reaching a formula for the establishment of world peace, by force if necessary, efforts were being made to soft pedal the British upset of the monetary conference agreement. Officials declined to comment on the British coolness toward the program.

On high authority it was learned the British have two major objections to the agreement. The first is that it provides that voting shall be by contribution rather than by country. The United States would outvote other countries by contributing 2 billion 750 million dollars of the international monetary fund as against 1 billion 300 million for Britain and 1 billion 200 million for Russia. China, France, India, Canada, The Netherlands, Belgium, and Australia would contribute the rest of the 8 billion 800 million fund.

Want More Votes.

The British would prefer to have four votes on the disposition of the fund, one for each segment of the empire contributing—Great Britain, India, Canada, and Australia.

The second British complaint is against establishment of the bank in Washington. The British would have established the bank in London in order to maintain London's traditional position as the financial center of the world and to employ the bank as much as possible to bolster the pound sterling thruout the world.

During the Bretton Woods conference American representatives refused to yield on the position that the bank should be located in the country making the largest contribution and that the voting should be commensurate with the size of the contribution. The agreement froze out 24 of the 44 nations participating, as they are making no contribution to the program.

Keynes Ends Opposition.

After a stiff battle Keynes, chairman of the British delegation, withdrew his resolutions opposing the American plan. He returned to Britain with the agreement as British financial circles viewed the announced program with disdain.

It was reported that the British had little hope that the conference would be successful in view of advance reports of the American position and had sent Keynes, who is known in England as Lord Keynes, to this country in the hopes of impressing the American delegation and wooing them to the British point of view.

Kearns' Trial Ends in Deadlock

Mathias Kearns, CIO transport workers' union vice president, whose trial for assault and battery ended yesterday when deadlocked Municipal court jury was discharged.

Plan New Trial

After an hour of deliberation a jury of eight women and four men disagreed in Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller's court late yesterday in the case of Mathias Kearns, international vice president and organizer of the Transport Workers of America [CIO], charged with assaulting Harold A. Cunningham, trustee of the Chicago Motor Coach Employes' fraternity. The court discharged the jury and set Sept. 28 as the date for another trial.

It was alleged that Kearns, 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighing 172 pounds, choked the 5 foot 3 inch, 102 pound Cunningham, and attempted to break his arm in an attack at La Salle and Quincy sts. July 16. Both men are 40.

Cunningham, under the guidance of Assistant State's Atty. Clement Dernbach, told of the attack which he said sent him "reeling along La Salle st. Adolph Zutterman testified he picked Cunningham up in an auto shortly afterward and said he was dazed and disheveled. Kearns told the jurors, with a smile, "I wouldn't pick on Cunningham."

Ben Meyers, Kearn's attorney, made repeated attempts to get into the record a statement that the incident was the result of a controversy between unions but Judge Schiller sustained Dernbach's objections.

MIDWEST YANKS AMONG FIRST TO FIGHT IN REICH

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Sept. 13 [Delayed].—Plenty of midwesterners were among the first doughboys to fight on German soil.

Chicago Captain on Mission.

Then there were Pvt. Charles Proper, 12351 Perry av., Chicago, formerly employed in a hammer shop; Pvt. Ben Dunsky, 4345 S. Paulina st., Chicago, who worked at Swift & Co.; Pvt. Harold Niedenthal, Brookville, Ind.; Pvt. Glen Kumfer, Fort Wayne, Ind., formerly employed at General Electric; Pvt. Arthur Coppock, 216 W. 47th st., Chicago, who worked at the Young Engineering company; Pvt. William Rausa, 2034 N. Kostner av., Chicago, a screw machine operator, and Staff Sgt. James McNeil, Rock Falls, Ill., a shop worker.

Capt. Robert H. Schultz, 7742 Yates av., Chicago, a graduate of Hyde Park High school and the University of Illinois, said his company was given a mission last night of securing a flank, which they did after driving out four German halftracks from a bivouac area and crippling one. Schultz said the night was very lively, with a couple of Germans with "burp" guns [automatic pistols] walking into their area and German armor passing most of the night less than 1,000 yards distant.

Speak to Germans.

Schultz speaks German and so does his runner, Pvt. Max Langer, 2953 N. Albany av., Chicago. They met German civilians who had left their homes when warned by the German army that the Americans would kill them. Schultz and Langer told them to return home, which they did. Civilian reaction on finding the Americans not attempting to kill them was so great that one soldier was given a couple of fried eggs last night, loaned some blankets, and given two more eggs when he returned the blankets this morning.

POLES TO SWAP MINORITIES WITH 2 RED REPUBLICS

MOSCOW, Sept. 14 (AP).—The Polish national committee of liberation has signed an agreement with the Ukrainian and White Russian republics of the soviet union for the exchange, on a voluntary basis, of minority populations living in areas which have been the subject of territorial disputes for centuries, it was announced today.

Hundreds of thousands of Poles, Ukrainians and White Russians may be involved, and land grants and financial aid are to be furnished by the three governments. The agreement affects all Poles who were Polish subjects before Sept. 15, 1939.

More Poles live in the Ukraine and White Russia than in all of the other soviet republics. Others are expected to be permitted to make a similar voluntary transfer later.

WARSAW SIEGE BEGINS AS REDS CAPTURE PRAGA

Shell Germans Across Vistula River.

LONDON, Sept. 15 [Friday]—(AP).—Russian and Polish troops yesterday captured Warsaw's industrial suburb of Praga on the east bank of the Vistula river, and laid siege to the Polish capital, taken by the Germans in the first month of the war five years ago, by shelling enemy positions on the 130 foot bluffs across the wide stream.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 1st White Russian army and the 1st division of Lt. Gen. Zigmund Berling's 1st Polish army crushed the German garrison of Praga after an all night street battle, much of it hand-to-hand fighting, a midnight soviet war bulletin said.

Moscow dispatches early today said Polish patriots still were battling the enemy in Warsaw and attempting to secure west bank stretches of the river to aid a possibly imminent Russian-Polish crossing from the Praga area.

Hold Vistula Bridgeheads.

The Russians and Poles already hold bridgeheads across the Vistula 25 and 100 miles south of Warsaw, and the coming decision on the eastern front is expected to be fought out in the 150 mile strip of plains between that river and Germany's Oder.

The Russians captured 15 localities in the Praga victory, including Zielonka, five miles northeast of Praga; Stary and Nowyrembertow, four miles to the east; Saska Kepa, just below Praga along the river, and Miedzeszyn, eight miles to the southeast.

The capture of Praga, 325 air line miles from Berlin, coincided with other important developments along a front stirring into action at various key points.

Nowogrod Captured.

Driving eight miles northwest of Lomza, Narew river stronghold 75 miles northeast of Warsaw, Gen. G. F. Zakharov's 2d White Russian army captured Nowogrod, only 15 miles south of East Prussia on the road to Allanstein.

Other soviet forces aided by Czech legions improved their positions near Dukla pass on the Polish-Czechoslovak frontier, and Czech sources in Moscow said patrols already had crossed into Slovakia.

In Transylvania Russian and Romanian troops overran 110 more towns and villages, the Russians driving to Turda, 13 miles from Cluj, Transylvanian capital and rail city controling the main escape routes for German and Hungarian troops. Some Romanian troops were reported fighting within 135 miles of Budapest in the western Romanian town of Arad.

Report Hungary Invaded.

It is possible that Romanian troops already have crossed the prewar Hungarian border since a Budapest bulletin told of fighting east of Szeged, which is six miles inside Hungary and only 98 miles from the Hungarian capital.

Farther south Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Partisans were reported by the Yugoslav radio to have made a junction with the Red army, and Berlin said that Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's 3d Ukraine army had crossed into Greece from capitulated Bulgaria.

GERMANS PUT FULL ARMS INTO GOTHIC DEFENSE

Gird for Big Drive by Allied Forces.

ROME, Sept. 14 (AP).—Field Marshal Albert Kesselring was officially reported throwing the combined weight of all his arms into battle tonight in an effort to hold the Gothic line against the reinforced United States 5th army and the British 8th.

Lt. Gen. Mark Clark's 5th army troops struck heavily at the great barrier before the Po valley and Italy's industrial heart. An undisclosed number of American divisions and several fresh British divisions trampled over Nazi outposts on a 25 mile front from Pistola to Lucca, northwest of Florence.

19 Nazi Divisions in Line.

Eight Nazi divisions were reported opposite the 5th army and 11 divisions opposite the 8th army, whose front runs eastward from Florance to the Adriatic.

The German divisions are banking more on fortifications and guns of all kinds than on man power to halt the 5th army thrust.

Nazi resistance was officially described as "increasing tremendously" as concrete emplacements, mine fields, trenches, tank obstacles, partly buried tanks and "everything conceivable to make positions strong" loomed ahead of the allied forces.

"Tough Fighting Ahead."

Some vanguards had thrust into the highly fortified zone and officers said bluntly that "tough fighting" was ahead.

Fierce fighting continued in the Gemmano area in the Adriatic sector. British and Canadian troops advanced 1,000 yards in the Coriano-San Savino area, using flame throwers against dug-in tanks. Opposition was described as heavy.

TRIBUNE WRITER SEES YANKS RIP SIEGFRIED LINE

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SIEGFRIED LINE, Germany, Sept. 14.—Doughboys, tanks, and engineers today punched a deep hole in the Siegfried line south of Aachen.

Shortly after noon the doughboys poured thru the opening, cleaning the Germans out of dense woods on either side of a road. Engineers with T. N. T. and sledge hammers smashed five rows of reinforced concrete pyramids called dragon's teeth to let the tanks supporting the infantry rumble thru.

In the wake of the doughboys and just behind the first tanks, The Tribune correspondent walked thru the battered area. In the lead tanks, which had knocked out immense pillboxes, were many Chicagoans and other Illinoisans. Among the engineers busy with sledge hammers breaking up the dragon's teeth were other Illinois Yanks.

"You can tell the folks you saw us actually breaking up the Siegfried line with hammers," laughed former Tribune newsboy Pvt. Harold Carlson, 8256 Emerald av., Chicago.

Tanks Knock Out Pillboxes.

T. N. T. charges had been laid by Pvt. Gerald Anderson, Rockford, Ill. Soldiers needed a lot of explosives to blast loose the five rows of pyramids. The dragon's teeth ranged in height from about two feet to four and a half feet.

But before these engineers could get to work the pillboxes, whose fire could cover the dragon's teeth and the wide anti-tank ditches, had to be put out of action. This job was taken over by both light and medium tanks.

Pvt. Ernest B. Olejniczak, 3025 S. Loomis st., Chicago, a gunner, and Pvt. Wendell E. Moncelle, Colfax, Ill., a machine gunner, were in the lead light tank and knocked out one pillbox with their 37 millimeter gun. Others among the crews of the light tanks were Pvt. Charles Komarek, 5619 W. Cermak rd., Cicero, Ill.; Corp. James E. Rispante, 4102 Oketo av., Chicago, and Pvt. Richard Brand, 16 E. 154th st., Harvey, Ill.

Illinoisans Smash Forts.

Two huge pillboxes were knocked out by Corp. Harold Hermanson, Capron, Ill.; Corp. Emile Piper, 39th st. and Park av., Downers Grove, Ill., and Corp. Edward Snider, Elmhurst, Ill., with the 75 mm. guns of their Sherman tanks.

They lay back, hull down, just below the crest of a hill. With their guns peeping over the top the three opened fire, smashing shells directly into the steel apertures of the big pillboxes.

One pillbox had been abandoned by the Germans. From another came six soldiers: a woman, and a 10 year old girl. The woman spat at an American doughboy, who ran up to capture the soldiers, calling him "Swine." Her home nearby had been set on fire by our shells.

Snider's tank was the first to smash into the Siegfried line at this point. With him were Corp. Paul Clark, 1522 Erie st., Hammond, Ind., and Privates Richard Angelica, 11111 Edbrooke av., Chicago, and William Martin, South Gilford, Mo.

Grassy Mound a Pillbox.

We walked down and thru the rows of dragon's teeth. They had been searched for mines, but oddly enough there were no mine fields. Then came the sharp crack of artillery and our shells whistled overhead to fall just beyond a nearby woods, where our doughboys were having a fight with German infantry.

Off to our right a black and white cow grazed slowly across a green field. Another had walked up on top of a grassy mound. This mound was a pillbox which tankers had neutralized.

Find Nazis' Money.

Opposite another pillbox was a German roadhouse and a filling station. But its pump stood empty and shattered windows gaped vacantly on a crowd of happy doughboys standing around the doorway waiting to move up.

A lieutenant came from the pillbox with a sheaf of German reichsmarks, an abandoned payroll. Lt. Col. Herbert C. Hicks, Spartansburg, S. C., stuffed a handful into his blouse as souvenirs.

"We haven't had time to hang out our washing on the Siegfried line," he laughed, "but this sure is a great day for my outfit. We've been fighting the Germans since Tunisia and now we've punched a hole right into their homeland."

ALLIES PUT PEACE TERMS FOR BULGAR INTO FINAL SHAPE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14 (AP).—Armistice terms for Bulgaria are being put into final shape by the Anglo-American-soviet European advisory commission, it was reported today. They are expected to be more severe than the terms imposed on Romania, because Bulgaria was slower to turn against Germany.

The 20 point Romanian document, signed in Moscow and made public by the three allied governments, is considered here to be relatively lenient. The leniency is attributed to the fact that when Romania broke with Germany her troops lined up to fight the Nazis.

CHAOS MARKS ITALY'S WHOLE ECONOMIC SETUP

System Lies Prostrate Under Blows of War.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 14.—The Italian economy today might be likened to a badly beaten prizefighter reeling under steady, smashing blows and dimly wondering in his shaken brain where the next punch will land.

Its industrial centers and hydro-electric plants, first heavily damaged by allied bombing, are being systematically demolished by the Germans as they retreat. Its once lucrative foreign exchange and exports have dwindled to a mere trickle. Its once-proud merchant marine is divided between the Germans, the allies and the bottom of the sea. The worst wave of unemployment in its history is looming.

Its finances are in chaos with German and allied occupational currency flooding the nation. Health standards are plunging toward zero. Food is still scarce. What lies ahead for this shattered wreck of a nation only Washington, London and possibly Russia know.

Italians Feel Hopeless.

The Italians themselves, their energies and independence sapped for more than two decades by the fascist government which did their thinking for them, can conceive of no solution to their problems except international charity, lend-lease, and the united nations rehabilitation and relief administration [UNRRA].

Financing would be the first problem and it is a huge one. For more than 20 years Mussolini tried to solve unemployment by adding untold thousands to the already top-heavy pay rolls and creating syndicates, corporations, and coöperatives to absorb other thousands of workers. In the late years an army out of all proportion to the country's resources added its burden to the exchequer. Graft and corruption increased the weight.

Currency Is Puzzle.

Just what Italy's true financial condition was in the last few years people never dared to ask and Mussolini never dared to tell them so that must be discovered first. The currency is scrambled with three different kinds in circulation.

There's the Italian lira itself, backed by the doubtful sovereignty of the state, allied currency for a billion, backed by the armed power of the allies and, for the moment, by nothing else, and finally the German printed lire now backed by nothing at all. Who is to redeem all this probably will take years to decide.

Agriculture has its own problems. Never self-sufficient in this respect, Italy will be harder hit in the next few years than ever before. Allied authorities, for instance, estimate that this year's harvest will be only 40 per cent of those of the pre-war years.

Lack Gas and Oil.

Many threshing machines cannot operate because of the lack of belting, gasoline and oil. And if a truck blows a tire it is out for the duration; horses and mules were taken by the armies for draft purposes and oxen for food; troop movements swamp the railroads.

In addition, war has made farming a highly dangerous occupation. Hundreds of peasants have been killed in their fields by German mines planted to hinder allied advances and undiscovered by the Americans and British engineers.

Industry Faces Big Task.

Italian industrialists face an equally stupendous task. The Fascists are not here any more to do their thinking and planning for them. Their plants have been damaged by allied bombing and then systematically demolished or carted off by the German army as it retreated. But the biggest stumbling block is that thruout Italy industry has been geared to electric power and the retreating Germans concentrated on the destruction of electric utilities on their way north.

Allied military government [AMG] authorities, after a careful study, state that 94 per cent of the vast hydro-electric system built up under the Fascists has been destroyed, 80 per cent so completely that not even parts of the wrecked machinery can be salvaged to use on other equipment.

Employment Problem.

The effect of this destruction of industry on employment is not evident as yet, of course. Thousands of Italian men are employed at present by the allied armies, other thousands are in German labor battalions and doing war work in Germany itself and an unrevealed number which must run into hundreds of thousands are prisoners of war.

What will happen when these men are thrown back upon the employment market no one knows.

Health problems caused by the war add their weight to the already huge burden. In their skilful demolition of the hydro-electric dams the Germans flooded thousands of acres of reclaimed lowlands. A widespread outbreak of malaria is an ever present danger altho the allies are attempting to prevent it by dusting the flooded areas with paris green by planes.

Typhus Epidemic Feared.

With soap and water still scarce in the cities and towns typhus is smoldering and ready to break out at any moment. Tuberculosis is a threat with an estimated rate of one infection out of every five persons in the city of Rome. Medical supplies, like everything else, are scarce.

Allied experts estimate that Italy will have to spend 3 billion dollars on reconstruction in the first 12 months after the war in order to make an efficient start on the road back toward a livable life.

CHINESE RECAPTURE TENGCHUNG IN BIG BURMA RD. VICTORY

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 14 (AP).—The Chinese high command announced today the recapture of Tengchung from the Japanese, saying this "marks another high point in the effort to clear the area west of the Salween river and removes another obstacle to reopening of the Burma road."

It was four months and three days ago that the Chinese, aided by American elements and the United States 14th air force, opened the Salween push.

Tengchung lies 35 miles from the Burma border and 65 miles west of the Salween river bridge.

Aircraft of the United States 14th and 10th air forces and Chinese artillery and mortar crews virtually pulverized Tengchung.

[A broadcast dispatch from the Japanese Domei agency said that approximately 20 Thunderbolt fighter planes raided the "vicinity" of Samshui, river port 25 miles west of Canton in Kwangtung province, before noon today (Japanese time).]

Mrs. Margaret Mayhood, 41, of 1909 Warren av., who said she turned in a fire alarm last month to get projection from an erstwhile lover's unwelcome kisses, was given a continuance yesterday until next Thursday by Judge Frank E. Donoghue in Women's court.

MOROTAI ISLAND 300 MILES FROM THE PHILIPPINES

Morotai, where Gen. MacArthur's forces landed yesterday in their thrust toward the Philippines, is a rugged island more than 40 miles long and from 13 to 26 miles wide with mountains reaching 3,000 feet.

It is the northern most of the Halmahera [Moluccas] group, which lies almost midway on a curving line drawn from Sansapor, the most advanced allied base on New Guinea, to Mindanao, the southern most of the Philippine islands. Morotai is approximately 350 miles northwest of Sansapor and 300 miles from Mindanao.

Mountains Volcanic.

Vegetation is prolific in the Halmahera group, which forms part of the Dutch East Indies, and the mountains are volcanic in some sections.

The natives, who are mostly of immigrant Malayan stock, grow large quantities of rice, but the sago tree, which produces a starch used in food and in textile manufacture, is of greater importance to them.

Traded with Chinese.

Before the war they carried on trade with the Chinese and Macassars with these products and pearl shells collected from the sea. With Morotai, the Halmahera group has a population of about 102,000.

Yanks meeting with these natives will find them mostly forest people living only in shelters. Their usual garb is a loin cloth and a headdress.

While head hunters at one time, inhabitants of the islands have become a gentle race with a tendency toward violence when motivated by revenge. Most of Morotai's population is pagan altho there are a few Christians. Many dialects are spoken.

CANNON BIGGER THAN FAMED '75' ARM U. S. PLANES

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 14 (AP).—Maj. Gen. C. T. Harris Jr., commanding general of the Aberdeen [Md.] proving ground, disclosed today that cannon even larger than the celebrated "75" are being mounted in American aircraft to help blast a path to victory.

Gen. Harris made his disclosure in a review of weapons of this war, accompanying presentation to the University of Cincinnati of the ordnance distinguished service award.

The award he presented to the University of Cincinnati was for its work in helping establish an ordnance gauge laboratory in 1936.

RUSSIANS WON'T JOIN JAP WAR, EX-AID SAYS

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 14 [Special].—Russia will not join the war against Japan after the fall of Germany, Dr. George B. Cressey of Syracuse university declared today. Dr. Cressey recently returned from China where he represented the U. S. state department as a visiting professor. Dr. Cressey was one of the experts employed by the Russian government a few years ago in the preparation of the soviet atlas. In a speech before the Faculty club he cited these reasons for his belief that Russia will not fight Japan:

1—Russia is almost worn out by the war.

2—If the United States and England go ahead with their plans to knock out Japan, Russia can gain as much by staying out of the fight as by participating in it.

3—The Russian port of Vladisvostok is in an uncomfortable position with reference to war with Japan.

COL. 'JOCK' WHITNEY ESCAPES FROM NAZIS AS TRAIN IS BOMBED

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, Italy, Sept. 14.—Col. John H. [Jock] Whitney, Mediterranean allied air forces officer whom the Germans captured in southern France on Aug. 21, escaped from a moving train that the allies had bombed and has returned to his organization, it was announced today.

Col. John H. Whitney.

Col. Whitney said the German units with which he traveled were dive bombed, shelled by allied artillery and attacked by Maquis [patriots]. He came thru in good physical condition.

Wife Gets Official News.

New York, Sept. 14 (AP).—Mrs. John Hay Whitney, the former Betsey Cushing, said tonight the war department had informed her that her husband had escaped from the Nazis and had returned to his base.

JAPS STUBBORN, SAYS SOLDIER OF MARAUDER UNIT

Tech. Sgt. Russell Hill, 21, who served three and one-half months in the Burma jungles with Merrill's Marauders, is spending a furlough in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill of 5500 Haddon av. Sgt. Hill, who was with the infantry in New Caledonia early in the war, was a volunteer member of Merrill's Marauders and participated in a 750 mile march thru the jungles with that unit. He said the Japs are shrewd, stubborn fighters, and he expressed admiration for the Chinese soldiers. The Hills said they are having open house in their home from 3 to 10 p. m., Sept. 24, for Sgt. Hill's friends. He has two brothers in the army.

50 NEGROES PUT ON TRIAL IN ARMS LOADING MUTINY

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 14 [Special].—Fifty Negro sailors went on trial before a military court on Yerba Buena Island in San Francisco bay today on a charge of mutiny for failure to handle ammunition in the loading of navy ships. Their alleged refusal which led to the court martial was recorded three weeks after the Port Chicago munitions explosion in which more than 300 lives were lost.

Lt. Comdr. Falthan Watson, senior judge advocate of the 12th naval district staff headquarters, said this was the first time in naval court history that 50 men had been tried at one time.

Commander Tells of Order.

The first witness, Comdr. Joseph R. Tobin, commanding officer of the naval barracks on Mare Island, testified he had received word on Aug. 9 that the enlisted men had refused to work.

"I personally ordered the men to go to work," he said, "and when they refused I advised them that no one is able, myself as an officer, my superior, or any enlisted man, to refuse to obey a lawful order."

Comdr. Tobin said the men who went back to work were not held but that the 50 who still refused were put under guard.

Death Is Maximum Penalty.

According to Lt. Comdr. Watson, some of the men flatly refused to go to work, while others said:

"I don't refuse to work, but I'm afraid of ammunition."

The trial is expected to take at least a week. Counsel from the judge advocate's office has been assigned to every 10 defendants. Rear Adm. Hugo W. Osterhaus, retired officer, is president of the court and Lt. Comdr. James F. Coakley is judge advocate.

The maximum penalty in case of conviction is death.

OFFICIAL OF JOLIET URGES 32 MILE MAIN FOR CHICAGO WATER

Commissioner Joseph F. Whalen of the Joliet city council said yesterday he will ask the council to consider plans for constructing a 32 mile water main from Chicago. Engineers, who have estimated the cost at "within $5,000,000," will have their plans ready next week, he said.

Joliet must consider buying water from Chicago, Whalen said, because the subterranean water table supplying Joliet wells is disappearing. The level has dropped 95 feet in the last six years in the city's best well, he said. J. J. Woltman, acting chief of the Illinois state water survey division, has recommended that Joliet buy Chicago water as a more economical step than attempting to find new wells.

Whalen said Joliet could use 15,000,000 gallons of Lake Michigan water daily. Joliet charges a minimum water rate of $1.98 for 600 cubic feet, and Chicago's cubic foot rate is 60 cents for 1,000. Whalen said he did not think Joliet would have to increase its rate to obtain Chicago water. He proposed constructing a 42 inch main from 73d st. and Western av. Public Works Commissioner Hewitt said he was not prepared to discuss the feasibility of the scheme.

Report Germans Prepare for Defense of Denmark

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 14 (AP).—The three largest hotels in Copenhagen were ordered cleared of civilians today presumably so high German officers could use them, the Danish press service reported. The agency said a division of German troops had reached Fyn Island in the Baltic and added: "Recent German preparations in Denmark indicate that Jutland, Fyn, and Sjaelland [or Seeland, largest Danish island] will be considered part of the European fortress and therefore defended."

FRENCH TANKS --AND THROATS-- SUDDENLY DRY

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 7TH ARMY, Sept. 13 [Delayed].—It is a characteristic thing that the French "ran out of gasoline" coincidental with their arrival in the great wine country.

The French had been moving a toute vitesse [with full speed] as they frequently expressed it—up thru the Midi, and now they are hurrying again in the Dijon sector, but for a short period recently there was a pause in their war which was known as the drinker's hour.

There were some token phrases of lamentation when gas tanks oddly ran dry near the Cote d'Or, the golden slope which stretches from Beaune to south of Dijon. But palates were drier and the French steeled themselves to the chore of sampling the Burgundies.

None tampered with vineyards, but there was plenty of fine Meursault and Pommard and Chambertin in bars and cellars along the way.

The commanders, ensconced in a big chateau, pored over their maps amid glasses sparkling with fine vintages, and the junior officers and enlisted men in the fields washed down their rations with generous appropriations.

"Many of us never had been to the Cote d'Or before," a French sergeant told me, "and since we are winning the war anyway it is proper to enjoy ourselves en route."

Amour can always give a Frenchman reason to pause. Near Nuits-St. Georges I saw an army motorcyclist, carrying important dispatches, come to a quick stop when a pretty girl greeted him. If they had not known each other before they certainly should have. They went into a kissing deadlock.

Rumors drive me nuts!

I've heard lots of talk. Now let's have some facts. Here I am, all steamed up for a good suit of clothes. Yes, I've got the money. But I made it the hard way. Get my drift?

WE: Shoot! We're listening!

HE: Well, how come Bond's dish up such a swell story about Rochester quality plus fine woolens—and then tack on such a low price? I always had the notion that Rochester tailored clothes were expensive.

WE: That's no rumor—you're right. Suits with a Rochester pedigree do belong in the blue chips. They're made better than most—they fit better, and usually wear longer.

HE: Then explain that $32.00 Bond price—and make it good!

WE: That's easy. Bond is the only retail clothier with a self-owned tailoring plant in Rochester. Your Bond store is part of that plant. Catch on? Bond is at one end. You're at the other. There's no outside maker in-between to collect his extra profit. No round-about system to add on extra costs. You pocket the difference! Simple, isn't it?

HE: You bet it is. I've always wondered why more men wear Bond clothes than any other clothes in America. Now I know. Thanks!

Holds Living Costs Are Above U. S. Figures.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14 (AP).—Organized labor won two major points in its battle to crack the Little Steel formula when the majority of a war labor board panel held today that no legislative barrier prevents wage boosts above the formula, and that living costs have risen more than is shown by the bureau of labor statistics.

The war labor board, receiving the panel's report, set Sept. 26-27 for hearings on the matter of wages in relation to living costs, and announced it would devote the week of Oct. 9 to executive sessions on the question.

Since the board can only make recommendations to President Roosevelt, this raised the possibility that the whole question of easing present wage ceilings might land at the White House for decision just prior to the election.

WLB Power Questioned.

The two industry members of the panel joined with public and labor members in stating that WLB has no power to grant the requested wage increases, but dissented from their colleagues' view that the President can do so. They said that the question whether the President has the right to change the Little Steel formula is a question of law beyond the panel's scope.

Technically, the board's Sept. 26 hearing will be on a move by the AFL to boost wage ceilings while on Sept. 27 it will consider the report by its panel on demands by the CIO United Steel workers union for a 17 cent hourly wage boost.

In effect, the cases merge, however, since the principal argument in each is that living costs have gone up more than the Little Steel formula recognizes and hence workers are entitled to higher wages.

Concerning the index of the bureau of labor statistics, the panel report said:

"It does not show the full war time effect on the cost of living of such factors as lowered quality, disappearance of low-priced goods, and forced changes in housing and eating away from home. It does not measure changes in total living costs—the total amount families spend for living."

The panel did not hazard any guess as to how much living costs have advanced. The labor statistics index shows a 24.4 per cent increase from January, 1941, to June, 1944.

Already at Ceiling.

The steelworkers already have received all the wage increases to which they are entitled under the Little Steel formula, cornerstone of the wage stabilization policy. It permits wage boosts 15 per cent above the January, 1941, level to compensate for higher living costs.

The steel panel, created as a "fact finding" agency, made no recommendations for or against any of the 13 steel union demands which the 86 steel companies involved in the case estimated would cost them in excess of 700 million dollars.

The wage increase alone would cost $220,300,000, the companies testified, while the union estimated it at $211,800,000.

Cost Put at 676 Millions.

The companies estimated that seven of the union demands—general wage increase, fund for steel workers in the fighting forces, guaranteed annual wage, increased vacations with pay, sick leave with pay, shift premiums, and group insurance, would cost a total of $676,800,000 annually.

The unions estimated the cost, excluding the guaranteed annual wage for which it submitted no figures, at $307,000,000.

The steel panel had little favorable to say about the steel workers' No. 2 demand—a guaranteed annual wage. The panel stressed the seasonal fluctuations in the industry, over which the industry has no control.

The panel found it a "proper matter" for the board to consider the vacation request—one week for those with less than three years' service and two weeks for those with longer employment.

Cool to Severance Pay.

It was lukewarm about the severance pay provision—four weeks' pay for those with one to three years' service and eight weeks for those with more than three years' experience in the plant, if the plant should be closed permanently.

Neither did the panel show great enthusiasm for the sick leave proposals of the union.

JAILED FOR WFA VIOLATION.

John Jurca was sentenced to 30 days in jail yesterday by Judge John P. Barnes in federal District court and the Turner Dairy company, 2800 S. Christiana av., of which he is president, was fined $500 for violating a war food administration order. Jurca was given five days to straighten out his affairs before going to jail.

BROWDER TO TESTIFY ON CAMPAIGN FUNDS BEFORE HOUSE GROUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—Earl Browder, Communist party leader in the United States, will appear next Tuesday before the house committee investigating political campaign expenditures, Chairman Anderson [D., N. M.] announced today.

Earl Browder.

Anderson said Browder will be questioned about the finances of the Communist Party association, which was organized after the Communist party was officially dissolved. Browder is known to be closely associated with Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, who already has been quizzed about his group's slush fund activities.

The committee announced receipt of a letter from Gerald L. K. Smith, founder of the America First party, which asserted that "none of our candidates spent any money" in obtaining political nominations in 1944. The America First party has no connection with the America First organization which disbanded after the country went to war.

EXPECTS WARD HEARING TO LAST ANOTHER WEEK

Hearings into grievances of discharged employes of Montgomery Ward & Co. probably will last another week, Judge William L. Knous of Denver, special war labor board arbitrator who is hearing a series of 41 cases, said yesterday. Sessions are being held days and evenings at the La Salle hotel. Adolph Loresch, 36, secretary and treasurer of local 20 of the United Mail Order, Warehouse, and Retail Employes union [CIO] testified yesterday he was discharged last January for "neglect of duty" because he took 10 minutes off from his job as stock man for breakfast with the permission of his superiors. He said the privilege was extended to many workers who reported before 7:30 a. m.

PAINT FIRE DAMAGE IS $2,000.

Fire which started in a paint spraying booth at the Mitchell Manufacturing company, 1712 S. Michigan av., yesterday caused damage estimated at $2,000. Spontaneous combustion was blamed.

RWLB APPROVES RAISES TOPPING 'LITTLE STEEL'

The regional war labor board yesterday allowed wage increases of 2 to 25 cents an hour to foundry workers in one Illinois area and one Wisconsin area. The decision granted increases exceeding the "Little Steel" formula less than two days after it was revealed in Washington, D. C., that President Roosevelt planned to modify controls and raise wages as a campaign move.

The decision, recommended by the wage stabilization committee, granted "substantial increases" to several thousand workers in the Springfield-Decatur [Ill.] and the Racine-Kenosha [Wis.] labor market areas, said Edgar L. Warren, chairman.

Consider Grants to Other Areas.

Warren said the committee is considering similar moves for Chicago and several other areas of the six-state region. Chicago and Racine-Kenosha have been called the worst bottlenecks in foundry production in the nation, and the army several times has said lag in output has interfered with adequate supplies for fighting fronts.

The board granted yesterday's increases over the protests of representatives of plant management, who two weeks ago told the committee wage boosts would not bring an increase in workers and that only a few plants "in isolated instances" were in serious need of new employes.

Spokesmen for the regional board said the action was the first in which blanket industry-wide increases above the "Little Steel" formula limits had been given in entire labor market areas, altho individual plants have received permission to go beyond the limits to remove inequalities and for other reasons.

Details of Increases.

The common labor rate in the Wisconsin area was raised from 70 to 80 cents an hour, the board announced, with 5 cent raises in higher groups. In the Springfield-Decatur district the starting rate for common labor was put at 62 cents an hour, an increase of 7 cents. Coremakers and other skilled workers were raised from 80 cents to $1.05 an hour.

Warren said the increases were not automatic for every plant, but that the board will "usually" approve applications.

The board, he said, voted down a union proposal which would have set the foundry labor rate in every area 10 cents above corresponding scales in the metal trades. Labor members of the board voted against the new rates as too low, Warren said, but later joined with public members in approving them. Industry members approved the Illinois decision, but voted against the other.

Bird Flock Flies Against Radio Tower; 300 Killed

A flock of more than 300 black and red birds was found dead yesterday at the foot of a radio transmitter tower near Elmhurst. Guards said the birds were not electrocuted but apparently flew against the towers and guy lines just before dawn with such force that they were killed.

TRUMAN'S POSE AS A REFORMER FAILED TO CLICK

Move to Control County Balked by Legislature.

[Harry S. Truman, Democratic nominee for Vice President, says voters should judge candidates by their "experience." This article, the third in a series, continues the story of Truman's "experience" while he was the principal administrative officer of Jackson county, Missouri, from 1926 to 1934.)

BY CARL WIEGMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 14.—During his career as a Kansas City politician, Harry S. Truman frequently made strong speeches in the cause "of good government." At the same time he was coöperating with the notorious Pendergast machine, which plucked him from obscurity and made him presiding judge of the Jackson county court in 1926.

While Truman preached economy, his administration permitted waste, extravagance, and other abuses that were not corrected until the machine lost full control of the county.

In Missouri, the county court is not a judicial body. Its functions are similar to those of the county board of commissioners in other states. The three members of the court also sit as the board of equalization to hear tax appeals, and therefore have charge of the county's tax machinery.

Preached for Tax Reform.

While Truman was presiding judge, he attended luncheons sponsored by the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce and civic clubs and made speeches advocating tax reform and reorganization of the county government. Such measures, he said, would save half a million dollars a year.

Truman even went to Jefferson City, the capital, and tried to win passage of legislation to abolish five elective county offices and to place the chief authority in the hands of his county court. The legislators were suspicious. They recalled that back in 1924, they had given Kansas City a new charter setting up a city manager system, which was expected to provide a nonpartisan, nonpolitical, and scientific government.

The legislators recalled also that Pendergast and his cohorts seized control of the new city administration in the first election held under the new charter. The legislators realized they had only simplified for the machine the problem of controling the city. With this in mind, Truman's plan to simplify the problem of controling the county government was sidetracked.

New Regime Brings Reform.

Thereafter, Jackson county struggled along with its finances in a muddled state until George S. Montgomery, a Kansas City business man, became presiding judge in 1939. Under the same antiquated form of government so often criticized by Truman, Judge Montgomery put into effect savings of several hundred thousand dollars a year.

One of his first acts was to discharge Fred Canfil, whom Truman had appointed "director of buildings," an office not provided for by statute. The law did provide for a superintendent of buildings, and that office also was filled, but Canfil, as Truman's right hand man, took over the duties and perquisites. In the year after Canfil was ousted, operating expenses of the courthouse were cut from $183,000 to $97,827.

Judge Montgomery also cut the interest rate on tax anticipation warrants from 2½ to 1½ per cent, saving the county a large sum in interest on the $2,761,300 debts accumulated during the administration of Truman and his successor, David E. Long.

No Scales to Weigh Purchases.

Under Truman, there were no scales in any of the four county institutions to determine whether honest weights were given on county purchases. Judge Montgomery introduced scales. The county started to get its money's worth on everything it bought.

While business methods were being introduced in the county government, reform groups succeeded in getting a reassessment of all real estate in the county. The new survey revealed that 4,600 properties were not on the tax books at all, and hundreds of properties were listed as unimproved when in fact buildings had been erected on them and their assessments should have been greatly increased.

In Truman's regime tax hustlers made deals to split tax cuts obtained thru familiarity with the ropes at the courthouse. Business men, fearing reprisals thru the taxing system, dared not object to the machine's method of running their government.

Road Claim Refuted.

In several speeches delivered since he became a senator, Truman has claimed credit for a 10 million dollar county highway building program accomplished while he was presiding judge. His critics explain that this program was directed by a bi-partisan board of prominent engineers, who kept Truman and his friends from meddling with their work.

Thomas J. Pendergast, boss of the machine, always encouraged Truman and other underlings to push highway projects because they brought money into the till of Pendergast's Ready Mixed Concrete company and various paving and construction companies owned by the boss and his partners.

Everybody agrees that the concrete supplied by the Ready Mixed company was good concrete. If it had been poor quality stuff, most of Kansas City would now be falling apart. It has been charged, and never denied, that every cubic yard of concrete used in every public building erected in Kansas City from 1927 to 1939 was supplied by Pendergast's Ready Mixed company. This includes the 4 million dollar county courthouse, erected while Truman was the head of the county government.

Creek Bed Paved.

There is also the case of Brush creek, a small stream that wanders thru Kansas City for about 15 miles. It now has a concrete floor about 50 feet wide and 18 inches thick, paid for by the taxpayers. Naturally, many private contractors also used Pendergast concrete, for various reasons.

One of Pendergast's closest associates was Michael Ross, the boss of Kansas City's north side and president of the Ready Mixed Concrete company. Ross also was a stockholder in the P. R. Realty company, the Centropolis Crusher company, the Midwest Paving company, the Widwest Pre-cote company, the W. A. Ross Construction company, and Spillway Builders, Inc.

Ross started his career as a general storekeeper, but when he died in 1937, he left $284,556 in currency in safe deposit boxes, in addition to 22 pieces of real estate and stocks valued at $210,000. These figures are taken from the inventory of his estate, on file in the Probate court of Jackson county.

$443,550 Tax Evasion.

Pendergast himself made fabulous profits, it was shown when the federal government placed him on trial for evading $443,550 income taxes. He was convicted and sentenced to 15 months in prison and fined $10,000. Last spring he was released on probation, the terms of which provide he must not participate in politics, gamble, or leave the city except for urgent reasons.

When Sen. Truman, in Washington, heard that the boss had been sentenced to prison, he remarked: "I won't desert a ship in distress."

[Tomorrow's article in this series will tell how Truman became a senator, when he really wanted to be county collector.]

DEMAND BRITAIN DISCLOSE HELP GIVEN WARSAW

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A demand that the British government tell the public the facts regarding aid given to Poland, particularly in the battle of Warsaw, was made by 16 Conservative party members of parliament in a statement issued tonight. What the British government has done and is doing should be made clear, the statement said, adding, "It should be known what limitations, if any, have been imposed upon its activities and by whom."

Where such limitations arose from the action of other governments, the statement continued, "the public should be assured that our government has made crystal clear what it thought was right and desirable."

Army Head Criticizes Allies.

A debate on the Polish situation has been urged repeatedly in the house of commons by M. P.s of all parties. The debate was not permitted but the spotight was thrown on British aid to Warsaw recently by the Polish commander in chief, Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, who alleged that the allies lost 27 pilots in carrying supplies to the Polish capital and that this was a small number compared with the number of planes the allies have.

This was denied by the British, who said that Russia's refusal to grant them the use of air ports limited the aid that could be flown to Warsaw. A few days ago the Polish government here warmly thanked the British for help given the Poles defending the capital.

Sosnkowski, as a result of his accusation that the allies did not lend adequate help, is expected to resign or be dismissed by the president of the Polish republic within a week.

Lublin Move Assailed.

Polish circles here protested tonight against the appointment of M. Beirut, communist, as president of the republic in Lublin, Poland. The appointment was engineered by the soviet sponsored national committee of Polish liberation under the 1921 constitution.

Polish commentators here said the constitution provides that in the case of a vacancy in the presidency the speaker or chairman of the diet shall act as president temporarily. As there is no parliament now, the liberation committee argues that its place has been taken by the so-called home national council, of which Beirut is chairman. This is disputed by the Poles in London.

24 AIRMEN LIVE THRU WAR—ONLY TO DIE IN WRECK

3 Trainmen Also Killed in Indiana Crash.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 14 (AP).—Twenty-four air force veterans who had completed up to 50 missions in overseas combat were among 27 persons killed early today in a head-on collision of a passenger train and an express train on a single track three miles north of here. About 40 others, including 15 more air force veterans, were injured.

The soldiers, who had just completed 30 day furloughs, were en route to a redistribution center in Florida. They occupied the first three Pullman cars of the 14 coach Chicago and Eastern Illinois Dixie Flyer, which crashed into an express and mail train bound from Florida to Chicago. The express carried no passengers.

The only coaches to hurtle from the tracks after the collision were those carrying the soldiers. Thirty-nine noncommissioned air force officers occupied the first coach and 34 commissioned officers were in the two following Pullmans.

Crushed in Berths.

The first coach burst wide open, spewing torn bodies along the right of way. Many soldiers were crushed in their berths. Air medals and Purple Heart decorations were strewn among the wreckage. The other two Pullman cars, two baggage coaches, the locomotive and tender piled up along the tracks.

The train crashed at 2:20 a. m. in a heavy fog which enveloped the scene of death and destruction and hindered rescuers trying to locate the cries of the injured. Passengers who were unhurt helped volunteers pull the dead and injured from the wreckage. Three of the dead were members of the Dixie crew.

Doctors and ambulances arrived from Terre Haute shortly after the crash. Red Cross workers set up a first aid station and members of the office of civilian defense joined city and state police searching for dead and injured.

Wakes Up in the Aisle.

Army Lt. E. B. Owens of Chicago, on the Dixie, said: "I was asleep in the second Pullman. All I remember was waking up in the aisle. Our car was derailed and tipped over somewhat. I counted 15 bodies as they were removed from the wreckage. At least two or three more were in there at the time. I helped with the injured until I became too ill to continue."

Railway officials said the wreck was the first on its line involving passenger fatalities since 1905.

DEAD AND INJURED

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 14 (AP).—The names of 24 army air force noncommissioned officers who were killed and 15 others who were injured in a train wreck at Terre Haute today were released tonight by Capt. New England Area Is Big Sufferer.

the first floor of which is partly below sea level.

Tides rising above trestles of the Long Island railroad forced abandonment of service on several lines. At New York City it was reported that trains to and from all points had been stopped or slowed.

Heavy rainfall accompanied the storm. The weather bureau said 2.41 inches fell in New York City, most of it in a four-hour period after 4 p. m.

Red Cross chapters all along the path of the storm stood by thru the night and dispatched disaster units to heavily hit places. The army airbase at Mitchel field reported that the peak of the storm crossed Long Island with an average velocity of 80 miles an hour. The storm center was described as having crossed Suffolk, Long Island.

Not as Bad as 1938.

Persons in its path said that despite the widespread damage it caused it was "not nearly so bad as the hurricane of 1938."

Practically every road in Suffolk and Nassau counties on Long Island was blocked by fallen trees and tangled wires.

In New England, the first blast of the hurricane found every possible precaution taken to guard against repetition of the heavy death toll of 1938. Civilian and service personnel alike were evacuated from seashore areas.

FIND VIOLATIONS IN HOUSE WHERE 3 DIED OF BURNS

Inspection of the building at 335 E. Garfield blvd., where three Negro children burned to death in a fire last month, revealed serious overcrowding and violations of city building laws, Ald. Moss [5th] reported yesterday. Accompanied by Ald. Duffy [19th] and Ald. Grealis [4th], Lt. James Gormley of the fire department and Edmund A. O'Shea of the city building department, Moss made the inspection at the request of Mayor Kelly. The information gathered will be the basis for future discussions and public hearings on the adequate fire escapes and building violations, Moss declared.

CHICAGO PLASMA FIRST TO ARRIVE AT WRECK SCENE

The first blood plasma to reach the scene of the train wreck near Terre Haute, Ind., was flown there early yesterday from the Red Cross' Chicago chapter blood donor service. Ralph A. Baier, director of the service here, said no more plasma would be needed from Chicago as the Terre Haute and Indianapolis, Ind., chapters would be able to supply sufficient material for transfusions. A mobile blood donor unit already is stationed at the scene of the accident, he said. Departmental heads of the Chicago chapter said workers here are prepared to aid Indiana workers if they are needed.

G. O. P. WARS ON COLLECTIVISM, DEWEY ASSERTS

Carries His Campaign to Rocky Mountains.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Billings, Mont., Sept. 14.—Gov. Dewey, carrying his Presidential campaign into the far west, tonight stirred a street throng of 4,000 to wild cheers with a declaration that the Republican party will substitute American freedom for "the creaking collectivism of the New Deal."

"Our success in fighting the war has demonstrated the efficiency of our form of government," he told a torch light gathering that packed a broad street intersection in front of the railroad station. "We have proven that freedom is the greatest instrument in the world.

"We're now in a campaign at home to preserve this freedom from being lost in the greased New Deal skid toward government control of labor, business, and even what we buy and sell. This campaign will not interfere with the war, where the enemy dictators are collapsing. In November we will prove that in a victorious America there is no indispensable man."

Four Speeches Next Week.

Dewey, inspired by the enthusiasm of his welcome, promised that in four radio speeches next week, starting on Monday night in Seattle, he will present the American voters with detailed arguments on major issues of the campaign.

Here tomorrow, Dewey will confer with representatives of labor, industry, and agriculture as well as with Republican leaders.

Tomorrow night his special train is leaving for Coeur D'Alene, Idaho.

En route here this evening, Dewey told the villagers at the station at Hardin, Mont., that "10 million returning soldiers and sailors must be given something better than a dole." He advocated a defeat of the New Deal to protect the veterans against WPA regimentation.

This forenoon, on his arrival in Sheridan, Wyo., he received his first ovation in the mountain states. His remarks from the rear platform were applauded by outdoor yells.

Totalitarianism Is Issue.

"We're engaged in a most serious endeavor," said Dewey. "We are carrying to the people the issue of whether we should go down the road toward a completely regimented and totalitarian society or whether we should go up the road toward a free society with jobs for all."

Later, in a hotel owned in the '90s by Buffalo Bill, he elaborated upon problems peculiar to the Rockies and the Pacific coast.

Indignation against land seizures has been brought to a head by a suit being prosecuted by the state of Wyoming to nullify Interior Secretary Ickes' appropriation of 220,610 acres, an area half the size of Rhode Island, to create a federal monument at Jackson Hole, near Yellowstone park.

"That was characteristic of the deviousness of the New Deal and their lack of respect for the rights and opinions of the people affected," he said.

Robert A. Kraay, Hammond, won fifth place among the midshipmen in general excellence, sixth place went to Walter R. Ericsson of Evanston, and first place was won by Richard Ross, Portland, Ore.

NEW DEAL AIMS TO NAZIFY U. S., BRICKER CLAIMS

Tells Ohio It Would Control Everything.

Columbus, O., Sept. 14 [Special].—The basic doctrines of nazism and fascism against which we have sent our sons into mortal combat have been adopted by the New Deal, Gov. Bricker, the Republican Vice Presidential candidate, said today in an address before the Republican state convention here.

"The issue today is not between the historic Democratic and Republican parties," Bricker asserted. "It is between New Deal collectivism and the fundamentals of Americanism to which Democrats and Republicans each hold allegiance."

The Ohio governor charged the New Deal is attempting to control, direct, and manage the economic and political lives of all our people.

Would Control Everything.

"It would tell a man where to work, when to work, for whom to work, and would fix his pay," he said. "It would tell industry what to produce, how much to produce, and would fix its prices. It would destroy state and local governments by making them financially dependent upon a centralized government of unlimited power."

Bricker said the American people have witnessed application of this pattern of government for the last 12 years. Not once in the last decade has the President invited the governors of the states to exchange views with him, he said, adding that Ohio, along with other states, has been forced to wage a continuous battle with federal bureaus attempting to dictate to state and local governments.

Question Is Simple.

"The question confronting every American citizen in this campaign may be simply stated," he said. "Shall government direct the lives of our people or shall it create conditions which will enable them, individually and hopefully, to find their own way? Shall we continue the march toward absolutism, or shall we preserve the free atmosphere which our people have breathed since our country was founded?"

Commenting on his own stewardship as Ohio's governor for the last six years, Bricker said a $90,000,000 surplus has replaced a $40,000,000 deficit and that all the obligations inherited by his administration have been paid. Public faith and confidence has replaced mistrust of state government, he said, and a program has been carefully prepared to meet the continuing problems of war, of peace, and social and economic readjustments which lie ahead.

VOTERS ENROLL OCT. 10 IN ALL POLLING PLACES

Election Board Foresees 200,000 Changes.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

For the first time under the permanent registration system, the 4,025 precinct polling places of the Chicago election board will be opened for registration Oct. 10. Changes of address and name also will be recorded from 8 a. m. until 9 p. m. that day.

This plan, to cost $136,850, was adopted yesterday by the board of election commissioners under County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. Since 1938 neighborhood registration has been confined to fire stations in Chicago and village halls in the suburbs.

The suburbs affected by the board's decision are Chicago Heights, Berwyn, Harvey, Cicero, Summit, Skokie, Stickney, Morton Grove, and Elmwood Park.

Judge Jarecki said the plan had been under discussion for a week and has no connection with the utterances made Wednesday by Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan after conferences with Mayor Kelly and party leaders of other states.

Democratic Rallies Oct. 5.

Hannegan said that a registration drive would be whooped up Oct. 5 when Democratic meetings are held in all precincts in the nation to listen to President Roosevelt's second admittedly political address of the campaign.

"The only possible hope of a Republican victory would be the failure of the great body of the American electorate to show up at the polls," Hannegan said.

"We are making it our business to see that this does not happen, and it is not going to happen."

The CIO political action committee has been asking for additional registration places, Judge Jarecki said. But the CIO was turned down flat on its demand that registration staffs go to factories employing CIO members, Jarecki said.

Says War Necessitates Move.

War conditions make the expensive precinct registration necessary, the election board head declared. The board estimates that there are more than 200,000 new registrations and changes possible. Of these, 92,000 have been recorded thus far at the board headquarters.

This created the probability that staffs in 157 fire stations and village halls would be swamped, he said. Experience indicates that most of the voters would wait until the last of the five days the fire houses were to be open to qualify.

Another factor is that the new plan will relieve the need for office space at headquarters, Jarecki said. Because of the 124,000 applications for soldier ballots, employes now are crowded, he said.

In addition, precinct registration will speed completion of the canvass, which begins Oct. 11.

Meanwhile the city hall office of the board will be open for registration from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on weekdays from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Saturdays up to and including Oct. 7.

U. S. FACES A 100% F. D. R. JUDICIARY, BARRETT WARNS

61% Appointed by Him So Far.

Effingham, Ill., Sept. 14 [Special].—The danger that 100 per cent of the federal judiciary will have been appointed by one man faces the American people if Roosevelt contrives to get a fourth term, Att. Gen. Barrett declared tonight at a meeting in the courthouse here.

Centralia and Flora also furnished audiences today for the Republican caravan, which includes Barrett, Lt. Gov. Cross, State Auditor Lueder, and Rep. Day, congressman at large, all seeking reëlection.

"In the almost 12 years since Roosevelt took office he has personally appointed 61 per cent of the entire life tenure federal judiciary in the United States," Barrett said. "Just think of it—today more than six out of every 10 federal judges owe their appointments to one man!"

Gaining Domination.

"While Roosevelt has been publicly trying to control congress he has silently and continually been gaining domination of the judicial branch of our government," Barrett said.

"It is an incontrovertible fact that during Roosevelt's three terms he has made his appointments to the federal judiciary upon the basis of a supine obeisance to the New Deal-Communistic philosophy of government. He has also made appointments to the federal judiciary for the purpose of discharging his political obligations to the corrupt big city bosses."

Must Restore Independence.

Roosevelt appointments, according to Barrett, are 100 per cent on the Circuit Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia; 60 per cent on the customs and patents appeals court; 80 per cent of the claims court; and 66 per cent of the customs court.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN TO CONDUCT 30,000 RALLIES ON SEPT. 27

Democratic Women's day on Sept. 27 will be observed nationally at more than 30,000 precinct rallies, it was announced by Mrs. Charles W. Tillett, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee. Mrs. Tillett said approximately 4,000 of the meetings will be in Cook county.

Mrs. C. W. Tillett.

The meetings will be keyed to a nation-wide radio broadcast sponsored by the women's division of the Democratic national committee to mark the 25th anniversary of the admittance of women to the executive committee of the national organization.

Mrs. Tillett said that American women have confidence in the New Deal administration. They do not tend to be "defeatists in getting a world organization for peace," she declared, and believe whatever organization is set up will have to be backed by force. The Democratic committee vice chairman pointed to registration as the most difficult job of the election period. More than 16 million persons have moved since the last election, she said.

Held on Charge of Illegal Gas Stamp Possession

James Spino, 45 of 3522 106th st., was ordered held to the federal grand jury on a charge of illegal possession of gasoline coupons when arraigned before United States Commissioner Forest Gantenbein in Hammond yesterday. Spino was arrested in Gary by Police Sgt. Tim Curley who said coupons for more than 9,000 gallons of gasoline were found in his possession. Office of price administration officials said he was trying to dispose of them.

5 PARTIES TO GET EQUAL TIME TO TALK TO TROOPS

Army Signs Them to Agreement.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14 [Special].—The army tonight announced it had reached a written agreement with five political parties—Democratic, Republican, Socialist, Prohibition, and Socialist-Laborite—whereby each will receive equal time for rebroadcast of political speeches by short wave to troops overseas.

These five parties qualify for equal time because, in accordance with provisions of the soldier voting law, they have Presidential candidates in at least six states. If any other political parties qualify under the statute, they may obtain, on request, the same privilege.

The agreement does not necessarily mean that soldiers, who choose to listen to the army's radio overseas, will hear exactly as much about the Prohibitionist, Socialist, or Socialist-Laborite candidates as they will about Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Dewey.

Head Off Controversies.

Obviously, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Dewey are going to be making more speeches than, say the Prohibitionist candidate, and there is a clause in the agreement which provides:

"This arrangement does not affect in any way the army's news broadcasting, which will be continued as at present, impartially carrying quotes from the commercial news services of political addresses."

However, the army does hope that the equal proportionment of rebroadcast time will head off any more controversies such as arose last month when the Socialist candidate, Norman Thomas, charged that Mr. Roosevelt's talk from the Bremerton navy yard was a political speech and that he ought to be entitled to equal time. On this occasion, the war department first agreed with the Socialists, then reversed itself.

Send Records to Army.

The arrangement will be for each party to prepare recordings [of unbreakable composition], submit them to the office of censorship [to be cleared for "security only" in accordance with the "code of war time practices for American broadcasters"] and then send the records to the army. The army will fly them out to its 116 army expeditionary broadcasting stations, set up in all the theaters of operation, and will place them on the turntables and turn the switch so the soldiers can hear them if they want to listen.

The army says that if the political parties are late in submitting their recordings, or if anything happens to the recordings en route "thru no fault of the army," it cannot be held responsible. The party which loses out cannot claim extra time in the future to make up for its loss.

The army also reserves the right to call off the whole thing if the war in any particular theater should interfere with the program of political rebroadcasting.

Five series of short wave rebroadcasts, commencing Sept. 18 and running thru Nov. 3, have been set up. The order of daily assignments in each series has been staggered so that each party, large and small alike, has the opening spot in at least one of the series.

REP. DEWEY HITS BACK; CITES HIS STAND ON PRICES

Rep. Charles S. Dewey of the 9th congressional district, who is running for reëlection on the Republican ticket, was aroused yesterday by a charge from his Democratic opponent, Alexander J. Resa, that Dewey failed to represent most of his constituents on measures dealing with living costs.

The original price control bill, Rep. Dewey replied, was written by a group of Jeffersonian Democrats and Republicans in his home in Washington. That bill is now law, he said. However, he said, he opposed the Sidney Hillman roll back of prices, which eventually would have saddled returning war veterans and the rest of the public with an increase of 1 billion 6 hundred million dollars in the public debt.

"I'll be damned," said Rep. Dewey, "If I'll add to the financial burden of our service men and the young people of the country, without the service men home to express their opinions."

AGREE TO POLL UAW GROUP ON NO-STRIKE VOW

Reaffirm Pledge After Hectic Session.

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 14.—Reversing itself at the climax of two days of heated debate on the no-strike pledge for the duration of the war, the ninth annual convention of the CIO United Automobile Workers' union today reaffirmed its vow by a standing vote.

Delegates then apparently approved by "about two to one" a proposal to subject their official action to a referendum vote of the union's 1,200,000 members within 90 days after the convention's adjournment.

R. J. Thomas, UAW president, said an official announcement of results of the roll call vote on the referendum issue was delayed because tabulation of votes of the 2,300 delegates was a slow task. He said, however, indications pointed to a "two to one" favorable vote.

Reversed Early Action.

The referendum proposal stipulated that "international officers may not use international funds or facilities to propagandize their opinions while the referendum was being taken.

Adoption of the reaffirmation of the pledge reversed an early action in which a committee resolution favoring the stand was voted down by 5,075 to 4,694.

When Thomas announced that the reaffirmation pledge had been approved, delegates in the Civic auditorium leaped upon table tops and the convention hall rocked with cheers.

Roll Is Called.

During consideration of the referendum measure, after torrid debate on the floor of the convention, R. J. Thomas, UAW president, announced after a standing vote that the measure was adopted. In response to challenges from the floor, however, Thomas called for the tedious roll call.

Earlier by a show of hands the delegates rejected a compromise resolution which would have "legalized' strikes from the union standpoint in plants reconverted to civilian production after Germany is defeated. The defeated resolution, however, favored bans against strikes in plants completely or partly engaged in war work.

Involving hundreds of thousands of war workers, the convention fight on the no-strike pledge has held nation-wide attention. Some UAW groups have demanded that the pledge be scrapped because, they charged, certain managements had taken advantage of it.

Tells Soldiers' Views.

Thomas had stated before the convention opened he would decline to seek reëlection if the convention repudiated the no-strike pledge. He told delegates that on his recent visit to fighting fronts in France with several other labor leaders he "hadn't talked to a soldier who was in favor of strikes."

In a speech to convention delegates, Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, urged greater participation by labor in election campaigns, declaring "the only way to get what you want is to work for it—day and night, from now until Nov. 7."

Navy's First Coronado Flyers Home on Leave

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14 (AP).—The first squadron of navy pilots to operate the four-engined Coronado flying boats on combat missions has returned to the United States for leave and reformation, the navy announced today. The squadron, VP-13, lost none of its 15 planes in 18 months in the Pacific. One of the squadron's air combat intelligence officers was Lt. Harry F. Byrd Jr., son of Sen. Byrd of Virginia.

ATTACK ON PAC AND HILLMAN IS CHEERED, BOOED

Republic Menaced, Rep. Grant Says.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

Amid mingled cheers and boos Rep. Grant [R., Ind.] last night shouted a bitter denunciation of Sidney Hillman and his political action committee as the "greatest challenge to representative government that this Republic faces today."

Rep. Grant.

He spoke at a meeting of the Beauty and Barber Supply Institute, Inc., in the Palmer House. The meeting, made up of representatives from all parts of the country, had been good-naturedly cheering and booing mentions of Republicans and Democrats when Grant was introduced.

Issue Becomes Noisy.

The audience listened without particular uproar as Grant characterized Hillman, the CIO leader, "as a Russian-born immigrant who went thru our melting pot and came out unchanged." But when the speaker referred to "the Browders and the Bridges, and Sidney Hillman and the PAC" as a challenge to representative government, the issue became deadly serious.

There were cheers. There were boos. Calls of "Sit down" mingled with shouts of approbation and a number rose and left the hall, faces flushed and angry. One bespectacled fellow attempted to make a speech and was thrust back into his seat by a fellow listener.

Long after the speech was finished an animated argument continued in the hallway outside the meeting. Much of it seemed to concern itself with the propriety of presenting a speaker at the meeting to discuss a controversial subject.

Marked for Defeat.

"I happen to be one of the great number in congress whom Sidney Hillman would like to defeat," said Grant. "A flood of literature, a series of radio programs, and other efforts have entered the district. Where does all this money come from?

"It comes from the pockets of men and women in American industry; from your family and mine, from people of every race, every creed, every color, yes—every political belief—Republicans and Democrats alike, but all to fasten on America the grip of Sidney Hillman. Does any one believe that it's really voluntary? Let's look at the facts.

"My dad belongs to the CIO. One brother does also. If I were employed in one of these plants I, too, would belong to the CIO because I, too, believe in organized labor.

Dollar Taken from Pay.

"I have here a copy of my dad's dues receipts for last April. It is also the official receipt for an extra dollar marked 'International dues assessment.' That's the kind of money that Sidney Hillman and his original political action committee of eight men used to fasten their grip on America."

Rep. Grant read from the back of the dues receipt an excerpt which called for suspension of any members two months in arrears.

"You know what that means in a union maintenance shop—either you pay the assessment or you're out of a job. Was there anything voluntary about that? My dad's dollar was used against me in my recent primary campaign."

Approximately 1,300 employes of the Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation walked out on strike in two of the company's plants at 45th and 54th sts. and Western av. yesterday and tied up for several hours the production of parts for Pratt-Whitney airplane motors used in large bombers.

Only employes on the day shift, members of the CIO United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers union, were affected by the strike. The night shift appeared on schedule. Union officials said the strike was unauthorized and that most of the employes on the day shift would return to work this morning.

The union officials had threatened to call a strike when six foremen, not members of the union, were put in the production line last Monday, W. A. Barr, president of the company, said. Barr said a company rule provides that foremen, who have experience and skill and are no longer needed in supervisory capacity shall return to the production line. A no strike contract with the company and union was renewed nine days ago.

Company officials said about 125 employes refused to go out on strike on the day shift. Two of the employes who remained at work were Paul Joseph Strojny, veteran of Pacific fighting, and Richard Pezan, who served in the army for a year and a half.

HEARS LYONS' 2D CHIEF AIMS TO SEIZE OFFICE

An air of impending action hung over the Lyons village hall last night as President Theofil Bulat awaited the next step by his Democratic opponents who have tried to take over control of the suburb's police department.

Bulat said he received reports that a plan was under way to seize the department and that he was ready for any eventuality. Meanwhile the police department was functioning under an order, which he issued Wednesday evening, continuing Chief of Police Ralph White in charge on a 30 day appointment. Bulat said he would renew the order each month.

Joseph C. Duffek, who was named chief Tuesday evening by rebel members of the village board of trustees, did not appear at the village hall yesterday. He went to the state's attorney's office with an attorney, Jesse H. Brown, but was told that the state's attorney has no power over the acts of village trustees. Brown indicated he might take court action.

Duffek, former chief of the suburb, was ousted last June when it was learned he had once served a prison term for burglary.

LEWIS BACKERS BALK AUTONOMY OF UMW UNIONS

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 14 (AP).—Cheering partisans of John L. Lewis crushed an autonomy campaign in the United Mine Workers of America convention today.

The vote for a resolution opposing any change in the rules of district self-government at this time was overwhelming. Scarcely 100 of the more than 2,500 delegates appeared to be standing when the "no" vote was called, and they were booed.

Lewis himself capped the day's debate with a 45 minute talk in which he asserted that some coal operators were encouraging the autonomy movement to weaken the miners' union. He implied also that certain leaders of the autonomy movement soon might face possible expulsion from the UMW for attempting to prosecute him without first exhausting all the procedures of the union constitution.

Ray Edmundson, former Illinois district president who led the movement, was not officially seated and could not participate in the debate. A committee hearing on his challenged delegate credentials was scheduled for tonight.

DEWEY'S EARLY FRIENDS TO BE ON AIR TONIGHT

Neighbors and early acquaintances of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will join in a tribute to the Republican Presidential candidate in a broadcast from his birthplace in Owosso, Mich., and his home in Pawling, N. Y., from 8 to 8:30 tonight over WMAQ-NBC.

Speaking from Pawling will be G. Lynn Sumner, businessman; Alfred Burgess, farmer and neighbor; Beverly Benson, Gov. Dewey's caddy; Bert Green, banker; the Rev. Ralph Lankler, summer pastor of Christ church, Pawling, and Carl T. Hogan, a college classmate.

Gov. Dewey's mother, Mrs. George Dewey, will speak from Owosso. George Cushing, Detroit radio executive, will direct the Owosso portion. Those to be heard are Earl Putnam, farmer who employed Dewey as a youth; Dr. A. L. Arnold, attending physician at Dewey's birth; Mayor J. Edwin Ellis; Don Mitchell, former schoolmate, and David Bordary, American Federation of Labor business manager in Owosso.

WAR WORKERS PROMISED YEAR MORE IN PLANTS

Chicago war plant workers yesterday were guaranteed one more year's employment on army and navy production by representatives of the military during a conference with war man power commission officials, Lester Brown, area WMC director, announced.

Comdr. Robert J. Twyman, civilian personnel officer of the 9th naval district, said production for the navy in Chicago during the first half of 1945 will exceed the 1944 output here, no matter when the war in Europe ends.

Maj. John W. Cummiskey, district man power officer of the army air forces, said "prospects in the Pacific theater indicate production must not lag in any way," and that "we must add punch to our present operations." Production of Douglas C-54 planes and B-29 engines at the Dodge plant "is absolutely essential to finish the war in the Pacific," he said. This need also has added to the demand for radar equipment from 65 Chicago concerns.

Other military representatives at the conference included Capt. James M. Lynch Jr., assistant to Maj. Cummiskey and Lt. Col. Harry Brawner, director of the army's 6th service command labor branch.

ALASKA ELECTS A DEMOCRAT TO DELEGATE'S POST

JUNEAU, Alaska, Sept. 14 (AP).—With many large precincts still unreported, E. L. Bartlett, Democrat, former territorial secretary of state, apparently won election as Alaska's delegate to Washington in Tuesday's election. His opponent was John Manders, Republican, Anchorage attorney.

Twenty-three of the 1st division's 54 precincts gave Bartlett 1,907 votes to 1,213 for Manders.

COP GETS 2D LIE TEST TODAY IN WOMAN'S DEATH

1st Inconclusive; Burns Found on His Hands.

Edward Neis, 47, gray haired veteran of the park district police department, will take a second lie detector test today in connection with the fatal shooting, with his service revolver, of Mrs. Audrey McLaughlin Hooke, former dancer and model, early yesterday.

The shooting occurred at 12:40 a. m. in the Lake Shore park recreation house, Chicago av. and Lake Shore dr., and has been described by police as "either suicide or murder."

Neis took a first lie detector test last evening in the police crime detection laboratory. It was pronounced inconclusive by Assistant State's Atty. Julius Sherwin because Neis had been 24 hours without sleep.

Neis a Voluntary Prisoner.

Meanwhile, Neis, a park policeman for 19 years with a spotless record, is in technical voluntary custody.

Mrs. Hooke, who was 37 and lived at 231 E. Superior st., was the estranged wife of Robert D. Hooke, a labor relations counselor for a large mail order house. He is expected back in Chicago today from Washington, D. C. Both he and his wife had sued for divorce, and the litigation was pending at her death. She charged cruelty; he charged drunkenness.

Policeman Neis said that he and Mrs. Hooke had only a nodding acquaintance, and that she visited him Wednesday midnight at the field house. He said she asked him to admit her to the building so she could go to the women's room in the basement. He went to the men's room a minute later, and left his gun upstairs, he said. While in the basement, Neis said, he heard a shot. He ran upstairs, he said, and found that Mrs. Hooke had shot herself with his gun. She had been shot behind the right ear at close range.

Possible Powder Burns on Hands.

Neis stuck to this story thruout a series of questionings, including one before Coroner Brodie and an inquest jury. He insisted Mrs. Hooke must have shot herself. Police said that this was possible, and they found several witnesses who had heard her threaten suicide.

However, police decided to hold Neis after paraffin tests made by Charles M. Wilson, director of the crime laboratory, exposed nitrate or powder burns on his hands. A faint trace was found on Mrs. Hooke's left hand. Assistant State's Atty. Sherwin said that such marks can be acquired otherwise than thru gunfire and that, alone, they were inconclusive in such a case.

ALVIN KRAUSE EXECUTED FOR HOLDUP KILLING

Alvin Krause, 29, was electrocuted in the Cook county jail today for the murder of Walter Bush, 50, of 5347 S. Sawyer av., in a robbery of a currency exchange at 5151 S. Kedzie av. on June 19, 1943. The current was turned on at 1:06 a. m. and he was pronounced dead nine minutes later.

Krause's hope to escape the electric chair began to ebb on Tuesday when the Illinois Supreme court refused to grant a writ of error and supersedeas and a stay pending a review, but deputy wardens quoted him as "feeling fine" before the execution. His final meal was a steak dinner. Later he received the last sacraments of the Roman Catholic church.

The execution canceled a life sentence imposed by an all-woman jury which convicted him of the "poison gas" murder of Miss Agnes Olsen, cashier in a currency exchange at 311 N. Pulaski rd. July 3, 1944. Krause's accomplice, Edward Damiani, 28, who confessed in court he sprayed a refrigerator gas into Miss Olsen's cage during a robbery, also received a life sentence and is in Joliet penitentiary.

Krause was found guilty of slaying Bush after he ha dspurned an offer to plead guilty in exchange for an additional life sentence.

MOTHER'S BABY TORTURE TRIAL SET FOR OCT. 16

Hearing in the case of Mrs. Betty Jane Dybicz, 19, of 7201 Lowe av., charged with assault with intent to kill, was continued yesterday by Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court until Oct. 16. Mrs. Dybicz, who allegedly attempted to kill her 6 weeks old baby son, appeared in court with her husband, Chester, 25. The continuance was granted on her attorney's plea that her condition would not permit her to undergo trial at this time. The mother is accused of torturing the baby, Dennis, by fracturing his arm and leg, his collarbone and three ribs.

ASSAILS GUFFEY FOR BACKING OF 'POLITICAL HACK'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—An attempt by Sen. Guffey [D., Pa.] to force immediate senate approval of a Philadelphia Negro as District of Columbia recorder of deeds was denounced today by Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.] as an attempt to swing the Pennsylvania Negro vote to President Roosevelt in November. Bridges said he would ask the senate to refer the nomination back to the District of Columbia committee for hearings.

It was learned today that Sen. Bilbo [D., Miss.], chairman of the senate District of Columbia committee, recovering at his Mississippi home from a gall bladder operation, had asked Sen. Walsh [D., N. J.] to recommend immediate approval of Marshall L. Shepard, Philadelphia Negro pastor, for the recorder's job when the senate convenes tomorrow. Guffey was reported to have urged the action recommended by Bilbo.

"This is the first time," Bridges said, "since I have been on the district committee that a nomination has been railroaded thru in this manner. It is an obvious attempt to build up the Negro vote in Pennsylvania.

TRAVELING PALS CARRY ON BID FOR COURTNEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 14.—The Democratic campaign expedition led into northwestern Illinois by State's Atty. Courtney, candidate for governor, carried on without him tonight. He had returned to Chicago to attend a state American Legion installation.

One of them, Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, candidate for congress at large, charged Illinois representatives in congress "already have started to hamstring legislation intended to give the world a lasting peace" by voting against the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration."

Commissioner Lloyd M. Johnson of the department of streets and electricity was advised by the city legal department yesterday, after a re-reading of a 40 year old court injunction, that he can make electrical inspections in the Great Northern theater building, 26 W. Jackson st. The late Federal Judge C. C. Kohlsaat enjoined the city in 1904, when the theater was being built, from making any changes in construction. Because of the injunction, the city has been refusing the theater an electrical license for 40 years, but accepting fees. Commissioner Johnson said yesterday the electrical wiring of the building will be inspected.

U. S. INDICTS 174 ALIENS AS NAZI PARTY MEMBERS

Accused of Concealing Affiliations.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14 (AP).—Indictments of 174 German aliens on charges of concealing their affiliation with the Nazi party was announced today by the justice department.

Altho individual members of the party have been indicted previously on various charges, the present indictments constitute the first legal action against the party as such.

Maximum penalties under the indictments are $10,000 fines and from two to 10 years' imprisonment.

Those indicted include a number of persons already interned as dangerous enemy aliens.

Climax Long Investigation.

The indictments, the justice department said, were the culmination of a long investigation of German efforts to promote the Nazi party in the United States.

Party activities, the indictments state, were under way in this country as far back as 1933 "operated actively thru the German ambassadors and consular officials."

All those indicted, the justice department said, were residents or former residents of the New York and New Jersey area.

Aid to Luce Enterprise.

Baron Louis Karl Dethard Kurt Wolf von Matthiessen, 35, of Briar Cliff Manor, N. Y., whose occupation was given as "film editor with the March of Time," was among those indicted at New York.

[Baron von Matthiessen, born at Oldenburg, Germany, came to this country in 1936 or 1937. He is married and has one child.

Richard de Rochemont, producer of the March of Time, an enterprise of Henry R. Luce, publisher of the Time-Fortune-Life magazine axis, said Von Matthiessen had been employed there since Feb. 21, 1944, as a "film handler" and in this position had nothing to do with the editorial end of the productions. Von Matthiessen, Rochemont said, had told him he left Germany "because he could not stand the Nazi regime." Today's indictment alleges he joined the Nazi party in Switzerland in 1936 and continued his membership in the United States.]

All of the defendants, the justice department declared, "are alleged to have been members or officers of the party and to have worked for the advancement of its aims."

They were charged with giving false information in the alien registration of 1940 or with making false and deceptive statements to the government in connection with the registration of enemy aliens in 1942.

ORDER SALVAGE OF PAPER IN OLD COUNTY RECORDS

Chief Justice Julius H. Miner and Judges Philip Finnegan and Stanley Klarkowski, members of the Circuit court executive committee, yesterday ordered all department heads in the county government to dispose of all obsolete records from 1871 to 1919.

Waste paper salvage leaders estimated that more than 100 tons of paper will be collected in 10 days as a direct result of the order. John E. Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court, said his office will contribute 10 tons of old jury notices, receipts, payment vouchers, and other useless papers. Clearance of the old records out of warehouses will save the county several thousand dollars a year storage charges, it was said.

Sheriff Michael J. Mulcahy served copies of the court order on county officers. W. J. Miller, director of the Chicago paper salvage drive for the war production board; Clayton F. Smith, president of the Cook county board, and other county officials were in court when the order was signed.

The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Al Young, Allentown, Pa.]

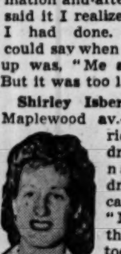
THE QUESTION.

Did you ever say to yourself, "Me and my big mouth!"?

WHERE ASKED.

Palmer House arcade.

THE ANSWERS.



A. Dow, buyer, 7049 St. Lawrence av.—Late one afternoon we were straightening up our department in a large store. Two children were running around counters, handling the goods. I told a nearby woman what I thought of mothers who let their children tear around in stores. Then she told me they were her children.

Pvt. Jack W. Cuthbert, 2111 Garfield blvd.—A soldier in my barracks said an inspection was due at 3:30. The sergeant says 4 o'clock, I replied. My buddy said the lieutenant said it was at 3:30. I yelled across the room, "Well, the lieutenant never knows what he's talking about." At that moment he entered the room.

J. C. Goldman, sales manager, Detroit, Mich.—I had become disgusted with my doctor and gone to a new one. I was telling him that my previous doctor, mentioning the man's name, should be selling shoelaces instead of practicing medicine. He replied that the man of whom I spoke so disrespectfully was his cousin.

J. E. McGuire, paint manufacturer, 2019 E. 78th st.—During a telephone conversation I gave out the ingredients of one of our paints. It was to my disadvantage to give the information and after I had said it I realized what I had done. All I could say when I hung up was, "Me and my big mouth." But it was too late then.

Shirley Isberner, clerk, 6200 N. Maplewood av.—One night I was riding down the Outer drive with a date named "Bob." He drove close to another car and I shouted, "Norm!" I realized then that I had talked too soon and had said the wrong thing. I called him Norm instead of Bob twice more during the evening and that's all I ever saw of Bob.

Bee Leonard, bookkeeper, 114 Callan av., Evanston—You know how a bunch of girls are when they get together and don't happen to like another girl and start talking about her. Well, I had just finished hashing over a new girl in the office whom we all disliked. I turned around and she was standing right behind me.

THE PEARL HARBOR ISSUE.

Walter Trohan's recent story setting forth the charges to be leveled by Rep. Harness against the Roosevelt administration for culpability in the Pearl Harbor disaster, and disclosing the documentary evidence in the possession of Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, the deposed military commander of Hawaii, was another Tribune scoop. The New Dealers chose to make Pearl Harbor a campaign issue. If they made that decision because they thought they had all the records under lock and key and could bamboozle the voters with falsehoods until after the election, they are in for a disappointment.

Rep. Harness, the Indiana Republican, told congress that Gen. Short, like Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel [who was removed from command with him], is willing to accept the judgment of congress or of any other fair tribunal on his responsibility for our defeat at Pearl Harbor. All he asks is the privilege of telling his story and introducing the documents which will support it.

Rep. Harness said that Gen. Short is prepared to testify to the following: That the war department had approved his plans for the defense of the island and his order instituting the least drastic of three forms of alert; that he received a cable from Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, several hours after the Jap attack, saying a Jap ultimatum was expected at 1:30 p. m. Dec. 7, and had this come by telephone he would have had ample warning; that he asked repeatedly for more men and equipment for defense and was refused; and that he received 12 bombers from the mainland just before the attack, totally without ammunition and with their guns inoperative, indicating that Washington authorities did not consider a full alert necessary in the islands at that time.

Gen. Short also is prepared to prove that he urged the building of an aircraft warning system on the islands in June, 1941, as the most urgent military project, and that the war department delayed its construction. He has minutes and notes of conversations with Adm. Kimmel refuting the charge of Sen. Truman, the fourth term Vice Presidential aspirant, that the Pearl Harbor surprise resulted from lack of cooperation between the army and navy commands.

There are a number of other charges of New Deal laxity and inattention in the Pacific that Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel may be able to throw light upon if they are allowed to talk. The accusation has been made that Harry Hopkins, as chief of the munitions assignment board, deliberately diverted airplanes intended for Hawaii and the Philippines to the European theater where we were not yet at war. The story has been told, but never denied by the New Dealers, that Adm. James O. Richardson, who preceded Adm. Kimmel as commander in chief of the United States fleet and navy commander at Hawaii, was removed from that job in February, 1941, because he distrusted the Japanese and insisted on maintaining navy patrols far out at sea even after he had been ordered repeatedly by Washington to pull his ships back and concentrate them in the Pearl Harbor basin.

It is a matter of record that Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, in Tokyo, gave repeated warnings to the White House and army and navy commands of the probability of a Japanese attack, and Gen. Short says he received none of these. Adm. Kimmel has said that the report of the Roberts committee which investigated Pearl Harbor does not contain "the basic truths" of the disaster and that the nation will be amazed by the true story.

Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel were removed from command nearly three years ago and accused of responsibility for the tragedy which crippled the United States navy in the Pacific. In all that time, neither of them has been accorded a court martial or the right to a public hearing, and congress twice has been called upon to prevent the statute of limitations from depriving the officers of their day in court.

Some new Pearl Harbor disclosure pops up almost every day to haunt Mr. Roosevelt and undermine his claim as the indispensable commander in chief. Most recently it was the closet testimony of Rear Adm. Stanford C. Hooper, who accused the New Deal dominated federal communications commission of aiding the Japanese raid by blocking army and navy demands to halt foreign language broadcasts from Hawaii. This testimony was bottled up by President Roosevelt for 15 months until Rep. Miller [R., Mo.] read it to a special house committee and made it public.

Already the New Dealers are crying "enough" on the Pearl Harbor issue. Rep. McCormack, the house majority leader, pretends that Republicans injected Pearl Harbor into the Presidential campaign. It was Sen. Truman, Mr. Roosevelt's fourth term running mate, who did that thru publication of a magazine article purporting to give some New Deal explanations for the disaster. Mr. Roosevelt and Sen. Truman have chosen their ground for debate and they must defend it or retire.

Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel are anxious to testify and to attempt to clear themselves. Every Pearl Harbor assertion the New Dealers have made since the campaign started is an attack upon these two men who are not allowed to defend themselves. These facts make it mandatory for congress to order a court martial or public hearings for Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel before the November election. The people have a right to be informed fully on all issues of a political campaign and it is the duty of congress to protest and to defend that right.

RATIFYING TREATIES.

The house of delegates of the American Bar association is considering a resolution recommending a change in the method of ratifying treaties. Instead of the present requirement of a favorable vote from two-thirds of the senators, the resolution suggests that a mere majority vote of both houses should suffice.

The lawyers know that the two-thirds rule is written into the Constitution and can be altered only by the processes of constitutional amendment. Accordingly the resolution calls for an amendment. A good many careless commentators have talked as if the ratification of treaties could be dispensed with altogether or the method modified by action of congress or the executive. The lawyers know better. As long as the Constitution is the supreme law of the land, no treaty is binding upon the people of this country or their government which has not been ratified in the manner prescribed in the Constitution. There has been a lot of glib talk about substituting executive agreements and joint resolutions of congress for the constitutional requirement. It is to the credit of the bar association that it has not even given consideration to these subterfuges and evasions.

The question remains why the association is being asked to take a position in this matter. Perhaps the explanation lies in the desire of some influential members of the bar to serve foreign clients. There is no doubt that foreigners would prefer a treaty-making process which would make it easier to commit this country to international arrangements favorable to them.

THE LONDON VERDICT ON BRETTON WOODS.

A member of parliament has cabled Winston Churchill in Quebec urging him to "influence" President Roosevelt not to support the international financial agreement reached at the Bretton Woods conference. William Craven-Ellis, Nationalist member from Southampton, told the prime minister the agreements meant a return to the gold standard and that "we went to hell on the gold standard in 1931 and don't mean to do so again."

An article from London by Frank Plachy in a recent issue of the New York Journal of Commerce says that sentiment in England now has become almost wholly adverse to the plan which John Maynard Keynes, a British economist, sold to Mr. Roosevelt and the men who advise him on financial matters. "If," wrote Mr. Plachy, "any one [in London] competent to judge the somewhat complicated and technical matters discussed really approved of the report's recommendation, he has so far been remarkably silent."

The British financial and economic publications have confined themselves to pointing out the dangers involved in the plans. The popular press, Mr. Plachy said, has become hysterical in its opposition to them. The Express, a conservative newspaper of large circulation, has published an analysis of the schemes by Dr. Paul Einzig, a writer of recognized authority. Einzig's conclusions were wholly unfavorable.

Parliament is not in session, but Mr. Plachy says that polls among the members have shown them, in general, to be suspicious of the Bretton Woods schemes, and in view of this it is improbable that the Churchill government will ask parliament to accept the plans in advance of action by congress.

The bankers there see, as do the bankers here, that the important thing to be settled is an exchange rate between the dollar and the pound which would be fair to both countries. But, says Mr. Plachy, the so-called experts "with their heads in the clouds and their minds thinking in astronomical billions, cannot seem to bring themselves to a comparatively simple point like this."

Keynes thought up these fantastic schemes as a means of milking the United States of billions of dollars by his own country and all of Europe. The well-informed in Britain were willing at first to go along with Keynes on the theory that if the Americans wanted to be suckers, why object? But now that the British authorship is generally known, English financiers fear that they will be blamed if the untested methods are adopted and wind up in failure. They would like the easy money the arrangements made at Bretton Woods provide, but as Mr. Plachy puts it, they know that "Britain more than any other country will suffer if these well-meant plans should go awry."

If the Roosevelt administration is serious about making plans which can be put into effect with the end of the war in Europe, the Bretton Woods agreements will be thrown into the ash can. Then some real experts can be put to work finding a basis for stabilization of the dollar-pound ratio. That done, the other currencies will have something to hitch to. If Roosevelt sticks stubbornly to the Bretton Woods plans, which stand small chance of being approved by either parliament or congress, let alone both, he will not get his way, but will surely delay Europe's recovery from the war.

Editorial of the Day

EAT IT BUT DON'T FLAUNT IT.

[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

From the personal newspaper, of all things, of that stout Nazi—some say the stoutest—Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, comes acrid comment about Germans who, in the midst of woe, ostentatiously munch good things to eat right out in public.

The Essener National Zeitung says it is bad taste "to publicly eat a ham sandwich," even if nobody can prove its black market origin; to strut around with a fat cigar when cigars and cigarets are so scarce, or to eat fresh fruit in front of less fortunate Nazis.

Nothing is said against gnawing with gusto on a sandwich or enjoying other delicacies without an audience. After all, in this austerity business, Goering has to draw a line somewhere. He doesn't maintain that super-Falstaffian bulk of his on cabbage soup. That's only for dumb Nazis.

THE DEBATABLE LAND.

In high school singing hour we used to carol lustily, in a voice that has often been deprecated, a song about the blue Alsatian mountains and a maiden who dwelt there. It was a pretty, sentimental ballad, full of homesickness and scenery, and it wound up with "Dreams will pass away, but the blue Alsatian mountains seem to watch and wait alway." Ever since, we have had a soft spot in our heart for this region, whether under one flag or another, whether Alsace or Elsass.

* * *

When Julius Caesar said that all Gaul was divided into three parts, Alsace was supposed to be inhabited by Belgians. When the Teutonic tribes migrated in the dark ages, the Allemani poured across the Rhine to settle among those blue mountains and establish a racial stock which has remained Alsatian. France annexed the province in 1648 as spoils of war. Germany did likewise in 1871. Paris kept the statue of the city of Strasbourg, on the Place de la Concorde, in mourning until V-day, 1918. . . . You know the rest from the newspapers you have read.

* * *

Thru all these years the Alsatians have continued to speak both French and German. After 1871 the Germans forbade the teaching of French in schools. After 1918 the French permitted bilingual education.

* * *

Nothing was heard about Alsatian wines until the statue of Strasbourg came out of mourning. Then the French began to promote these tipples in opposition to Moselle and Rhine wines, which they resemble. They are named from the type of grapes from which they are made—Riesling, Traminer, Tokay, Chasselas, Sylvaner, etc., with the addition of district names, such as Turckheim, Colmar, Ammerschwir, and Riquewihr. Among the vineyards of good reputation is the Clos Ste. Odile, named after the patron saint of Alsace. A little Alsatian restaurant in Paris called La Cigogne [The Stork], on the Rue Duphot, was a good place to test these vintages.

* * *

In the 17th century the name of this debatable land became attached to a district in London which was informally recognized as a sanctuary for fugitive debtors and lawbreakers. It was bounded by Fleet st., the Thames, New Bridge st., and the Temple. You can read about London's Alsatia in Sir Walter Scott's novel, "The Fortunes of Nigel."

WHO'S MELANCHOLY?

As signs of fall, I'd like to mention
Bright goldenrod, and purple gentian,
And robins gathered in convention;
Gay warblers pausing in migration,
Their insect-catching demonstration
A source of breathless fascination;
The red haws drop as scarlet missiles;
The air is rent with schoolboy whistles;
The roguish breeze brings down from thistles.
These days of coolness leave me jolly—
I must accuse of sheerest folly

Casual.

Ol' Hoss Brings the Bacon.

Our table leavings didn't always supply the needs of Ol' Hoss, my oversize dog. Drooling copiously one day, he stalked my bantams in an evident struggle against gobbling up a plump pullet. So we went to the butcher, who said there were too many dogs rating customer privileges.

Ol' Hoss hungrily eyed the meats displayed on hooks behind the counter, mentally eating his way thru every bit of bone and muscle. Then the butcher tossed over a very tired beef kidney. Ol' Hoss took a cautious sniff, looked up in deep reproach, and walked out of the shop.

Back at my chore among the potato bugs, I forgot about him until he leaped the fence with something big in his mouth. Tail wagging happily, he laid a five pound slab of bacon at my feet and looked at me as if to say, "Don't worry—Ol' Hoss has found a way." Snatching up the bacon, he ran to a far corner to eat a portion and bury the rest.

The irate butcher told Dad my dog leaped his counter, stole the bacon, and ran out before he could say "Jack Robinson." Dad paid for the meat and arranged that I get bones and such a few times a week, provided, of course, Ol' Hoss didn't come with me. Chiggers.

THE YOUNG IMMORTALS.

(Shelley, Keats, and Byron.)

He who has watched the Skylark's lyric sweep
Or felt the West Wind on his aching throat,
Knows why the jealous sea could never keep
The tragic youth all dreamers love and quote.

He who has listened for that darkling bird,
Brief tho its nocturne be unto the skies,
Knows that within this sound one poet heard,
A joy and permanence of beauty lies.

Who is consumed by passion surely must Remember Sappho and the Isles of Greece:
One who at thirty-six went down to dust,
To rise again thru Literature's release.

Remember thee to whom Time must have sung:
"To be immortal you must perish young!"

C. Middleton.

Bird Aviation Meet.

I sat on a hotel veranda in a small town and witnessed what to me was a unique exhibition. It was right in the center of town, on a Saturday evening when hundreds of people were milling the streets.

Just at dusk a group of from 30 to 50 birds appeared above the buildings. They would flap their wings vigorously to develop speed and then glide in various formations, sometimes perfect group formations, sometimes they performed stunts such as sudden turns and dives, dipping down and shooting up between each other, avoiding collision by a hair, etc. It was thrilling to watch.

What was the idea? I never saw anything like it before and shall never forget it.

Friend of Yanks' Kin

By Sally Joy Brown

[This department answers questions related to help available to relatives of service men in the column, or by mail if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent to Sally Joy Brown.]

M. T. writes: "Could you tell me whether the next of kin of all service men are paid six months' death gratuity regardless of financial status? My brother was killed last November, but up to the present my parents have not received this pay."

If your brother was married the death gratuity would go to his wife, rather than to his parents. It is payable to only one relative and the wife takes precedence over parents. If your brother was not married I suggest you write to the headquarters of the branch of service involved.

DIABETIC COMA DEMANDS PROMPT CARE.

THANKS to insulin and its several modifications [protamine, etc.], many sufferers from "sugar sickness" are alive and going strong. Physicians all over the land, particularly the members of the American Diabetic association, are studying this malady intensively. In consequence, our knowledge is growing apace, with greater security for all.

There is one phase of the disorder, however, which may become serious and with which we dare not temporize. Diabetic coma implies complete loss of consciousness. This state of affairs may begin with a mild acidosis, in which mental powers are at first retained. But if the condition is neglected, the intellect will dull and stupor deepen until a critical situation is presented.

Safety lies in prompt and skilled treatment. The longer the delay, the greater the danger. Just why any one should regard steadily advancing grogginess as unimportant is difficult to understand. The fact of the matter is that an emergency is at hand. The patient need not take time to go home and wait for the family doctor. He can make tracks forthwith for the nearest reputable hospital. The authorities will get in touch with his regular medical adviser, who will give directions for treatment.

Before we had insulin, there was very little to do for these unfortunates. We now know how to prevent acidosis and to ward off collapse. But the menace of unconsciousness remains and the job must be tackled without gloves, if life is to be spared. Number one on the recovery program is a sizable injection of insulin. This is repeated every half hour for three or four doses. The quantity is decreased as the urine begins to show less sugar. Nevertheless, the remedy is continued in smaller amounts until the output of glucose is only fractional.

Meanwhile, orange juice, plus insulin, may be administered. The one counteracts the other. Because of the crisis, the most rapidly acting form of the hormone is employed. But this is not all. Liquids are essential, and salt solution is valuable. It may be introduced under the skin and sometimes several quarts will be absorbed within a few hours. As a rule, water cannot be taken by mouth because nausea and vomiting will be increased.

It is always helpful to wash out the gastric pouch, if the procedure can be carried out without much effort and with no danger. Unfortunately, there is a slight possibility that—in the process—the one who is "dead to the world" may inhale a bit of the stomach contents. While no harm may ensue, there is some risk of a lung infection.

No attempt should be made to feed the sufferer and the only edible that will need to be given for the first 24 to 48 hours is orange juice. This may require larger doses of insulin but the ratio may be determined by checking the sugar in the urine as every specimen is passed.

What do we mean by acidosis? Merely that as a result of upset metabolism, acetone and diacetic acid are formed. It is not necessary to neutralize these chemicals with alkalis. In fact, such a plan will be without avail. The vital thing is to stop their manufacture, and enough insulin will do it.

FLUIDS WITH MEALS.

L. K. writes: I have been told that if a person drinks milk, water, tea, etc. with or right after meals, that food will be washed down without being digested. Anything to this?

REPLY.

Not so. The pylorus [outlet of the stomach] opens and closes rhythmically. It is supposed to release edibles into the bowel when they are ready. Water with meals actually stimulates the secretion of gastric juice.

RAW FOOD.

E. R. writes: What is the best time to eat salads—at lunch or during the evening meal?

REPLY.

Midday preferred. The ingredients should be thoroly masticated. Otherwise, coarse fibers may irritate the bowel.

RENAL CONCRETIONS.

R. W. writes: What causes kidney stones?

REPLY.

Precipitation of mineral matter which should remain in solution and be excreted. Infection may be a factor.

Election Year.

It is pretty obvious by now that no one thinks a log cabin birthplace will get a man the Presidency, but a street car conversation is evidence that the teen age group of today has never dreamed that a boy can be President when he grows up. Two 18 year old girls were scanning the headlines about a baby returned by its foster mother to its natural mother. "Think of it," one of them loudly proclaimed to her companion, "if that little kid turned out to be some important guy when he grows up, how his real mother would feel if he belonged to somebody else." "Yeah," responded her friend. "That's right. Ain't it nice she has him back? Why, he might even turn out to be—a lawyer, or sumpin'."

No Friend, He.

That high school education is really coming along. Now comes word of the girl, entering college this fall, whose brother wrote from France that he had lost all his gear, including his three extra pairs of glasses, on the way from North Africa to the southern invasion coast. "I guess they're all in Davy Jones' locker now," he wrote. The girl pondered this deeply. Then she turned to her older sister to ask: "Is Davy Jones a friend of his?"

Marital Bliss.

Multiple marriages often leave a trail of confusion. We've just heard of a lady around town whose bridge partner one afternoon commented on the stunning diamond ring she was wearing. "Yes," the lady said complacently, "that's the engagement ring Joe gave me." Then, with an anguished squeal, "O, no! It's the engagement ring Tom gave me. O, dear, I always get confused, and it makes Joe so mad. He just gets furious if he sees Tom's ring on my hand." On and on she went, her consternation mounting. Finally she tore the ring from her hand, extended it. "Here," she said, "you take it. I'll sell it to you for anything you want to offer." She did, too.

When It Hurts.

The surgeon [Capt. W. F. Sargent of Salem] had been in the Pacific 24 months. Not once had he complained of homesickness. Then, just the other day, he wrote from Saipan:

"I can imagine that the leaves are beginning to get a little brown there at home now, and you will have the school children passing by every day. The radio will start broadcasting the football games, and there will be a lot of shotguns taken down and cleaned and oiled in anticipation of the hunting season. THE TRIBUNE will bring out McCutcheon's 'Injun Summer' cartoon, and what wouldn't I give to walk out to the corner and buy my copy of it tonight! You know, I've noticed a lot of homesickness follows a siege of dengue fever. I see I'm running true to form."

TWO "INDISPENSABLE" MEN.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Pericles became the head of the great Athenian state by offering the people more power and standing on a platform of progress. His regime brought great prosperity, leadership in trade, full public coffers, and low taxes [think of that] to the state.

He fostered the arts and literature. He was an eloquent speaker, a spell binder, the boss of Athens for 30 years, and a great statesman. However, when he died he left no one qualified to take his place. And down went the glory that was Greece, aided by a swarm of small minded, squabbling politicians, contending for control.

Mr. Roosevelt became head of our great American state by offering the people more power and more of everything under a New Deal. His regime differs widely from that of Pericles in that Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal did not bring us great prosperity, but 10 years of great depression, alleviated only by war production. He did not fill the public coffers full to overflowing. They have been depleted and are now crammed with debts. Against Pericles' low taxes, we have been burdened with astronomical ones.

Mr. Roosevelt has not patronized the arts, unless we consider the paint daubs cluttering the walls of our new post offices, [fostered by WPA] art. As for literature, a less discriminating generation may consider the President's voluminous papers, speeches, and self-glorifications now gathering dust in their monumental sanctuary, literature.

If Mr. Roosevelt secures a fourth term, and during the tenure dies or retires, who in his party is competent to carry on? The inexperienced Truman? Consider the pack at his heels; the Kellys, the Hagues, the Flynns, and the swarm of pip-squeak burocrats and politicians; and God forbid, down could go the glory that is America! F. L. S.

THE NEW DEAL DEMOBILIZATION PLAN.

Marfa, Tex., Sept. 7.—I have just finished reading about the army's proposed plans for demobilization and I must say I think they are most unfair. To begin with, there is no mention made of age, and I think that should definitely be one of the determining factors in considering a man for discharge.

Secondly, I don't think married men should be given preference over single men, especially those married after Pearl Harbor. Many of us are not married because we enlisted in the army and preferred to wait until after the war to marry. We should not be punished for that.

What gripes us most is Gen. Hershey's statement that it would be cheaper to keep us in the army than in civilian life. If all they can offer us is a choice between army life and WPA as a career, let's get a new administration and new but fewer brass hats.

STAFF SERGEANT.

NOTE TO WAR PLANT STRIKERS.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Here's the solution to what to do with striking war plant workers: Ship them to Akyab. A proclamation, signed by Muhammed Minsky, president of the Burmese labor union, has been distributed among the people of Akyab, Burma, offering them a job repairing docks and terminals "at the pre-occupational scale of 7 cents a day." ROBERT A. CRANDALL.

HOW HE'D TREAT THE WOOD PUSSIES.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—I consider it a privilege to make a suggestion which I believe would be of great value to THE TRIBUNE. It concerns the repeated attacks and smears against THE TRIBUNE by those alien-minded publications and individuals of this country who, by their frenzied efforts to discredit your paper, give all too conclusive proof of its great power and influence for America's good.

In the past THE TRIBUNE has taken care of these wood pussies, as I believe you so aptly called them, by the fairly satisfactory fashion of completely ignoring them, deviating from this policy only when the attacks become particularly vicious and untruthful.

My idea is a bit different. You would ignore them by not ignoring them. On the upper left hand corner of the editorial page a standing statement would be inserted. This statement would be strong and short. It would mention the reason THE TRIBUNE is so bitterly hated, who its enemies are [by groups], and what effect their smears will have. Then close by extending an invitation to this vicious pack to read this statement if they want an answer to their incessant yapping. In all other ways newspaper space is too valuable.

EDWARD P. FLAHERTY.

DISFRANCHISING FIGHTING MEN.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 8.—Some of the members of the army and navy from this city have gone to their superior officers to ask the officer to certify to the application or ballot for absent voters under the Indiana state law. The officer has refused to participate in any action on an Indiana state law absent voter's ballot. The officer has said that the only ballot which the soldier or sailor should vote is the federal, or bobtail, ballot. Of course, the bobtail ballot would not be counted and the soldier would lose his vote.

I am informed that there have been numerous instances affecting Indiana voters at various camps, all of which tend to disfranchise our Indiana service men. ROBERT C. HILLIS.

CALL TO PATRIOTS.

Blue Island, Ill., Sept. 12.—I have been thankful for 25 years for those real American senators, Hiram Johnson, Medill McCormick, Henry Cabot Lodge, and the other 34 who saved this country from the league of nations.

I only hope that there will be as many who will again save us when the New Deal gets ready to impose another one upon us. ORVILLE C. GREEN.

MOVER'S RESPONSIBILITY.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—A tenant informed me that when he moved his furniture would be taken out the back way. In spite of his promise, the piano was moved out the front entrance and considerable damage was done to the walls. Who is responsible, the former tenant or the mover? C. S.

It seems probable that the mover was an independent contractor, in which case you would have to look to him rather than to the tenant. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ARMY RACE RIOT QUIZ UNDER WAY, SAYS STIMSON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—Secretary of War Stimson told his press conference today that there was a "disturbance" last month at Camp Claiborne, La., but asserted the number of Negro troops involved was nothing like the 16,000 mentioned in a Washington newspaper report.

The story, published in the Times-Herald, said it was reported that 16,000 Negroes at the camp mutinied about Aug. 17, beat their white officers, broke into the arms lockers, and "shot up the works."

The story also said there were reports that military police gassed the Negroes, disarmed them, and confined them to barracks, after which the military police searched the ground with mine detectors for buried weapons.

Matter Being Investigated.

Stimson said the "matter now is in the process of investigation and punishment." He declined to disclose details of the trouble, but said there "has been no intervention in the matter by the administration."

This was regarded as an answer to a paragraph in the newspaper story asking if it were true that the war department wants to punish those involved but has been "told by the White House to lay off until after the election."

Three Reported Wounded.

Alexandria, La., Sept. 14 [Special].—The "disturbance" at Camp Claiborne referred to today by Secretary of War Stimson resulted in the wounding of a white lieutenant and two Negro enlisted men, the camp press relations office reported on Aug. 17, when the trouble occurred.

The army at that time reported "several shots were fired in the vicinity of the Negro soldiers' service club area" after a "very few" Negro soldiers had armed themselves from gun racks. Twenty-seven Negro soldiers were arrested Aug. 18 and no further disturbance followed, the army reported.

The "disturbance" was blamed on a rumor that a Negro soldier had been killed in the camp a day earlier.

Rosh Hashana Rites Begin at Sunset Sunday

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Age-long optimism of Judaism, which foresees each coming year better than the last, comes to a focus in Rosh Hashana, or Jewish New Year's day, beginning Sunday at sundown. This optimism, despite persecution or dispersion, is epitomized in the universal New Year greeting, "May you be inscribed and sealed for a good year!" Ten days of penitence follows Rosh Hashana and culminates in the ancient day of atonement, or Yom Kippur, which begins Sept. 27.

In the holy week between those solemn days, the Chicago Federation of Reform Synagogs will sponsor loop services at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in the Great Northern theater. Among well known rabbis to lead the services are Dr. Louis Mann of Chicago Sinai congregation, Dr. Louis Binstock of Temple Sholem, and Dr. Felix A. Levy of Temple Emanuel.

Rabbi Binstock has announced New Year's services for Sunday night and Monday morning at Temple Sholem, 3480 Lake Shore dr. "This New Year's Program for Jews' will be his opening sermon.

Names of Two Added to List of Debutantes

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE names of two young women, Miss Joan Woodside and Miss Barbara Louise Winslow, have been added to the debutante list. Miss Woodside, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Woodside of Chicago, will leave for Bryn Mawr college Wednesday, having been graduated from the Faulkner school last June. She and her parents and grandmother, Mrs. John T. McGiveran, and younger brother, Billy, returned recently from a holiday in Colorado Springs, Colo. Mr. and Mrs. Woodside will entertain for their daughter during the Christmas holidays.

Miss Winslow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Palmer Winslow of Wilmette and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Clifford Beymer of Barrington and Evanston, was graduated from the National Cathedral school last June and has entered Northwestern university. No plans have been made as yet for her debut party, as her parents are busy moving from their present home in Wilmette into a new one in Washington st. in the same village, where they will be at home after next Thursday. The debutante has a brother, William Jr., who is a student at Culver.

On the Calendar.

Oct. 12 is the date set for the annual fall rummage sale of the Woman's guild and auxiliary of Christ church, Winnetka. It will be held as usual in the parish house, with the executive committee, composed of Mrs. Chester Cleveland, Mrs. Noble Macfarlane, Mrs. Erskine Wilder, and Mrs. D. Bligh Grassett, in charge. Plans for the sale were announced at a luncheon given by the committee in the parish house, to which the first contributed rummage was brought. Prizes for costumes worn by some of the women and left in the parish house were won by Mrs. John Rosnagle, judged the most original; Mrs. Donald Lourie, the funniest, and Mrs. E. Morris Smith, the most glamorous. One of the choicest bits of rummage already contributed is a large piece of mink fur which may be used for trimming.

Members of the Margaret Etter Creche will meet Monday at the nursery in W. Chicago av., which has been completely redecorated and in which a new furnace has been installed, as a result of the board's successful benefit party of a few months ago. In the absence of Mrs. Donald F. Bowey, president, who is in California, and Mrs. Frank Bering, first vice president, who is in Dayton, O., Mrs. Leland R. Johnson will conduct the meeting. Mrs. Marshall Haywood and Mrs. John S. Nash are returning from their summer homes in Michigan and Wisconsin, respectively, to attend the meeting. Mrs. Louis G. Buss, long an honorary member, will be welcomed back to active membership.

The North Shore Service league of the Chicago Maternity center will open its fall season with a guest tea at 2 p. m. Monday in the Wilmette home of Mrs. Lynn Stewart. Mrs. David Danielson, new president of the league, will introduce Dr. Beatrice Tucker, head of the center, and Mrs. Wayne Rapp will present plans for a benefit party.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Stewardess Quiz.

Are you as smart as the stewardesses? Prospective American Airlines stewardesses interviewed this week for training knit their brows over such posers as:

Who is Donald Douglas?

What two stars won the Academy Award for 1943?

Who are America's full generals?

Who is Vice President of the United States?

What's the capital of Florida?

What's the difference between APO and OPA?

Girls, with their hearts overseas, it was noted, had no difficulty answering the last question.

Recess Recessional.

The thing that gives the boss the blues
Is this: The girls file out by twos.
Suspended, then, are business cares
Until the girls return in pairs,
Dictation, typing, can't begin
Until the girls [by twos] file in!

POOR RICHARD.

Tut, Tut.

Here is another set of words seemingly opposed yet meaning the same [to me!]: In-laws and outlaws.

HENRY THE FLIT.

Another Side of the Story.

The transportation problem annoys me, too—but in a way not discussed before. Returning from work the other afternoon I did my dinner shopping on the way and took the street car to grandma's to pick up my youngsters. Two girls standing near where I sat began to talk about what they thought of women who waited until 5:15 to do their shopping, also about women who occupy seats while working girls stand . . . about the spoiled American housewife who never thinks of any one but herself.

My husband is in the navy and overseas. I am one of many thousands of working mothers who must go shopping and ride the street cars with my children at the busy hour. Am I to be condemned because of this?

ROSALYN WILSON.

On the Memo Pad.

An information and reservation clerk for the Rock Island lines in Oklahoma City has been commissioned "ambassador of good will" for the city by the mayor in recognition of her courtesy to travelers. Who in Chicago might be so honored? . . . D. C. wants to identify the black haired Juliet who stands out on the fire escape each morning to wave good-by to her beloved at 9:05. He walks backward along Lake Shore dr. fluttering a white handkerchief, and observers are beginning to worry lest Romeo miss his step one of these fine mornings. . . . A favorite contributor has bestowed a signature pin, via mail, on this W. C. G. editor with the hint that it might prove helpful on the days when she can't remember her own name. Now all that is necessary is the address and phone number—like our dog Major's tag. . . . Ex-Chicagoan Marg Sammons, now in Butte, Mont., has been named a "lumberjill" because of a story she wrote on the logging operations of the Anaconda company.

The Solid Side Seeks to Solve Few Dilemmas

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

on the SOLID side

Q. "We are both 16 and would like to know how to get the attention of certain bashful boys. We think they like us, but they never ask for dates. We know them well, and once they even walked home with us [my friend and me], but still no dates."

A. The fellows you mention may not be quite old enough to move into the smooth Joe department and ask you two for dates. At 16 most gals are considered eligible datebait, but fellows may like to wait a year or two before launching on a twosome social life. Perhaps the boys find you interesting, but are waiting for just the right evening and just the right amount of folding lettuce. In the meantime, don't overdo the ready-and-willing attitude. You'll never catch a good boy by chasing him.

Q. "I expect to graduate from high school next June and have always taken my school work seriously. During the summer I worked at a drug store five days a week and Saturday night. My employer would like me to help him out during the winter three evenings a week and all day Saturday. Do you think a fellow can do this type of outside work and still give his school work the proper attention?"

A. Try working out a definite schedule for your study time, fitting it into your free evenings and Sunday. By working at the drug store you will be doing a two-way service, helping your short-handed employer and knocking the edges off your school expenses. Ask your parents whether it is wise to keep the job; if they say you can do it, you probably can.

Q. "Do boys think every girl expects a good night kiss on a first date? On several occasions lately I have had reason to wonder. I don't want to be a prude or to be cheap. I would like to hear the boys' views on the subject of what they consider a good date?"

A. And so would a lot of other gals! If you fellows want to give out with the inside information, send your letters in. We'll tip the honeychiles off on what you think makes a pleasant evening.

Superb Finery Shown at First Fall Style Show

BY REA SEEGER.

The first fall fashion show, this week, was a parade of Madame Sophie originals. The superb collection of costumes for fall and winter was, as usual, the essence of feminine charm and elegance. This well known American designer knows intuitively the best and smoothest way with seams, with a clinging silhouette, and with unusual and flattering color. Luckily, she has been able to present clothes of rare silks and fine woolens, for only such fine materials can so beautifully dramatize creative genius and fine workmanship.

Floor length dinner and evening gowns caused much applause, while those definitely influenced by the Empire silhouette seemed unusually feminine after years of sternly tailored suits and slim dresses. All the costumes were notably feminine in outline and trimmed with decorative handwork, such as beading, embroidery, sequined motifs, and lace. Spectators held their breath over wicked looking cocktail dresses with fragile, transparent tops and exceedingly low cut necklines. The combination of fragile black lace with crepe made the most devastating models. Long evening gowns of pale brown lace and black lace were so wide around the lower edge as to be shocking after five years of rigidly controled sheaths.

A silver blue mink skin coat nearly stole the show, tho its price was such that one might have to part with a couple of yachts to own it.

One black hat with very long feathers had a little pink end to every feather, and was in constant motion during the march down the room. Others were high and exotic.

The newest bag, shaped like a tambourine and containing an inside mirror a good 8 inches across, should make bag history.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford will entertain later for their son, whose next post is to be at Camp Pendleton.

A change of orders has brought Lt. Hulburd Johnston back to home territory, for he will begin a course of study in military government for far eastern countries at Northwestern university tomorrow, a continuation of the training he began at Charlottesville, Va., last month. Mrs. Otis Hubbard will miss seeing her brother, for she left only a few weeks ago to join Lt. Hubbard in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Mrs. Joseph Joyce of Kenilworth is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Peter Prindiville, and young Joyce Prindiville in Watch Hill, R. I. While Mr. Prindiville is overseas with the merchant marine, his wife and daughter have been spending the summer in Watch Hill with his mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Prindiville. The young Prindivilles, former Chicagoans, now live in New York.

Maj. and Mrs. Ray Prescott Johnson now are living in Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., while he is stationed in Detroit with the army. Mrs. Johnson and their son have been spending the summer in their cottage at the Belvedere club at Charlevoix, Mich.

The ceremony will take place in the New York apartment of Mrs. Stafford's mother, Mrs. George D. Terry. Maj. Prosser and his bride will live at 1366 Dearborn pkwy.

Mrs. Stafford has one daughter, Mrs. Alice Fleitmann Silleck, who lives in New York. Maj. Prosser's son, Flight Officer David Prosser of the army air forces, who was reported missing in action some time ago over Europe, now is in London, having escaped with the aid of the French underground to Spain. Maj. Prosser, a veteran of the first World war, recently retired from his duties as commander at the meteorological cadet unit of the army air force training command at Chanute field and is back in civilian life. Mrs. Stafford was in Chicago recently.

Mrs. David Oehl of Wauconda, Ill., announces the engagement of her daughter, Louise, of Evanston, to Lt. Frank H. Betcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Betcher, also of Evanston. Lt. Betcher is serving with the army air forces, stationed at Wright Field, Dayton, O.

In the first traditional navy wedding ceremony at Hunter field, Ga., Miss Altine Mary Kelleher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Kelleher of Champlain av., became the bride of Ensign Robert Joseph Bentson Jr. of the naval reserve Sept. 9 in Chapel No. 1 at the field. The bride, an ensign in the WAVES, and Ensign Bentson both are stationed in Savannah, Ga., where they will live. The former Miss Kelleher was graduated from Mundelein college. Ensign Bentson received his degree from the school of engineering at the University of California.

INSTALMENT XLI.

OFFICIALS INCREDULOUS.

Janner got to his feet and, bowing stiffly, left the table. Then he paid for the drinks and strolled out of the cafe with such nonchalance that Carol was uncertain as to whether or not he had been mocking her. But he couldn't have been! He was Janner.

Bright arrived, breathless and apologetic, a few seconds later.

"Sorry, Kansas, but they sent for me over at the G. H. Q. at the last moment."

"You missed something terribly important here. Did you see the man who went out as you came in?"

"Didn't notice him in particular. Why?"

"Who?"

Bright took a look at the table and the two empty glasses.

"Say, Kansas, are you tight?" he demanded. "Who's been with you?"

"Janner, I tell you! Sitting right there on that chair, across from me!"

Something in her tone made Bright himself sit down suddenly. Then she told him what had happened.

"I'm afraid our party is going to have to wait, Kansas!" he said. "True or not, this has got to be reported."

"And reported, first of all, where it will be believed," she amended. "Bright, I'd like to talk to Col. Barlow. He'll tell us what to do next. It will carry more weight if he communicates with intelligence before we do."

Col. Barlow was not at the hospital. After all their trouble in getting out there he had already checked out. But the receptionist had the address to which he had gone—officers' quarters in a big hotel on the edge of the plains of Mustapha. After commandeering a ride in a jeep going their way, they walked the remaining distance and found Col. Barlow had retired for the night. Carol insisted upon sending in a message, however, and when the colonel heard who was there he permitted them to come up. Carol introduced the two men.

"This is Bright Stoner, colonel," she said. "We've come because Karl Herman Janner has prevented our drinking champagne."

Barlow listened to the story of her evening's experience without comment. But when she was done he shook his head in doubt.

"I don't question your sincerity, Kansas," he said, "but it seems highly unlikely that this is anything except a case of mistaken identity."

"Don't you know me well enough to feel sure I would not be here if I wasn't sure?"

"I know of this Capt. Charles de Gresser," Barlow said. "He has an excellent reputation. He is a first class flyer, splendid at reconnaissance. He's been dropping propaganda leaflets over Germany and Italy and over the Rommel crowd."

"Possible, the highly improbable," the colonel remarked.

"My sister thought Janner was a secret agent of some sort."

"But your sister is not here to identify the man," Barlow pointed out. "Neither is her husband. And as I understand it, Stoner, you could not positively identify the suspect either?"

"No, sir!"

"However, the fact remains," Barlow conceded, "that there is a leakage from an informed source. Stoner, are you still on special duty with intelligence?"

"Yes, sir, I am."

"Then why not make this your pigeon? I'll talk to the right person to make sure all records are open to you. I wouldn't talk to any one about what you're after, but you were close enough to Janner and what went on over there in France to possibly catch some suspicious item which a less informed man might miss. Come back to me first if you get hold of anything."

"Sure will! That is, yes, sir!"

When they had said good night to Barlow, Bright, very much to her disappointment, took Carol back to the convent. In the darkened doorway he kissed her tenderly.

"That champagne will have to keep," he said. "I'm getting on the job right now and make sure De Gresser doesn't get away without I know it."

"I hate war!" said Carol.

"I know!" he laughed gently.

It was past noon next day when he called her and told her to meet him in the Jardin d'Essai, the Algerian Versailles.

There was nothing against De Gresser. His record was clean as a whistle and could be traced back as far as the end of the last war. Just as he had claimed, he was Belgian and there was record of a birth certificate to prove it. A thoro checkup had been made on him when he applied to join the Fighting French in Africa shortly after the invasion, and it seems Scotland Yard in London had sent out a dossier. It was perfect. The man had been in and out of London even before Belgium fell.

"It's a bust, I'm afraid, Kansas!" Bright told her. "Looks like we're licked."

"Did you follow him last night?"

"No! He was off on a flight before I could get back to town. Hasn't got back yet so far as I know."

"Maybe he won't come back."

"That," said Bright sarcastically, "would be just dandy. If the Jerries get him we'll never know the truth. If he just plain joins up with them we won't know either."

"Look here!" said Carol suddenly. "How about that scar on Janner's body?" Bright whistled when she repeated what Lita had told her about the scar and Janner's fury when Jacques discovered the mark.

"We may have something there!" Bright seemed a little cheered at the thought. "Let's go tell old Barlow about it, tho how he'll get De Gresser to do a strip tease is more than I can guess."

They walked over to officers' club, feeling defeated and depressed and when they found Col. Barlow he did nothing to encourage them. The general was there with him, and both were absorbed in a game of gin rummy when their visitors were shown in. The general's little white mustache jumped as he barked his greeting.

"I've dug up nothing but a record which seems too good to be true, sir," said Bright. "That's my only criticism of it. But Lt. Melton here had a thought!"

She told about the scar which had been described to Lita and how sure they had felt that there was some especial significance attached to it and Janner's unreasonable rage over its being seen by Jacques. But the two officers were unimpressed.

"Anybody could have a scar," Barlow was inclined to be intolerantly amused now, "especially a man who has been thru two wars."

"But it's such a peculiar scar—star-shaped!" Carol protested.

"That would not necessarily prove anything," the general barked.

FASHIONS

By Angela

While the back to college girl is busy with last minute shopping chores she must not forget the warm, cozy robes which serve so many purposes. There is an endless collection in a wide variety of materials and styles and modest prices.

Combating chilly temperatures is no problem in the warm tea rose quilted satin robe at left. The robe's full wrap offers ample protection, and the new cut of the neckline and wide pointed collar are becoming. Applique flowers of grosgrain ribbon, surrounded by tiny French knots, form an interesting spray and provide a change from the familiar frog. The long sleeves have a turn back scallop at the front revealing smooth, unquilted satin.

Cutting a figure is no hardship for the delightful powder blue chenille robe in center. The vertical and horizontal treatment of the material is unusual and presents an illusion of a Dutch boy jacket. Collarless, it has high, wide lapels and blue buttons, creating a double breasted effect.

Decidedly novel is the red quilted crepe reversible robe at right, which is warmly interlined and lined with blue and white polka dots. The lining is used to trim the shawl collar, turn back cuffs and pocket. For a change, the blue and white lining with red cuffs and collar is attractive. This same model is available in navy with red and white dots.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

The Illinois Institute of Technology has opened registration for 86 classes comprising its 12th free evening war training program. Women are eligible for all courses.

Enrollments in 35 radio and electrical engineering courses will be accepted thru today for classes opening next Monday. Registration for 51 other courses, in a variety of war training fields, is being held now, to continue thru Sept. 22, with classes beginning Sept. 25.

Registration for radio and electrical engineering studies is being conducted on both of the institute's campuses, 1951 W. Madison st. and 3300 Federal st.; for general courses, only at Federal st.

Statistics in Illinois Tech's files show that 25 of the 86 courses are especially suited to women: Advanced cost accounting, advanced tool inspection applications, advanced and elementary trigonometry and algebra, aircraft instruments, applied mathematics, basic telephonic principles, elements of radio, engineering drafting, engineering electronics, fundamentals of industrial engineering, fundamentals of radio, general metallurgy, illumination engineering, industrial lubrication engineering, industrial management for foremen, industrial relations, inspection methods, machine design, metallography, plastics, mold design, production illustration, safety engineering, and tool inspection.

Several of the courses are perennial favorites with women students. Women outnumber men, for example, in engineering drafting.

There are 2,530 women, representing 8 per cent of the enrollment, studying in the 11th evening war training program. A wife who is following her husband's example, a time study expert, and two war plant secretaries are four women who have ignored the supposition that industrial engineering is for men only.

The first women to take the course, they are studying with 21 men. They attend classes every week night for 16 weeks, learning industrial management, production methods, planning, industrial relations, time and motion study, and quality control.

Miss Ileana Vardin, 3111 W. Franklin st., is the time study expert enrolled in the coufse. Mrs. Elenora M. Callahan, 2602 W. 11th st., and Miss Lillian E. Morvay, 1431 N. Lawler av., are the two secretaries making initial invasions of the technical field.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

It has been often said—and seldom disputed—that women dress as much to catch the eye of members of their own sex as their male admirers. Probably it is similarly true that a woman, in displaying her culinary skill, gets more secret enjoyment out of sending members of her bridge club home atwitter than in knowing she has satisfied the palate of a hearty male. It must be that feminine food tastes are more discriminating—or perhaps more finicky!

If you'd like to impress the members of your bridge club the next time it's your turn to be luncheon hostess, scratch the inevitable chicken a la king off the list of menu possibilities. That good dish has been greatly overplayed, and there's no need for the repetitious choice when so many other interesting dishes are in the picture.

The following group of midday entrees includes some fairly inexpensive combinations which are nevertheless tasty enough to bring forth enthusiastic comments. The first on the list, composed of ordinary ingredients, sounds unexciting, but there's a surprise in the first forkful.

Macaroni, Dried Beef, Mushroom Casserole.

[Serves four.]

- 1 cup uncooked macaroni
- 3 tablespoons margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1½ cups milk
- ½ cup grated American cheese
- ¾ cup canned or sauted fresh mushrooms
- ¼ lb. dried beef

Cook macaroni, broken in one inch pieces, until tender in boiling salted water. Make a white sauce of the margarine, flour, and milk. Add grated cheese, mushrooms, and dried beef which has been freshened in boiling water, dried, and then cut into pieces. Add well drained macaroni, season to taste with salt and white pepper, pour into a greased baking dish, cover with fine margarined bread crumbs, and bake in a 400 degree oven until crumbs are lightly browned.

Shrimp Creole Casserole.

[Serves four.]

- 1½ pounds fresh shrimps
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 medium green pepper, chopped
- 3 tablespoons minced parsley
- ½ cup diced celery
- 2 cups canned or fresh cooked tomatoes
- 3 cups cooked rice

Shell raw shrimps, dip in flour, and brown in hot fat. Add onion, green pepper, parsley, and celery, and cook gently, covered, for 15 minutes. Add tomatoes and salt, pepper, and paprika to suit taste. Place alternately in greased casserole with cooked rice. Sprinkle with margarined bread crumbs and bake in a 300 degree oven for 45 minutes.

Egg and Vegetable Pie.

[Serves four.]

- 3 tablespoons margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1½ cups milk
- 4 hard cooked eggs
- 2 cups mixed cooked vegetables
- Pastry

Prepare white sauce of first three ingredients. Add eggs sliced or cut into chunks. Add cooked vegetables and season well with salt and pepper. Pour into greased casserole. Bake at 375 degrees until bubbly, about 20 minutes. Meanwhile prepare plain pie pastry [1 cup flour]. Roll and cut with fancy shaped cutter. Bake in 425 degree oven until browned, keeping egg dish hot on top of stove. Top dish with pastry cutouts and further garnish with parsley sprigs and slices of hard cooked eggs sprinkled with paprika.

Chicken Turnovers.

- 1½ cups minced cooked chicken
- ¾ cup thick white sauce
- 1½ tablespoons minced parsley
- ½ teaspoon onion juice
- Salt, pepper
- 1 recipe pastry [2½ cups flour]

Combine chicken, white sauce, parsley, and onion juice. Roll pastry to 1-8 inch thickness, cut into squares, and brush with slightly beaten egg white. Place a few tablespoons chicken mixture on each square, fold over, and press edges together with a fork. Pierce and place on baking sheet. Bake in very hot oven [450 degrees] until browned. Serve with chicken gravy or mushroom sauce.

Here's a Favorite Grape Jam

Try this delicious, fresh flavored grape jam, made quick as a wink. It's one of the favorites of Mary Meade's cooking department. Mix 4 cups washed and stemmed concord grapes with 3 cups sugar. Slowly bring to a boil, then boil for 20 minutes. Put mixture thru colander or food mill and pour immediately into sterilized glasses. Paraffin while hot. (Makes four 6 ounce glasses.)

No Point Ham and Pork Loin? Probably Not

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

Meat salesmen in Packingtown say a recent "hint" from Washington that pork loins and hams may be among the meats taken off the list of rationed foods late in 1944 or early 1945 is without foundation. This report has given many shoppers visions of abundant supplies on retail butchers' counters and frequent pork meals thruout the winter.

It seems heartless to blast dreams of dinners of whole baked hams or roast loins, or of skillets filled with top grade pork chops, just when housewives are finding it more difficult to get such meat cuts than ever before.

However, if Mrs. Housewife wishes to continue to face realities, and spokesmen for the packers think she does, the cold facts are that packers under federal inspection expect to produce 25 million fewer pork loins and hams than they did last winter. The department of agriculture's own data showing 18 million fewer pigs on farms now than at this time last year will have to point the way to those who deal out the point value of the various meat cuts.

Pork will not be created for civilians simply by eliminating the commodity from the list of rationed foods, it was said. The existing pork scarcity is nation-wide. It reaches far behind the butcher shops and packers' storage plants—right back to the hog feedlots on farms. It is not of short duration, altho the supplies are believed to be as tight now as they will be at any time during the remainder of the war period. Packers yesterday forecast that a large percentage of the country's consumers will be without pork chops for some time.

A spokesman for one national packer said that the percentage of his company's domestic orders for pork loins now being filled is the smallest in history because of heavy deliveries to lend-lease and military services. Pork salesmen agree that, from the standpoint of the over-all tonnage and anticipated requirements, there is less basis to plan elimination of ration points for loins and hams than last winter, when production broke records and the OPA deemed it unwise to make pork point free.

The tonnage released to civilians will be directly associated with the requirements of the services and lend-lease. The consensus at the yards is that an immediate end of the war against Germany will not bring a quick end to lend-lease buying. About 27 per cent of the pork and lard produced last winter was absorbed by lend-lease.

Booklet on Pickles and Relishes

Now is the time for making pickles and relishes to dress up next winter's meals. There are many old and new ways of using cucumbers, tomatoes, watermelon rind, and other vegetables or fruits to make pickles and relishes.

An all-time favorite is the dill pickle, plain or kosher. Another sought after recipe is that for bread and butter pickles. Recipes for pickles using cucumbers make up the first section of Mary Meade's booklet, "Favorite Pickles and Relishes." Other recipes included are for mixed pickles, watermelon pickles, cooked or uncooked chili sauce, tomato catsup, beet relish, and many others.

Children Need Playmates of Their Own Age

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Let's tie him up, shall we? He's a pest and he won't go home."

"No, let's make him dig a hole for us and then we can play that game I told you about. We'll get rid of him later."

"I'm sick of playing baby games with you. You don't know anything. Beat it. I'm busy."

Haven't you heard remarks like these or very similar to them when an older child has to play with a younger one too much?

It's all right for children to play with those younger than themselves occasionally, but not all the time. When children are so situated that they have no companions of their own age and constantly have to be with children much younger, it isn't a good thing. I think, on the whole, it's harder for the older ones—I mean worse for their dispositions and characters, tho it's not good for the younger ones either.

For one thing it's apt to make the former overbearing. A younger child naturally looks up to the older ones and will stand around in the offing, wait on them hand and foot, and follow them as leaders.

Also the older children often get into the habit of teasing or tormenting the younger ones, because it's so easy and because their imaginations don't work well under such circumstances to make them visualize the terror they can inspire.

If there's anything of the bully in them, that quality is apt to develop under this uneven companionship. And that surely is one of the most objectionable things a child can become. Or, if they are of the opposite temperament—gentle perhaps—they have to be so careful not to hurt the younger ones physically that they are deprived of the natural freedom which is their right.

And as far as play itself is concerned, it doesn't work out well. Children at different ages are interested in totally different things, so they usually have difficulty in finding many games of common interest; or one child is bored and the other becomes impatient.

Therefore, children need—certainly for part of the time—playmates of their own age for the community of interest, for the freedom of action, and for the easy give and take, rough and tumble, it makes possible.

Pharmaceutical Items of Early Era on View to Mark Anniversary

Mortars and pestles of a type used 75 years ago, a pharmacopoeia printed in England in the 18th century, and other old time pharmaceutical equipment and literature went on display yesterday at the University of Illinois college of pharmacy, 808 S. Wood st., as a feature of the celebration of the school's 85th anniversary. The display will continue for a week at least.

Much of the exhibit is of items which English, French, German, and other foreign pharmacists sent the college after the fire of 1871 had destroyed it. Partly because of this help the school was able to reopen in 1871. Except for this break, it has been in continuous operation since September, 1859. It is the oldest professional school in Illinois and the third oldest west of the Alleghanies.

Child's Suit

SIZES
6-14

Schoolgirls, as well as career women, value the suit for its wearability, versatility, and smartness. In gay plaids, this two piece suit is grand for subdebs. Style No. 3892 is designed for sizes 6 to 14. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 54 inch material for jacket and skirt.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Thru the Looking Glass

The uniformed women in most theaters of war will want, first of all, eminently practical Christmas gifts. But we think it would be really noble to slip into their boxes some touch of luxury, essentially feminine, that won't take up much room or be foolishly de luxe, but at the same time will satisfy their souls.

We've picked our little salute to their femininity and we have a strong hunch it will gratify them, even those who are wearing dungarees and sloshing thru mud every working day. It's a little glass cylinder of perfume in dry, powder form. The box takes up only a couple of inches and weighs less than two ounces. We know that in lots of areas the girls need other, sterner things far more than they need perfume, but we also know that every daughter of Eve needs hyacinths on which to feed her soul. Women are just funny that way.

You simply cannot ship fancy bottles of perfume—too much bulk and too great danger of breakage. And even if the fragile bottles reached the nurse, the WAC, or the Red Cross worker, she'd have no place to keep them, and when she moved they'd never survive transport in her barracks bag. The little cylinder of dry perfume will be pure joy and no burden.

This perfume is in two beautiful fragrances, both blends. The base is floral, but beyond that we know not. All we know is that they're nice and certainly tailor made for feminine tastes. The scent in the powder isn't a short lived one, we know. Some we've had around for months is as fragrant as the day it reached our desk.

This seems to us a perfect tuck-in gift for the woman overseas. She's a soldier, to be sure, but she's a woman, too, and as a woman she'll value a little lovely perfume even more than she would the purely practical necessities of life.

Illinois Clubwomen to Hold School for Post-War Planning

The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will sponsor a post-war planning school this winter, with studies directed toward economic adjustment, housing, and rehabilitation.

Plans for the school, which were drafted yesterday by the state board of directors at the closing session of their annual two day fall meeting at federation headquarters, are in coöperation with those outlined by the general federation's post-war planning committee. Classes, which are to be conducted weekly or monthly, depending on the demand, will be under the direction of Mrs. W. G. Suthers of the 3d district.

Board members also pledged support of the youth education program of Livingston Osborne, director of conservation for the state of Illinois, and voted to sponsor personal expenses of an Indian youth who recently received a scholarship to the Art institute. Mrs. Walter M. Rennie, state president, conducted the sessions.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds.

I seem to recall from my early school days an ancient proverb that suggested something about the cobblers' children never having any shoes. I don't suppose that the average golf club manufacturer could break 100 on the links, or that the person who makes baseball bats could ever get to first base. Along with "Man Bites Dog" it would rank as news, therefore, that the inventor of Kem cards is a bridge player of outstanding talent. He is South and the glamor boy of today's hand. The complete deal was shown yesterday and you were asked how to play the hand with the knowledge of where the cards were. When Siegfried Klausner, the Austrian chemist, now residing in this country, negotiated this contract, no such view was available to him.

The bidding was logical. The only question that might be raised is as to the merits of South's second bid. Some players would prefer to make a jump shift of three hearts, in order to make sure at this point that game would be reached, but Klausner preferred to take the more conservative course, due to the fact that there was some possibility that the hand would prove to be a misfit. Had South bid three hearts, North would have jumped to four spades, and the final contract would have been the same.

The king of diamonds was opened and taken by the ace. It appeared that there were two lines of play open to declarer. One was to establish clubs and make the dummy the master hand, the other was a complete cross-ruff. The later play would probably involve the taking of the heart finesse, inasmuch as dummy had only four trumps with which to take care of five red losers. Declarer concluded that if the clubs broke normally [3-2] there was no need to risk the heart finesse, since dummy could be established. A low club was led to the ace and a club was returned and ruffed with the queen. Assured of a club break, declarer cashed the ace of trumps on which both opponents followed. Without trying to drop the outstanding trumps, declarer then led the deuce. This assured two entries to dummy, one by a straight trump lead and another by a ruff. Both were needed to establish the clubs and then get over to run them. Ruffing with the queen of trumps was essential because it was necessary to preserve low trumps in the South hand, in order to obtain entry to dummy's trumps. Note that dropping the jack of trumps would have done declarer no good. Spending that trick was a very profitable investment.

Announce Carlin Will Not Continue in His Opera Post

Herbert E. Carlin, recently appointed manager of the Civic Opera house and the Civic theater, will not continue as assistant manager of the Chicago Opera company, it was revealed following a meeting of the executive committee of the opera company yesterday.

Before his appointment as house manager for the two theaters in the Civic Opera building, Mr. Carlin had served as assistant to James C. Thompson, manager of the Chicago Opera company and president of the Wacker Corporation which operates the Civic Opera building. Mr. Carlin was appointed house manager of the two theaters by Mr. Thompson Monday, following the resignation of J. Charles Gilbert. Mr. Carlin was manager of the Grant Park concert for six seasons and was a former assistant to James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians.

Abner J. Stilwell, vice president and treasurer of the opera company, admitted, following yesterday's meeting, that complaints had been received concerning Mr. Carlin's position in the opera company.

Gustaf Bergman, newly appointed stage director of the opera, will assume Mr. Carlin's duties as assistant manager, Mr. Stilwell said.

Film Is Simply Case of 'Take It or Leave It'

"TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT."

A Twentieth Century-Fox picture, directed by Benjamin Stoloff, starring Phil Baker, with Edward Ryan, Marjorie Manow, and Stanley Frazer, and presente" at the Garrick.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I don't know much French, but I do know that, on the air, Phil Baker is my bête noir and that I didn't like him in "The Gang's All Here." Be that as it may, I joyfully report that in this picture he does a nice, smooth job as himself directing a "Take It or Leave It" program.

Most of the action takes place in a broadcasting studio where, during an aw-fully long broadcast, "your genial master of ceremonies" helps a sailor [Edward Ryan], who is soon to become a father, to get a lot of "moola" by handing him $64 question after $64 question.

The plot gets pretty sticky toward the end, but before that you've had some laughs and have enjoyed songs, dancing, and acting in scenes from movies of the past, which are shown in connection with the sailor's questions.

I wouldn't exactly say take it and I wouldn't exactly say leave it.

School Directors to Meet.

The board of directors for the Park Ridge School for Girls will hold its first fall meeting at 10 a. m. today at the school.

Looking at Hollywood

. . . . . By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 14.—Henry Ginsberg bought "The Night Before," by Robert Russell, for Ray Milland and Sonny Tufts. It's about two navy fellows who have a wager that they can find a magnum of champagne in San Francisco. There's only one woman in town who has one. How they get it and her should be funny. Sonny knows about the distaff side of the navy. He had a bodyguard of WAVES when he was up there a few weeks ago. . . . Gracie Fields, and not Betty, does "The Flying Yorkshireman" for Bill Dozier. Which reminds me, it will be Gracie and Constance Bennett who will star in "Paris Underground" when it's made. . . . "Fallen Angel" was turned down by David Selznick. If you should walk on the Selznick lot in the near future and see a sign, "Genius at Work," you'll know Orson Welles and David have signed a contract and are working together. That I would like to see. There's no doubt about it, if Orson could be controled he'd be tops. But David doesn't control himself, so how can he control Orson?

Romance a War Casualty.

The Leslie Fenton-Ann Dvorak marriage, which survived the exigencies of three years in war time London, was blitzed today. Confirming the separation, after 12 years of married life, Ann told me: "Yes, it's true Leslie and I have separated. Our marriage can be classed as a war casualty." . . . In 1940 Fenton went to England and became a lieutenant in the British navy, with Ann following him shortly to London. While she entertained troops and drove an ambulance, he commanded a PT boat and was wounded in action. They returned to Hollywood about a year ago to resume their careers.

Who Makes the Next Move?

Wonder when our actors are going to begin to fight back? Seems Olivia de Havilland and Robert Cummings have been kept off the screen too long. . . . Claudette Colbert is spending three days in San Francisco, while Jimmy Pendleton finishes her playroom. . . . John Charles Thomas guest stars with Amos 'n' Andy Sept. 22. . . . M-G-M has him under wraps, but it has signed Fulton Burley, Irish tenor with John McCormack's quality. He's tall, dark, and only 22. His singing career was sponsored by Jim Clark, speaker of Canadian house of commons, who came here to see that we did right by his boy. I don't know whether we've done right, but I've taken him under my wing. . . . John Wayne gets his first vacation in two years because there was no one to play opposite him in "Duel in the Sun."

Hi-yo Silver, or Back at Old Job.

Harry Carey started his screen career in westerns, but had to become a dramatic actor before they'd let him play another western. Now he'll share honors with a top ranking player from the Comedie Francaise —Victor Francen—in "San Antonio." Harry hopes his young protege, Wendell Corey, who worked with him on Broadway, will be in the picture also. Anyway, he's en route west to test for Jack Warner. . . . Spike Jones, back from overseas, played for Bing Crosby, Dinah Shore, and Fred Astaire in a London canteen. He says Bing's nickname is "Uncle Sam without whiskers." 'Twas amusing listening to Bing singing from over there "San Fernando Valley Is My Home," because after his home in that valley burned down he moved out. Before he left here Bing told me if he ever reached Paris he'd go to the top of the Eiffel Tower and sing our national anthem just as loud as his lungs would permit him. I hope he gets his hope.

On Bandwagon.

When Abbott and Costello were introduced at a dinner given recently the toastmaster went overboard with, "I now give you the most successful team of modern time—Abbott and Costello." The first thing Bud said when he got to his feet was, "Whatever happened to that team —Eisenhower and Montgomery?" . . . Mrs. Pat O'Brien, interviewing a prospective cook, asked if she had had any experience with dietary menus. Answer: "Only what I've been eating for years, ma'am." . . . When "Up in Mabel's Room" was shown in Columbus, O., Gail Patrick was billed as Mrs. Dean White. That's where the Whites, her in-laws, hail from. . . . After Johnny Weissmuller's haircut and modern clothes, he winds up doing "Tarzan and the Amazons" first. . . . Mrs. Gene Autry is back from Dallas, Tex., looking for a new manager for Gene's western music publishing company. Gene remains down there as a flight officer for a ferrying command. . . . Russel Selwyn, Ruth's son, who received the D. F. C. for flying over Germany, will reach here for Erin O'Kelly's birthday. They were married just before he took off. . . . After visiting Washington, D. C., and Philadelphia for the opening of "Wilson," Geraldine Fitzgerald is back to "Nobody Lives Forever" and John Garfield.

Just One of a Kind.

Mary Livingston is sulking because Howard Greer wouldn't make her a form fitting beaded creation like the one he turned out for Sonja Henie. Sonja's got it in two colors. . . . Is it true that Acquanetta's going to marry that wealthy steel man from Pittsburgh? . . . Dana Andrews' imitations of his fellow players are murderous. Wish he'd do them in a picture. . . . Want the real lowdown on Frank Sinatra's statement that pictures stink? Sure, he said it. The facts are as follows: Frankie was working in the Hollywood Bowl. It was 110 in the shade, but no shade. He was tired and cross, the picture was four weeks overdue. When a prop man came along and said, "Well, what do you think of pictures now?"—he said, just as all of us have many times, "I think they stink!" And wouldn't you?

3 TAYLORVILLE MEN TO START IN ILLINI OPENER

Lineup for Normal Game Set.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 14 [Special].—Taylorville, a community of 8,700 population, will furnish three members of the Illinois starting lineup when the Illini meet Illinois Normal here Saturday in the season's opener.

John Orr, end; Don Janssen, tackle, and Frank Hurtte, guard—all on the right side of the line—are Taylorville's contribution. Janssen will start in place of Chuck Smith, Elgin, who has a rib injury. Orr has supplanted Lou Agase, Evanston.

Other starters will be George Bujan, Christopher, center; Larry Forest, Chicago, guard; Les Bingaman, Gary, Ind., tackle; Sam Zatkoff, Hamtramck, Mich., end.; Don Greenwood, Chicago, quarter back; Eddie Bray, Utica, left half; Paul Patterson, Aurora, right half, and Jerry Cies, Carlinville, full back.

PURDUE WORKS ON TIMING.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 14 [Special].—Purdue's football squad was sent thru an intensive drill this afternoon as Coach Cecil Isbell sought to perfect the intricate timing of T formation plays.

A possible back field combination for the season's opener with Great Lakes began to take form. It included Boris Dimancheff, veteran from last year, at right half back; Chalmers Elliott and Stanley Dubicki alternating at left half back, Ed Cody at full back, and Raymond Schultz at quarter back.

Another speedy combination was made up of two freshman half backs, Bob Pfohl and Ted Held, the veteran George Mihal at full back, and James Walley at quarter.

N. U. KICKERS DRILL.

Punting received chief emphasis yesterday as Coach Lynn Waldorf continued defensive drills for Northwestern university's football squad. Kicking has been one of the weaknesses of the Wildcat squad and will be stressed until the opening game with Wisconsin, Sept. 30, said Wes Fry, back field coach.

Two naval trainees, Jack Harker and Dick Conners, and a civilian, Johnny Youngwirth, are likely to share the punting task. Three naval lettermen, John Kroeger, Duane Sickels and Ray Justak, are being drilled to take care of the kickoff assignment.

MICHIGAN TAPERS OFF.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 14 (AP).—The University of Michigan football team started tapering off today with a light drill in preparation for its opening game here Saturday against the Iowa Pre-Flight eleven.

Following a kicking and passing session, Coach H. O. [Fritz] Crisler said his starting back field against the Seahawks probably will be made up of Quarter Back Joe Ponsetto, Half Backs Bob Nussbaumer and Ralph Chubb, and Full Back Bob Wiese. Chubb is the only member of the quartet who was not a 1943 Wolverine letter man.

OHIO'S BROWN INJURED.

Columbus, O., Sept. 14 [Special]—Injuries continued to plague the Ohio State football squad today as Matt Brown, substitute full back, turned up again with a knee injury.

This brought the list of injured to six, but most of the men are expected to be in uniform for the opener with Missouri here Sept. 30.

Coach Carroll Widdoes said today that in scouting Buckeye opponents this fall Assistant Coach Ernie Godfrey will be on the road every Saturday. Paul Bixler and Jack Graf will alternate on road trips. Homer Edington and Campbell Graf also will assist in the scouting.

ULCERATED EYE KEEPS KUROWSKI OF CARDS HOME

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 14 (AP).—George Kurowski, third baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals, is undergoing hospital treatment for an ulcer on his right eyeball and will not make the trip to Chicago with the team. The Cardinal office said today Kurowski will join the club in the east.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

WHEREVER American league fans have gathered in recent weeks there has been a preponderance of those who would like to see the St. Louis Browns win the pennant in Will Harridge's circuit. . . . This probably is exclusively an underdog reaction. . . . The Browns, as every one knows, are the only team in the majors which never has won a pennant. . . . The Browns have been assembled from far and wide, but with no recruiting from teams which have cut the big slice of world series melons, as they say in Strawberry Point, Ia. . . . All the Brownie players, so far as this department has been able to ascertain, always have been good to their folks and are respected by their neighbors. . . . Recently many of the Brownie rooters have been qualifying their statements. . . . "If the Browns can't make it I hope the Tigers cop," seems to be the current consensus. . . . Those who expect to see the world series, regardless of who plays it, appear not only to pull for the Tigers but to pick them. . . . The feeling is general that the Tigers would make the best opponents against the Cardinals.

The main reason for this feeling is the presence on the Detroit club of two pitchers, each of whom has won 24 games and is expected to win two or three more. . . . This pair, Dizzy Trout and Hal Newhouser, have shown they like the going when it is toughest. . . . They love spirited competition. . . . They revel in work. . . . When this was written Trout had pitched 300 innings; Newhouser, 264. . . . They not only top the league in the quality of their workmanship but in quantity as well. . . . When the Tigers lost to the Cardinals in 1934, you will remember, two pitchers, the Dean brothers, won all four games—two each—and Diz still had room to suffer a loss in addition to his pair of successes. . . . If Detroit wins, the first three games of the series will be played in the Cardinals' park on Oct. 4, 5, and 6. . . . Oct. 7 will be a travel date and the teams will play in Detroit Oct. 8, 9, and 10. . . . If a seventh game is required it will be played on Oct. 12, which will leave Oct. 11 open for the benefit of the ticket sellers. . . . We are not prepared to predict how Diz and Hal would come out in each game, but each probably would be willing to start three games over such a 10 day span. . . . After all, Christy Mathewson and Jack Coombs won three games in the five game series of 1905 and 1910. . . . Red Faber won three games for the White Sox in the six game series of 1917, and Babe Adams and Stanley Coveleskie won three games in the seven game series of 1909 and 1920. . . . And the zeal of Trout and Newhouser has been compared with that of those famous old timers.

We Hope You'll Like It.

The seventh annual "In the Wake of the News" book will make its appearance on the newsstands today. . . . Thousands of contributions found a place in this column during the year, but there is space for only about 400 in the book. Congratulations to those whose offerings were included and thanks to all who have helped make the Wake America's most widely read sports column.

Christmas in September.

We're buying Christmas presents
While flowers still are blooming
And leaves still crown the trees.
And while we pack the boxes
Our love winged thoughts will stray
To him beyond the border
And a war time Christmas day.
And when he tears the wrappings
What visions will he see?
Perhaps for just a moment

It Happened in Dubuque.

It was Virgie Winter's Sunday to open up the early watch at the local bus station, so, as is her custom on such occasions, she arose with the dawn and betook herself to a 6 a. m. church service before reporting for duty. On this particular Sunday the sermon seemed to be running overtime, so Virgie, fearing she would be late for work, leaned toward a gentleman next to her and whispered, "Pardon me, but could you please let me have the time?" "Certainly," replied the stranger. . . . Digging into a trouser pocket he came up with a bright silver dime and whispered, "It's okay, young lady, think nothing of it." . . . Virgie was so upset over the incident she was routing passengers who wanted to go to Guttenberg via South Bend, Ind., half the morning. —Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

DERRINGER HIDES RINGS SO WELL HE FOOLS HIMSELF

Paul Derringer, Chicago Cubs' veteran pitcher, pulled the hidden ball trick on himself so effectively that for a time he feared he had lost three rings, which he said were valued at $2,250. When the squad left St. Louis Monday he packed the rings in his bag, which he did not open until Wednesday after arriving at the Stevens hotel in Chicago.

He was unable to find the jewelry then and reported its disappearance to the police. Yesterday, however, he told Frank De Gris, chief house officer at the Stevens, that he had given his clean shirts, which had been packed in the bag, a thoro inspection and had found the three rings among them.

SPARTANS GIRD FOR RETURN TO GRIDIRON WARS

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

East Lansing, Mich., Sept. 14.—Michigan State college, after a year's hiatus, will return to the gridiron wars this fall. The five game schedule is only a shadow of the 1942 program, but the fact that Michigan State will play at all is a tribute to the popularity of the sport with American youth and to the faculty members who have given permission for renewal.

Michigan State has no navy trainees. The army men last year could not play so when Coach Charles Bachman, who has directed Spartan football since 1933, had only 21 players, he and Ralph Young, director of athletics, practically were forced to cancel the 1943 schedule. Michigan State now has a squad of 65 players and all but four of them were on hand this morning for the first of the day's two drills. Practice opened Monday. Eighteen players are former captains of high school elevens. All are civilians, but the classification includes at least 10 who have received honorable discharges from military service.

May Enlarge Schedule in '45.

Michigan State is restricted, however, to football competition with universities depending entirely on civilian talent. Since the V-12 navy program this year is not nearly so important a factor in providing experienced talent as it was in 1943, it is likely the Spartans will be permitted to schedule all former opponents in 1945. This would permit the resumption of the annual rivalry with the University of Michigan.

Bachman, who utilized a leave of absence last fall to coach Camp Grant's Warriors, and the Spartans are working as diligently as if Michigan were their first opponent. Indeed, none will be excused Saturday afternoon to watch the Michigan-Seahawks opening game in Ann Arbor.

The football squad will practice in the afternoons and evenings next week—freshman week for M. S. C.—and then continue with single drills until the opening game Oct. 7 with the University of Kentucky in Lexington, Ky. Subsequent games are: Oct. 14, Kansas State, here; Oct. 21, Wayne university at Detroit; Nov. 4, Missouri at Columbia, Mo., and Nov. 11, Maryland, here. These opponents have no navy programs and thus their football teams will be composed of civilians. The Spartans are willing to enlarge their schedule if further competition on this basis can be found.

No Lettermen on Squad.

There never was any question in the faculty regarding the value of intercollegiate football and other sports. Michigan State's physical plant, from its stadium and practice fields to its magnificent fieldhouse, is second to none.

The Spartan football squad does not possess a player with sufficient experience to hold a varsity letter. Morgan Gingrass, full back in 1941 and 1942, participated in summer practice, but he has not returned this fall. Jack Breslin, Battle Creek, Mich., full back, and Francis Brogger, right end, received freshman monograms in 1941 and 1942, respectively. They are classified 4-F in the draft.

Players Should Develop.

"Altho we have a young and unseasoned team, there are several potentially good men who may develop," Bachman said in appraisal of his material. "Most are a year away from playing pre-war varsity football, but with an unusually long period to prepare we hope to have a representative squad. Kentucky will have an advantage in that it meets Tennessee and Mississippi State before we open our season with the Wildcats." A partial list of Michigan State's players follows:

ENDS—Don Grondzil, Saginaw, Mich.; Bill March, Hagerstown, Md.; Art Arnst, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Bob Schroeder, Flint, Mich.; and Ken Rhynard, Alma, Mich.

CENTERS—Brady Sullivan, Steubenville, O.; Herb Quade, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Rodney Benjamin, Dansville, Mich.; and Bill Johnson, Wyandotte, Mich.

HYDE PARK STARS READY FOR AN OLD FEUD

HYDE PARK AND ENGLEWOOD SET FOR 61ST BATTLE

Chicago's prep football season, inaugurated by 10 Catholic league teams in practice games last Sunday, swings into full stride this week-end with 80 high school teams scheduled to play before Sunday night.

One of the oldest prep rivalries in the United States, dating back to 1889, will be renewed tomorrow afternoon in Yates av. stadium when Englewood and Hyde Park meet in a nonleague game. It will be the 61st meeting of the two teams. They have played each year, except in 1914, and, around 1894, met twice during some seasons. Englewood won last year, 6 to 0. Hyde Park holds the over-all advantage with 30 victories against 25 losses. Five games were tied.

Eckersall Gets Start.

It was the Hyde Park-Englewood rivalry which first brought Walter Eckersall, legendary quarter back of the University of Chicago, his first football fame. Playing on the nationally famous Hyde Park teams at the turn of the century, Eckersall attracted attention of leading universities. He enrolled at Chicago and was chosen on All-American teams for three years. He died on March 24, 1930, after becoming known as America's paramount football official. He also was a sports writer for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

In tomorrow's game, Hyde Park will be depending upon Jim Fuchs, the squad's leading back and the City league's track sprint champion. Fuchs also is a dangerous punter. Likewise in the Hyde Park back field will be Bill Freeland, quarter back and star passer.

Lane to Face Austin.

Englewood will put a heavier team on the field, having a 10 pound per man advantage. Half Backs Dick Dean and Herb Saunders, holdovers from last year's squad, are expected to do most of the ball carrying behind a line that is new but promising.

This afternoon in Lane Tech stadium, a potentially strong Lane Tech team will meet Austin in a nonleague game. Lane, which finished second in the North section race of the City league last season, has a squad built around five returning veterans, including Capt. Bill Fischer, a 230 pound tackle.

Tilden Tech will make its first start of the season against Leo's Lions tonight in Shewbridge field in a practice game. The teams met two successive years in the Kelly bowl game. Leo began its 1944 campaign last Sunday with a 7 to 7 tie with St. George, co-champions of the Catholic league last year.

Sullivan at Loyola.

Roosevelt and Marshall will unveil their 1944 squads this afternoon in Winnemac park. Sullivan opens tonight at Loyola, 6 to 0 victor over De Paul last Sunday. In other night games, Calumet will travel to Rock Island, and Glenbard plays at Wheaton.

Another prep attraction tomorrow will be held at Soldier's field, when the City league champion, Wendell Phillips, will meet Du Sable. Phillips' success will be contingent upon Half Back Horace Chandler's ability to fill the shoes of Claude [Buddy] Young, now at Illinois.

Irish Captain Participates in First Drill

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 14 [Special].—Pat Filley, Notre Dame football captain last season, who will serve in that capacity again this fall, took an active part in the Irish squad's workout today for the first time this fall. He has been recovering from operations on both knees.

With only three experienced linemen on the squad, the possibility that Filley, a guard, may be able to play in the opener against the University of Pittsburgh Sept. 30 will have much to do with the chances for an Irish victory.

Mike Bogdiewicz, freshman from Jersey City, N. J., who has been listed as a second string guard, was forced to quit the squad today because of a hernia. Emil Ladyko, an end, withdrew for the same reason yesterday. The squad, working with a wet ball for the third straight day, put in the entire session on fundamentals.

ODT SEEKING TO MAKE FOOTBALL STRICTLY LOCAL

Managers of all university, college, high school, and professional football teams again have been requested by the office of defense transportation to confine sale of tickets to the immediate communities in which the games are played, Chicago officials of the ODT said yesterday. This plan was followed by many teams last year.

Elmer Layden, commissioner of the National Football league, already has assured the ODT his organization will coöperate as it did last year, when, by revising schedules and limiting the number of players taken on trips, travel was reduced 37 per cent in comparison with 1942.

COCHRANE GETS ASSIGNMENT TO SOUTH PACIFIC

Lt. Comdr. Gordon [Mickey] Cochrane, former catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics and later manager of the Detroit Tigers, will be detached from duty at the Great Lakes Naval Training center Wednesday and sent to the South Pacific, it was learned last night.

Cochrane entered the navy April 1, 1942, and was assigned to Great Lakes as baseball coach. In the off season Cochrane was regimental commander in recruit training.

SOX RETURN TO ACTION AGAINST BROWNS TONIGHT

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, nicely attuned to their opportunity to knock the St. Louis Browns out of the American league pennant race, are in St. Louis for a four game series with Luke Sewell's boys. The series will open tonight with Orval Grove pitching for the Sox and Denny Galehouse the choice of the Browns.

The Sox have lost five of their seven games in St. Louis to date, but say they can see no reason to go clear back to April and June to talk about that. They didn't take the Browns seriously as a pennant threat. They hold that the brilliant way they performed in knocking over the Browns in Chicago, three out of five, is a better criterion for the form players.

Both Are Well Rested.

Neither team has played in league competition since Grove beat the Browns with a triple off Galehouse in the 11th inning of the second game in Comiskey park last Sunday.

The Sox will be bearing down for sheer love of competition, having virtually no chance to get any higher than fifth, which pays no sugar. As of daybreak today, the Sox were an even 10 games behind the fourth place Red Sox, and fourth, as you know, is lowest to cut in the world series pot. They could top the also-rans, however, being only two games behind the Cleveland Indians.

The Chicagoans will return home Monday and Tuesday to open their job as hosts to the four eastern clubs, the Athletics, the Senators, the Yankees, and the Red Sox, in that order.

BLANK CHANUTE FIELD

Chanute Field, Ill., Sept. 14 [Special].—The Chicago White Sox beat the Chanute Field Planesmen, 1944 champions of the Eastern Illinois league, 8 to 0, in an exhibition game this afternoon. Thornton Lee and Buck Ross pitched for the major leaguers. Scores:

JIM KALIVODA NAMED ACTING PIN SECRETARY

James Kalivoda, who served as assistant to the late Albert Sindelar, secretary of the Chicago Bowling association for more than 30 years, was named temporary secretary at a special meeting of the association last night in the offices at 32 W. Randolph st. Kalivoda will serve until December, at wnich time a regular election will be held.

He has been active in the Illinois Bowling association and the C. B. A. program for several years and took over Sindelar's duties from the time of his death until last night's session. Kalivoda was selected from a field of 15 candidates.

DETROIT FEARS POSSIBLE DRAFT OF WAKEFIELD

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 14 (AP).—A chance that draft of Outfielder Dick Wakefield by the army may break up the Detroit Tigers' winning combination before the end of the American league season was viewed with alarm by Detroit baseball fans today, tho Wakefield expressed doubt he would be called before the middle of October.

Wakefield, key man in the rapid rise of Tiger fortunes since his discharge from the navy in July, said he had been notified by his Chicago draft board that he had passed his army physical examination and was subject to call at any time.

NORTH SIDERS WIN, 4-2, AFTER 3 TO 2 DEFEAT

Cincinnati Catcher in 135th Straight.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs made another short visit to the second division yesterday and by the time they returned to fourth place they discovered the Giants had taken over half of the premises. The plunge to fifth place came when the Reds, in a 13 inning debate, put over a 3 to 2 decision in the front end of a double header, after which Charley Grimm's toilers provided suitable 4 to 2 amusement for themselves and 3,418 slightly chilled spectators.

The Cubs caused the overtime in the first game by creating a ninth inning 1 to 1 tie against Ed Heusser. Until this little flurry it looked as if the argument had been settled definitely by an item contributed by Ray Mueller against Paul Erickson in the second inning. The iron man catcher sailed a homer into the seats, a fitting celebration for his 134th consecutive game behind the plate this season, a total that broke the previous major league high of 133, set by George Gibson of the Pirates back in 1909. Mueller made it 135 in a row in the second game.

Hughes Slams a Homer.

Because Phil Cavaretta suffered a dizzy spell and couldn't show up for the second game, Roy Hughes drew an assignment and proved a most welcome addition for Paul Derringer in his quest for his sixth victory. Hughes hit an inside-the-park homer against Jim Konstanty with two on base to round out a four-run splurge in the fifth, the nonstop trip being assisted by the fact that Gerald Walker was injured while trying to field the ball. Additional aid in the incident came from a Red error.

Hank Wyse, the third of four Cub pitchers who had a hand in the first game, was doing his hitch when the Reds untied the knot in the 13th inning but Hank was responsible only in a mild way. The elusive Heusser started the blast with a two-base drive and Woody Williams followed with a pass. Dain Clay tried to sacrifice but, instead, forced Williams, Heusser taking third. Then Walker tapped to Stan Hack and an easy double play loomed, but Don Johnson dropped the throw at second so nobody was retired and Heusser scored. Somewhat disturbed by the turn of events, Wyse walked two men to force in the other run.

Bill Starts Tying Rally.

The ninth-inning run with which the Cubs brought on a lot of profitless work for themselves started with a single by Bill Nicholson, who went to second on a wild pitch after two were out. Andy Pafko walked and Bill Schuster, who earlier had taken over the shortstop chores, singled Nicholson home. The Cubs' other run came in their half of the 13th, when Pafko tripled and Schuster singled with none out.

A pass to Frank McCormick and a double by Mueller set up a one run lead for the Rhinelanders in the fourth inning of the second game, but alterations began when Johnson opened the fifth with a single. He was forced by Lenny Merullo, D. Williams walked and Derringer sacrificed as a sure way of avoiding a double killing. W. Williams fumbled Hack's grounder and Merullo scored. Then Hughes dumped a fly close to the line in right and Walker, after bumping against the wall, couldn't launch a respectable throw, so Hughes just kept on moving until he had crossed the plate behind Williams and Hack.

The Reds scored their second and last run in the eighth when they pasted Derringer for four hits.

DODGERS BEAT BRAVES ON RUN IN NINTH, 5 TO 4

Victory Puts Brooklyn in Sixth Place.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 14 (AP)—A home run in the eighth by Red Durrett, who fought with the marines on Guadalcanal, tied the score and a single with the bases loaded in the ninth by Augie Galan gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 5 to 4 victory over the Boston Braves in the first game of a double header today. The second game was postponed by rain after an inning and a half had been played.

Nick Collias was able to resume play today as was John Davey. Both had been sidelined by injuries. Bruce Elliott went to a first team tackle post in place of Clarence Esser, but the remainder of the first eleven was intact.

Risky Lad,

Helped Stem Panic of Depositers.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The 90 million dollar "Dawes loan" made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to the old Central Republic Bank and Trust company in June, 1932, has been repaid in full and the government has received interest approximating 2½ per cent for the use of the money, it was disclosed yesterday by a petition filed in the United States District court.

Charles Gates Dawes.

The prosaic legal document indicates that a successful end will be reached shortly in one of the most dramatic financial operations in Chicago's history. The Dawes loan was made "at the last minute" at a time when runs by depositors were threatening disaster to banks thruout the country. It was credited with easing the pressure on the larger Chicago banks, tho many smaller ones were closed in the following months.

Asks Dismissal of Suit.

The petition was filed in the court of Federal Judge Shaw. It asked the dismissal of a suit filed June 22, 1943, by Raymond J. Nitkey, asking 70 million dollars in double damages from Gen. Charles Gates Dawes and eight other defendants in connection with the 90 million loan.

The petition contains the latest report—as of Aug. 31, 1944—made by Charles H. Albers, state bank receiver, on the liquidation of the loan. The report disclosed that the RFC has received a total of $100,653,669 on the loan account. From this amount is deducted $3,497,116 covering liquidating and other expenses, leaving a total of $97,156,553. To this is to be added $2,350,000 which Albers estimated would be received soon in further liquidation on the loan. Thus the total RFC realization on the loan will be $99,506,553, leaving a balance of $9,506,553, equivalent to interest at approximately 2½ per cent.

Regarded as Vindication.

Successful liquidation of the loan was regarded in the financial district as a vindication of the judgment of the Central Republic's officers on the worth of the collateral pledged against it. Further, the interest paid on the loan compares favorably with prevailing rates paid by corporations for loans. Banks get about 2½ per cent for 5 to 7 year corporate loans, whereas the Dawes loan was for about 12 years.

Possibly a better comparison is with the rate paid by the government on money it borrows. The government pays about 2½ per cent for money it borrows for 25 years and about 2 per cent for money borrowed for 10 years. The original interest rate on the loan was 5½ per cent. Later it was cut to 3½ per cent.

Loan Widely Criticized.

Dawes resigned his position with the RFC in 1932 to come back to Chicago to help the Central Republic, which he formerly had headed. In succeeding years there was much criticism of the Dawes loan on the ground that it was a "government gift" to aid the Chicago bank. As events turned out, it is being paid in full and with interest.

The Central Republic ceased to function as a bank in 1932. It transferred its deposit accounts to the City National Bank and Trust company and its assets were transferred to the Central Republic Trust company for liquidation.

Gen. Dawes, a former Vice President of the United States, is chairman of the board of the City National.

HOG RUN LIGHT, PRICES STEADY; LAMBS ADVANCE

Broad demand for hogs kept nearly all classes at the office of price administration ceiling prices again yesterday as shipments from farms continued to run far below requirements. So low have receipts declined that packers are unable to keep pace with military and lend-lease demands, spokesmen for leading companies said.

Improved demand for lambs raised prices to the highest levels since early last week in brisk trade. Top natives sold at $14.50, 15 cents above Wednesday.

Corn Futures Reopen Well Below Ceiling

Trading in corn futures was resumed yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after a lapse of 15 months with the May delivery selling at $1.07½ to $1.05 a bushel at the opening, compared with a ceiling price of $1.18¼. First sales were at prices substantially below trade expectations, but despite buying attributed to cash interests the market recovered little and May closed at $1.05¾. Brokers estimated sales totaled more than 1½ million bushels.

Favorable war news depressed wheat which closed ½ to 1½ cents lower. Rye was likewise affected and lost 1 to 1¼ cents.

Oats after an early break of ½ cent rallied with September leading to advance 2¼ cents to 60¼ cents and close at the top. Deferred deliveries were ½ cent higher to ⅝ cent lower.

Barley was affected by spreading with corn and broke 1 to 2 cents early to a new seasonal low, but finished ¼ cent higher to ⅝ cent lower.

The break in corn futures had widespread effect thruout the country. Offerings of new corn increased substantially. Purchases were estimated at 300,000 bushels, a total of 500,000 in the last two days. Offerings of old corn were larger and sold at $1.16, the ceiling price on No. 2 yellow. New No. 2 yellow brought $1.10½ a bushel, net track Chicago for October-November shipment early in the morning and $1.09 later in the day, but last night bids to the country were at $1.08. Several weeks ago new corn sold at ceiling prices.

Expect New Loan Price.

Bearish sentiment in corn is being tempered by expectations the government loan price on the 1944 crop will be announced soon. The loan at 90 per cent of parity is expected to be equal to $1.06 a bushel, Chicago, for No. 2 yellow.

Recent increased activity in cash grain and futures has resulted in improved demand for memberships on the Board of Trade. One sold yesterday at $3,000, an increase of $700 over the last sale. In December, 1942, memberships sold as low as $25.

LET AUTO FIRMS PUT EXPERTS ON PEACE PLANNING

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 14 (AP).—The war man power commission today authorized automobile manufacturers to assign "a very small number" of technicians and engineers to the work of preparing for reconversion of the industry to civilian manufacture.

The action was taken at a meeting of WMC officials and heads of most of the automobile manufacturing companies.

Edward L. Cushman, Michigan WMC director, emphasized that nothing was suggested or approved that would in any way interfere with essential war production, and added that no discussion was had of a probable date for the resumption of car production. That, he said, was "many months away."

He disclosed that a similar meeting with labor leaders will be held here Sept. 22.

CENTRAL BANK PLANS TO PAY STOCK DIVIDEND

Directors of Central National Bank in Chicago will ask stockholders to approve a dividend payable in stock on a basis of one share for each five shares held, C. F. Kuehnle, president, announced yesterday. A stockholders' meeting will be held for that purpose, he said.

The total to be paid would be $100,000, or 20 per cent of present capital. Kuehnle said the proposed addition of $100,000 to capital was in keeping with the continued upward trend of the bank's deposits and earnings. He said resources have grown from $300,000 in 1936 to more than 55 million dollars.

APPEAL FOR HIGHER RECONDITIONED USED CAR CEILING DENIED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14 (AP).—The OPA has rejected a petition from used car dealers for higher ceiling prices on reconditioned automobiles, Administrator Bowles told members of the industry's advisory committee in a letter today.

The dealers had suggested that present markup of 25 per cent, allowed for reconditioned cars over ceilings for cars sold "as is," be boosted to 33⅓ per cent.

Bowles said that study of figures submitted by the dealer committee showed that actual margin in sales of reconditioned cars has been "something in excess of 25 per cent." Dealers may mark up 25 per cent or $100, whichever is higher.

WPB LIFTS NEW STEEL BAN FOR CIVILIAN GOODS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—Allotment of 100,000 tons of carbon steel and 25,000 tons of alloy steel for distribution to civilian goods manufacturers during the last three months of this year was announced today by Acting WPB Chairman Krug. Later, in a press conference, he disclosed the WPB also is setting aside reserves of steel for the future manufacture of such items as washing machines, refrigerators, stokers, and sewing machines.

The steel allotment, made possible by returns from the army, is part of the WPB's "spot authorization" program, which allows the resumption of civilian production where man power and facilities are not needed for war production.

Krug said the allotment will permit WPB officials to grant purchase authority for new production steel to manufacturers whose applications are approved under the "spot" order.

First New Steel Allotted.

He emphasized that this is the first allocation of new steel. The only steel previously available for "spot" production was from idle and excess stocks. Regional WPB officials may make allotments up to 100 tons of carbon steel during the quarter, but all applications for more than that amount must be referred to Washington.

Restrictions imposed upon WPB field offices at this time apply only to the 125,000 ton steel allotment, Krug said, and it is expected that the restrictions will be lifted as the steel reserve is increased. The new steel allocation is in addition to 270,000 tons previously given to the office of civilian requirements for essential civilian goods, and in addition to allotments of copper and aluminum already made.

Krug said in his press conference he hoped that civilian steel distribution will be increased. He said that altho steel is being placed in a "kitty" for washing machines, stokers, and refrigerators, WPB has made no plans for large scale resumption of the manufacture of these items. The extent of manufacture depends upon man power and facilities, he added.

More Freedom Promised.

Krug reiterated that WPB industry controls will be discarded as soon as they are unnecessary to maintain war production. He said the "spot" order can disappear "the day Germany is defeated," and industry allowed to reconvert to civilian production on its own.

He said he has received numerous letters from manufacturers stating that if industry is given a free hand in reconversion it will accomplish the transformation rapidly. He said federal agencies are attempting to equalize reductions in war output to ease the labor situation, but added "I'm the last one to tell you it will be a perfect job."

Krug denied London reports that the WPB has set the end of the war with Germany for Oct. 31. He said he doubted if even military authorities have fixed a definite date. He added that reconversion plans of the WPB are ready for operation should the war with Germany end tomorrow, altho there are a number of problems that will require time to smooth out. If the European war continues it is logical to assume that "spot" reconversion will expand, he said.

WPB MAY LIFT LID FOR ANOTHER WHISKY HOLIDAY

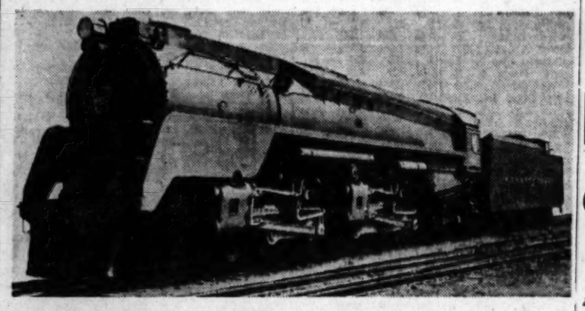
Washington, D. C., Sept. 14 (AP).—Distillers may be allowed to make more beverage alcohol soon, WPB's chemical bureau said today in a report to the industrial alcohol producers industry advisory committee. Approximately 54 million proof gallons of beverage spirits were produced during the August holiday, it was said.

The committee also was told that if corn crop estimates are realized, restrictions on the use of corn in distilling may be lifted by November. Corn is essential to the production of bourbon whisky.

Eastern to Add Two Chicago-Miami Flights

Two additional flights between Chicago and Miami will be instituted by Eastern Air Lines today, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president, announced yesterday. This will increase Eastern's passenger, mail, and express service between the two points to five round trips daily.

New Engine for Heavy Loads



Stock Prices End Lower in Lighter Trade

New York, Sept. 14 (AP).—Stocks generally closed fractions to a point or more lower today, altho selling was less urgent and scattered market favorites managed to pull themselves to fairly solid ground.

Most investors were inclined to maintain a liquid position because of the belief the end of the European conflict was approaching with economic reactions in industry at home a distinct possibility. More courageous bidders partially reinstated accounts on the view the recent reaction had discounted a lot of troubles.

Texas Pacific Land Trust was the most active stock, up ⅜ on reports of new oil discoveries on its property.

RAIL BONDS TEND LOWER.

New York, Sept. 14 (AP).—Sliding tendencies prevailed among active rails in today's bond market but support was sufficient to keep losses small and a recovery appeared in the making at the close.

Other groups held about steady in listless trading which for all bonds ran total sales to $6,458,000, compared with $6,267,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER.

Prices extended their decline on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in decreased turnover of 27,000 shares. Heavily traded issues included Chicago corporation, Libby, McNeill and Libby, and Commonwealth Edison, all down ⅛, and Consolidated Biscuit, unchanged. Central Illinois Public Service preferred reached a new 1944 high of 100¾, up ¾.

POSTER FIRM'S WAR JOB TO GO ON AFTER PEACE

Conversion of the manufacture of cardboard advertising items to navy tents was the war time experience of Poster Products, Inc., 3401 W. Division st., R. L. Burke, company personnel director, said yesterday. The company expects to continue its new line after the war.

Altho the company had had no previous experience in tent making, it has processed more than 26 million yards of canvas since October, 1942, when production was started after a seven weeks' changeover, he said.

"About the only qualifications we had to take on this new line of work was a good amount of floorspace, a willingness to try a new thing, and some ingenious foremen who ironed out production wrinkles," Burke said.

The company's labor force has grown from 125 to 787 workers. It has been able to maintain its advertising business on a skeleton basis and intends to resume full scale operation, along with its new line, after the war.

People and Events

Dempsey-Detmer & Co., member of the Chicago Stock exchange, yesterday announced a change in name to Dempsey & Co., with Joseph E. and Jack R. Dempsey, partners. Howard F. Detmer, former associate in the firm, will head Howard F. Detmer & Co., which has just been organized.

Samuel B. Williams of New York, editor in chief of Electrical World, was elected president of the Illuminating Engineering society, Howard Sharp, retiring president, announced yesterday. The society is meeting in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

The New York Central system announced the election of Leroy V. Porter as vice president, accounting. Porter formerly was vice president and controler. Edward A. Clancy, former assistant controler, was named controler.

Power and Speed

A new type of coal burning steam locomotive for freight service, especially designed to pull heavy loads at speed, has been placed in production by the Pennsylvania railroad, it was announced yesterday.

The locomotive has been designed to develop more power in the speed range at which it runs most of the time—more than 20 miles an hour—than any steam locomotive previously built. It develops a tractive effort, which is pull exerted on a standing train, of 114,860 pounds, or 78 per cent more than that of the standard high speed freight locomotive now in service on the Pennsylvania. It is capable of pulling 125 loaded cars at speeds exceeding 50 miles an hour.

The locomotive is essentially two engines harnessed together in a rigid frame. Four cylinders are used, of which the front two drive two pairs of driving wheels and the second two provide the power for three pairs of driving wheels.

SENATORS BACK BILL FOR STATE INSURANCE RULE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—A senate judiciary subcommittee today voted to recommend approval by the full committee of a house bill exempting the insurance business from provisions of federal antitrust laws. The bill, introduced by Rep. Walter [D., Pa.], passed the house in June.

If it becomes law, the bill would forestall New Deal control of the multibillion dollar American insurance business. Terms of the bill provide that nothing in the Sherman or Clayton acts "shall be construed to apply to the business of insurance or to acts in the conduct of that business or in any wise to impair the regulation of that business by the several states."

BELGIUM SEEKS CREDIT SIMILAR TO DUTCH LOAN

New York, Sept. 14 (AP).—On the heels of announcement the Netherlands government had arranged a 100 million dollar credit here, Belgium was reported seeking a similar loan from New York banks, also for rehabilitation of its war torn economy.

INDICT 7 FIRMS IN WORLD-WIDE BORAX CARTEL

Companies Owned in Britain Named.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 14 (AP).—A federal grand jury today indicted seven British and German owned companies, charging they monopolized the world supply of borax, strategic war chemical, in a cartel described by government attorneys as one of the most ruthless and complete in anti-trust division annals.

London, New York, and California business men were made defendants together with the companies they control, Borax Consolidated, Ltd., of London; American Potash and Chemical corporation, New York City, and their subsidiaries, which exploit the world's richest deposits of crude and sodium borates.

German Control Told.

Anti-trust division attorneys said 90 per cent of American Potash and Chemical was owned by Germans, but they were not indicted. Their stock was taken over by the alien property custodian after the German ownership was discovered in October, 1942, 10 months after the United States entered the war.

German control was concealed behind nominal Dutch ownership, Assistant Atty. Gen. Berge said, and added: "This is one of the first cartel cases in which the defendant had a virtual world-wide monopoly."

"In this case as in some others, we find companies using a cartel arrangement to undermine government policies," Berge said. "The companies take unto themselves what is really a government function—the making of economic treaties, and the allocation of world markets."

So vast were the operations of the cartel and so lucrative its profits, Berge said, that its leaders thought little of paying $700,000 for a small refinery threatening to operate independently, closing it down at once, dynamiting the mine and capping it. Other ways of squelching incipient competition described were sudden halving of prices, or expensive and harassing litigation.

Defendants Named.

Besides the two principal corporations, companies and individuals named as defendants were:

Pacific Coast Borax company and United States Borax company, both of Los Angeles, and both wholly owned subsidiaries of Borax Consolidated, Ltd.; Goldfields American Development company, Ltd., of London, a British group which handled actual management of the German controled American Potash under a separate contract, and two subsidiaries of American Potash, Three Elephant Borax corporation of New York and Borax and Chemicals, Ltd., of London, the selling corporation for American Potash in the United Kingdom and on the European continent.

F. A. Lesser and James Gerstley, joint managing directors of Borax Consolidated, Ltd., in London: Frank M. Jenifer of Sherman Oaks [Los Angeles county], Cal., president of Pacific Coast Borax: James M. Gerstley of Beverly Hills, Cal., son of the London Gerstley and vice president of Pacific Coast Borax: Frank T. Winters of Amityville, N. Y., vice president of Pacific Coast Borax: C. R. Dudley of Long Beach, Cal., director of Pacific Coast Borax.

F. C. Baker of New York, president of American Potash and joint trustee of Goldfields American Development: William J. Hatchley of London, president of Borax and Chemicals: Frederick Viewig of Los Angeles, vice president of American Potash: W. J. Murphy of New York, vice president in charge of sales for American Potash, and Robert M. Curts of New York, sales manager of borax and boric acid for American Potash.

Plans Negro Country Club Near Olympia

BY AL CHASE.

The Indian Wood Golf and Country club, 1½ miles south of Olympia Fields Country club, will be converted into a Negro recreation and residential center if plans of a Chicago syndicate are carried out, it was learned yesterday.

Negotiations are under way with the First National Bank of Chicago, owner of the 520 acres of club land and 280 acres adjoining, said Atty. Russell H. McBride, head of the group planning the Negro country club. The bank is asking $300 an acre, or a total of $240,000, it was said.

Sold Large Gary Acreage.

McBride, who was a trustee for the Tolleston Gun club property, of 800 acres, in the southwest section of Gary, recently sold that land, in half acre lots, to 1,600 Negro families. It was the rapidity with which this land was snapped up, in most cases with all cash or large down payments, that inspired the idea of a Negro country club.

If the First National sells the land the syndicate will retain 150 acres on which there is an 18 hole golf course and club buildings, for a privately owned and operated club. Members will be given the right to buy ½ acre up to 5 acre home sites on the remaining 650 acres, McBride said. It is estimated that about 1,000 Negro families could be housed there.

Expects to Get Option.

McBride said he expected to obtain an option on the property soon. Bank officials declined to say whether they would sell the land for a Negro development.

Associated with McBride are Edward W. Keough, a real estate broker, and Miss Alice Crawford. They have formed a corporation known as Village Developers which may operate the project if the land is obtained. The lots would be sold at a rate of $350 to $450 an acre, McBride said. The Gary Small Farms, of which Harry Prettyman is sales manager, which sold the Tolleston Gun club in Gary, may handle sales of the Indian Wood development, it was said.

Department store sales in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district in the week ended Sept. 9 were 8 per cent above a year ago. Chicago sales rose 8 per cent also. Detroit, Mich., led cities in the district with a 12 per cent increase.

SURPLUS GOODS NO ECONOMIC UPSET: OLRICH

Market Capacities Are Studied.

The government is making every effort in its disposal of surplus war property to avoid upsetting the country's economy in any way, Ernest L. Olrich, chief of the treasury department's office of surplus property, said yesterday. Olrich, president of Munsingwear, Inc., Minneapolis, spoke at the conference of the National Retail Dry Goods association's controlers congress in the La Salle hotel.

Ernest L. Olrich.

"Regardless of the size of the surpluses, we are confident that their disposal can be managed in a way that will do the country and the business community good," he said. "We do not share the worries of these people who see great quantities of merchandise literally dumped on the market without regard for the interest of the taxpayer, the manufacturer, the merchant, and the employe.

Maintain Market Study.

"We are conducting continuous studies which will put us in a position to exercise good judgment as to how much property we should offer for sale, when, and at what price from the standpoint of market effects."

He said the disposal of surpluses can be controled for the good of everybody if those in charge are determined to establish and maintain the control. In this respect, Olrich said that in his own organization in Washington he had brought together in the various merchandise divisions men highly respected in their fields.

"In our 11 regional offices, too, we are fast acquiring personnel which is thoroly familiar with the problems of distribution and which is experienced in solving them," he asserted.

Market Capacity Tested, Dry Goods Men Told.

with merchandise, he said that in instances where there are large inventories, the market is tested for its capacity to absorb the offerings without injuring the producing and distributing activities of the industries involved.

"In the case of some types of property, surpluses will probably be declared in amounts equal to two or three years' normal output of the industries involved," Olrich said. "Research has been initiated in an attempt to ascertain the effect of releasing these surpluses at various rates."

He said the government is endeavoring to sell thru regular trade channels and to avoid selling to speculators, and its policy is to offer goods in a way that will enable small stores to buy.

Buyers to Be Informed.

Steps which he said must be taken to transfer surplus goods to buyers are:

1. A complete description of the inventories must be obtained.

2. The potential market must be ascertained.

3. Information on the stocks on hand must be conveyed to the buyers.

Resolutions adopted by the congress included one urging that the office of price administration retain the existing system of price control until retailers and governmental agencies can agree on a substitute measure "which will not entail work, confusion and injustices disproportionate to the gains to be achieved."

Another urged that war time regulations and restrictions be discontinued at the earliest possible time.

PAPER INCREASE FORESEEN AFTER DEFEAT OF NAZIS

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—Increased supplies of newsprint and other paper products soon after the defeat of Germany were foreseen today by a special house committee investigating the paper shortage.

The committee, headed by Rep. Boren [D., Okla.], in a moderately optimistic report, said no further curtailments of paper allotments are in prospect for the rest of this year. It reported substantial progress in the stepping up of paper and pulp production and in the curtailment of excessive government use of paper.

At the same time the report said there is room for greater paper conservation, particularly in some federal agencies. It assailed reported New Deal plans to stockpile paper for use in foreign countries.

Opposes Burocratic Rules.

The committee also expressed opposition to any plan for federal dictation of the uses to which paper allotments shall be put. This, it said, would lead to abridgment of a free press.

Commenting on previous testimony before the committee that the state department had plans to create a 90 day newsprint stockpile "for publications in other American republics," the report said:

"No country should receive newsprint from this country which is not likewise subjecting itself to an equal and exact system of rationed use, curtailed inventories, and reclamation programs."

Concerning future paper supplies for newspapers, magazines, and other industries, the committee predicted a continuing shortage in the fourth quarter of this year. Further reductions to users will be avoided, it said, by reducing inventories and forcing the use of available stocks. Publications are presently restricted to about 75 per cent of pre-war consumption.

Victory to Ease Stringency.

As to the supply prospects after the Nazis are defeated, the report said such an event will make available to Europe and Latin America paper supplies from Scandinavia and indirectly will increase this nation's supply by reducing exports.

The report criticized federal agencies, including the war production board, war man power commission, and office of price administration for tardiness in recognizing the seriousness of the paper shortage and in taking steps to boost production.

Estimating that the present annual production rate of about 21 million cords of pulpwood in the United States and Canada is 11.2 per cent short of actual requirements, the committee said "probably an increase of 30,000 wood cutters in the two countries is necessary to lick the pulpwood shortage." It reported that pulp receipts at domestic mills were 24 per cent higher in the first seven months of 1944 than in the similar 1943 period.

Use 15,000 Prisoners.

"Permanent solution of the paper and pulp problem," it continued, "is possible only thru determined cooperation between the United States and Canada to obtain maximum pulpwood production."

The report said about 15,000 prisoners of war are being used to cut pulpwood and that this number will be increased by 1,250 by October. The WPB's paper salvage drive, it added, has helped boost monthly collections to 800,000 tons a month—near the all-time peak.

The report charged that some government agencies have given only "lip service" to paper conservation programs.

SECRET POLICE TO HUNT 'FACTS' IN GAS MYSTERY

Pick Up Scent in Iowa

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 14 [Special].—The gas madman of Mattoon, Ill., sure gets around. Cedar Rapids police today reported they had been called by a frantic woman who said a man had appeared at a window in her home, pointed a spray gun, and started pumping gas into the window. Investigating officers found no madman and no gas. They did find [1] a billy goat tied in the yard and [2] an odor that seemed to emanate from same.

BY CHARLES BALLENGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 14.—While state and local authorities continued to battle over the Mattoon gas spraying mystery, State's Atty. William E. Kidwell announced today he would employ private investigators in an effort to dig out the truth about the case.

Intends to Bare Facts.

The investigators, Kidwell said, would be unknown to any of the police who have participated in the case thus far. They will be given the power to question all victims and policemen involved in the search for the prowler.

"I intend to get to the bottom of this affair no matter whose toes are stepped on," he asserted. "If there has been sloppy police work the public has a right to know about it, and if some of the victims are spreading stories just to create excitement that should be brought out, too."

As a result of a statement issued Tuesday by Police Chief C. Eugene Cole, calling the prowler scare a hoax and blaming the gas fumes on a cleaning solution used in a war plant, Capt. Harry Curtis of the state police was recalled to his home office and replaced by Lt. J. E. Blaze. State Chief Harry Yde said he would come to Mattoon to help rectify the confusion caused by Cole's statement. The statement was concurred to by Capt. Curtis.

Tries Scientific Approach.

Kidwell said his investigation would be based primarily on scientific principles. He already has sent the stomach contents of two victims whose complaints he considers legitimate to Springfield for analysis. A report is not expected for several days.

As a first step in his investigation Kidwell has obtained the names of eight persons recently released from mental hospitals and known to be in the Mattoon vicinity. Activities of each are being checked thoroly. Whatever information is uncovered, Kidwell said, will be presented to the county grand jury when it meets in October.

During the last 24 hours police said they had received only one call complaining of a prowler. The complainant, Leo O'Toole, said some one had attempted to jimmy his bedroom window. No gas odor was detected.

BUTLER TO TAKE SCHOOL BATTLE TO LEGISLATURE

State Sen. Walker Butler [Rep., Chicago] yesterday termed the recent revocation of all school transfers a "political racket that should make people hold their noses" and said that he will introduce a bill for an elective board of education in the next session of the legislature.

He declared there is city-wide discontent with the school administration and that should bring strong support for the measure.

"The trouble is," Butler said, "the mayor forces his board appointments thru the city council and, in a situation like the present one, doesn't seem to know his appointees." He said it was obvious that, with the election coming on, parents will be forced to seek favors from aldermen or others and that the object is to influence votes.

Mass Meeting Sunday.

Parents continued yesterday to protest against the revocation of transfers, and a city-wide mass meeting is to be held in the Eighth Street theater, Wabash av. and 8th st. at 3 p. m. Sunday. The theater seats more than 1,000.

Mrs. Frank H. White Jr., 1716 W. 103d st., leader in arranging the meeting, said the gathering will be asked to back the elective board plan. She said that she and others plan to carry a plea for an elective board to Gov. Green soon, fulfillment of plans made Wednesday night at a meeting sponsored by the Ridge Citizens Schools committee on the far south side. She said plans were going ahead for starting an injuction suit to restrain the board from enforcing its transfer ban.

Board to Meet Sept. 27.

At the board of education offices a relatively quiet day was reported yesterday. Don C. Rogers, assistant superintendent for elementary schools, received several small delegations of parents.

A meeting of the board of education postponed Wednesday is now scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 27. Parent groups said they would continue holding children from school and keep up agitation to demand relief in that meeting.

John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, charged in an address last night in Evanston that Chicago schools no longer belong to the people. Chicagoans pay a "pretty price" for their public schools and in return are snubbed by the "Kelly machine program of public education," he said.

"Supt. Johnson's arbitrary and high handed method of dealing with Chicago school affairs is only one manifestation of a political machine whose arrogance has become intolerable," Dempsey added.

Board Withholds Verdict on Mrs. Haupt Internment

Mrs. Erna Haupt, mother of Herman Haupt, executed Nazi saboteur, had a hearing yesterday before the enemy alien board to determine whether or not she will be interned, but the board did not disclose its decision. Charges of treason against Mrs. Haupt were nolle prossed July 22 on condition that she surrender her citizenship.

OPA PUSHES ACTION AGAINST 29 IN NEW CIRCUIT COURT SUITS

The office of price administration announced yesterday it was making a new move to back up local board price and rationing panels, and filed civil suits against 14 food concerns, as well as suspension proceedings against 15 gasoline stations, according to Marion Isbell, acting area director.

Isbell said the food dealers suits, the first of their kind under new powers granted the OPA by congress July 1, together with others he said will follow, represent "possibly the most aggressive enforcement program of any OPA unit in the country." They were filed in Circuit court, the first of their kind to be entered here in other than federal courts.

Isbell said the OPA has loaded the federal courts with suits, and that in recent weeks more than one-half of all those filed with United States courts were OPA suits, with 180 pending in Chicago now. Local panels settle 90 per cent of all compliance cases, he said, and the rest are referred to the area office.

Eleven of the suits seek damages of $50 to $200 on alleged overcharges to consumers and OPA investigators, and injunctions restraining the firms from further over ceiling sales. The others ask license suspensions up to one year.

LEGION PARLEY TO COVER ARMY TRAINING PLANS

BY HARRY McCLAIN.

Universal military training will be a principal subject for discussion next week when the American Legion holds its national convention in the Coliseum from Monday thru Wednesday.

Warren Atherton.

Today and tomorrow the Legion's national defense committee will meet in the Palmer House to hear opinions of educators, National Guard, and reserve officers' spokesmen. The convention will determine whether to start an all-out campaign for universal training at once.

Universal military training has been an established policy of the American Legion for two decades. Earlier this week members of a subcommittee listened to the opinions of army and navy officers in Washington.

Several Methods Open.

Warren H. Atherton, national commander, who arrived yesterday from Washington, D. C., said there are several ways to make universal military training a success. One method, for youths who do not contemplate a college education, would be to integrate basic science and mechanics with military training for a year to enable the youth to gain more from his year in uniform than in a year of purely scholastic work.

For those who plan a college education, Atherton said, the first three months after their 18th birthday could be devoted to basic training in either the army or navy. The young men could then be furloughed to a school giving military training.

Urges R. O. T. C. Continuance.

The national commander said he believes the R. O. T. C. should be continued at the high school and college levels.

"The R. O. T. C.," he said, "has proved its value to the nation. It has supplied 80,000 officers to the military service. Gen. Marshall has said the availability of these officers has pushed prosecution of the war ahead at least six months. Any system that is so valuable to the country should be retained."

7,000 to Attend.

About 7,000 delegates and alternates will attend the Legion and auxiliary conventions. Attendance of others has been discouraged because of the transportation problem.

Cook county Legionnaires, with their drum and bugle corps and bands, will parade in the loop Sunday night in advance of memorial and patriotic services to be conducted in the Sherman hotel. Parades of any sort were barred in 1942 and 1943.

GREEN STARTS 'WELCOME VETS' MACHINE MOVING

Booklet Guides Men to Security at Home.

Under the leadership of Gov. Green, the state of Illinois started yesterday the nation's most comprehensive program of giving war veterans complete information on the benefits and services to which they are entitled upon discharge.

Distribution was started of a 64-page booklet, entitled "Welcome Home, Veteran." Designed as a post-discharge manual for Illinois G. I.'s, it relates in detail what they can get from the nation, state, and community. Distributed by the governor's committee on veterans' rehabilitation and employment, it will go to families and friends of service men, as well as to the veterans themselves.

108 Offices Listed.

Listed in it are the addresses of the 108 Illinois veteran's service offices to be opened in Illinois next week. Gov. Green at Springfield today will open a two-day intensive school for the state employes, all war veterans themselves, who will be field men in the service offices.

The booklet contains 10 chapters of information for the discharged soldier and sailor, but the basic advice, frequently repeated, is that information on how to solve any problem can be obtained from the governor's nearest service office. At least one will be located in every county, coöperating with selective service officials.

The governor's committee started distribution of the booklet to churches, and civic, fraternal and veterans' organizations. As rapidly as possible, it will go to parents and wives of service men.

Wants All to Know.

"We want every one acquainted with what can be done for the discharged soldier and sailor," the governor said.

Robert L. Gordon, state director of labor, announced that under the G. I. bill unemployment readjustment allowance claims were filed by 402 jobless veterans of World War II. during the week ended Sept. 9. For total unemployment veterans can get $20 a week for a period of time determined by length of service.

To the men and women with discharges and to their dependents, the booklet says that the benefits and services provided by the federal, state, and local governments are a matter of right.

Author a Veteran.

The author, identified only as a veteran, uses an informal and direct style in giving some good advice along with detailed information. He starts with a lecture on the importance of preserving discharge papers, and then tells how to do it at the county recorder's office.

Listed with addresses are the service offices, draft boards, employment offices, and other veterans' aid organizations. Veterans can seek information from the main offices of the governor's committee at 205 W. Wacker dr., Chicago, and 404 E. Adams st., Springfield.

CALUMET CITY JUDGE FINDS WIFE HANGED

Official on Football Team at Notre Dame.

Mrs. Ruth Wallace, 38, wife of Judge John J. Wallace of the Calumet City court, was found hanged yesterday in the bedroom of their home at 976 Golf ct., Calumet City. Judge Wallace, who found her body, said she had been in ill health.

Judge Wallace, a former football player at the University of Notre Dame, has been presiding in the suburb's city court since his election in June, 1939. He won by a majority of approximately 400 votes over Judge Roman E. Posanski and other candidates.

Assisted Knute Rockne.

Judge Wallace was a substitute end on the 1924 Notre Dame varsity gridiron squad that boasted the Immortal Four Horsemen. Later he was a regular end and an assistant coach to the late Knute Rockne.

Since his election Judge Wallace often has sat as judge in the Cook county Circuit court. He also has presided in the Marriage court.

Townspeople Discuss Causes.

Last night the townspeople of Calumet City buzzed in speculation as they discussed the causes which may have led Mrs. Wallace apparently to take her own life.

COURTS MARTIAL ARE CUT TO 3 IN 1,000, BAR TOLD

Court martial trials for American soldiers in this war have averaged three for each 1,000 men, Maj. Gen. Myron C. Cramer, judge advocate of the army, disclosed yesterday in an address before the 67th annual convention of the American Bar association in the Drake hotel.

During World War I., he said, the rate of military trials was three times as great and it was even higher in peace.

40,000 Lawyers in Uniform.

Rear Adm. T. L. Gatch, judge advocate general of the navy, said there are now 40,000 lawyers in uniform and that this number represented about one-fourth of the entire bar and bench of the nation.

The association passed a resolution recommending that the United States Supreme court never decide a case involving proposed changes in the Constitution unless a majority of the court concurs in the change.

The assembly voted down a resolution criticizing the Supreme court. The resolution accused the court of making it impossible for lawyers to know or even guess what the law is to be under its changing decisions. Another resolution, urging a constitutional amendment requiring a majority vote by both houses instead of a two-thirds sanction by the senate alone in the ratification of treaties, was referred to the association's midwinter meeting for further action.

Red Citizenship Case Hit.

A resolution calling for approval of the dissenting Supreme court opinion in the citizenship case of William Schneidermann, a naturalized Communist, was referred by the assembly to the association's committee on citizenship. The Supreme court held that Schneidermann was entitled to citizenship because he had not been arrested or charged with a crime for five years before the time of his application. The resolution charged that the majority decision "instead of being an interpretation and construction of the statute is a practical emasculation of its language and necessary meaning."

The house of delegates approved with modifications a resolution dealing with proposed rule 71-A, an amendment to procedural practice before the Supreme court which would give the government the right to condemn or confiscate for government use any private property merely by posting or sending notice of its intended seizure of the property.

Awards Are Made.

The state award of merit went to the Missouri State Bar association. The prize for a city or county of more than 100,000 population was awarded the Seattle [Wash.] Bar association. The Santa Barbara County [Cal.] Bar association won the prize in the under 10,000 classification.

Officers elected for the coming year are David A. Simmons, Houston, Tex., president; Tappan Gregory, Chicago, chairman of the house; Harry Knight, Sunbury, Pa., secretary, and John H. Voorhees, Sioux Falls, S. D., treasurer.

TAXICAB DRIVER SHOT FLEEING PAIR OF BANDITS

Harry Lerner, 49, of 5025 Winthrop av., a taxicab driver, was shot in the left hip last night when he fled from two bandits in the 1300 block of Clybourn av. He picked them up as fares at the Union station. Each was about 20. They gave a Clybourn av. address, then near the given address told Lerner they were robbers. Lerner leaped from his cab and ran away. One of the men fired a shot, felling him. The bandits fled, empty handed. A passing motorist, Arthur Ryan, 5700 S. Campbell av., a sanitary district electrician, took Lerner to Henrotin hospital. His condition is not serious.

Mrs. Robert Law Granted Separation, $8,500 a Year

Robert O. Law, owner of the printing company at 2100 N. Natchez av., was charged with desertion yesterday by his wife, Maud, 32, of 181 E. Lake Shore dr., who was granted a decree of separate maintenance by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court. The Laws were married Nov. 11, 1931. She said he deserted her Feb. 6, 1944. Attorneys said it was agreed that Law would pay his wife permanent alimony of $8,500 a year, and an additional $1,500 for the support of their son, Robert O. Law III, 11.

DREAM OF HIGH POST-WAR FARM PRICES FADING

U. S. May Hold Huge Food Surplus.

BY GAIL COMPTON.

The American farmer's dream of a strong post-war market stimulated by the New Deal's plan to "feed starving Europe" is fading fast.

Reports from allied occupied countries indicate that Europe is not starving and in fact has surprisingly large stocks of food. Federal food officials in Chicago admit that vast stockpiles of food accumulated for lend-lease, united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, and other purposes may not be used and the country may be left with a two million ton bag of groceries it doesn't need.

Income May Drop 25%

With the war in Europe drawing toward an end, government spending will decline and will pull the stilts out from under our economy. It is possible that farm income will decline as much as 25 per cent in the next 12 months, according to L. J. Norton, agricultural expert of the University of Illinois.

Lend-lease shipments of food have been dropping steadily in the last few months, food administration figures show. In May food shipments amounted to 857,870,924 pounds. In June shipments dropped 24 per cent to 658,116,418 pounds. In July shipments of food abroad dropped to only 525,851,964 pounds.

England now has stocks of bulk foods, canned goods and grains approximately four times as large as her peace time stocks, Col. Ralph W. Olmstead, deputy director of the WFA, recently told a senate investigation committee. These stocks may be used to feed Europeans and this nation may be left with 2 million tons accumulated by the WFA, Olmstead declared.

Stocks Surprisingly Large.

North Africa now is supplying large quantities of food to England, and stocks discovered in Italy and France have been surprisingly large, officials have stated. English agriculture is in high gear and furnishing much more food than normal, they said.

In the meanwhile American farmers continue to produce at record levels. The government is committed to maintaining prices and is doing it thru the purchase of surplus food. Thus a surplus is being built which may send the post-war farm market crashing down upon the farmer, experts assert.

SIMPLIFIED TAX FORM FOR 1945 BEING PRINTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—A revised and simplified income tax return, form 1040, is being printed for use next March, Joseph D. Nunan Jr., commissioner of internal revenue, announced today. He said that most employed persons are expected to use the new withholding receipt form for their returns, but an estimated 20 million taxpayers will need or prefer to use form 1040.

Simplification of form 1040 has resulted in the elimination of two previous forms—1040-A, the special table form which was optional for incomes under $3,000, and the estimating worksheets for declaration of estimated tax.

The new form 1040 consists of four pages, as in former years. Now, however, it contains both a tax table for quick determination of the tax on incomes of less than $5,000, and a computation method for other taxpayers. Those who use the table will be able to convert the form into a "short form" return by tearing off half of the form.

THE goldenrod has been slandered for many years as a cause of hay fever, an error that needs correction in view of the goldenrod's status as our national flower. At this time of the year, the brilliant yellow goldenrod can be seen in fields and roadsides of almost every state. It deserves appreciation as one of our most widespread and colorful wildflowers—without taint of association with hay fever.

Allergy tests made by physicians all over the country prove that goldenrod pollen rarely is a cause of hay fever.

Pest Pollens Fly Far.

The common hay fever pollens, such as those of the ragweeds, are buoyant, light powders that are carried thru the air for long periods of time and for long distances, causing misery en route for thousands of hay fever victims. Goldenrod pollen is heavy and sticky, so it cannot float in the air except for a few feet.

The slander on goldenrod probably is due to the fact that it comes into flower at the same season as ragweed and other hay fever villains. Everyone notices the colorful goldenrod, but overlooks the drab ragweed, therefore mistakenly assuming that the goldenrod is the troublemaker.

Two Ragweeds Analyzed.

There also is some misunderstanding about the species of ragweed that affect hay fever sufferers. There are seven varieties of ragweed, two common in the middle west. These two are the giant ragweed, which reaches a height of 6 to 12 feet, and the common ragweed, which usually is only 1 to 2 feet tall. The giant ragweed, like the colorful goldenrod, is condemned more often than the innocent looking common variety, but it is the small plant that is by far the more common of hay fever irritants.

Get 'Em Both!

Both giant and small ragweed should be eliminated whenever possible, and both are included in the noxious weed laws of most states because of their status as hay fever causes.

The giant ragweed, however, is not as serious a pest, because it grows only on rich, moist soils [most often in lowlands], whereas the small ragweed is not so particular abouts its locale. It grows on high soils, low sites, in cultivated fields, vacant lots, clay soils, sandy soils—in fact, almost any place except on turf.

All ragweed elimination projects should include the inconspicuous but troublesome common ragweed, as well as its giant relative.

★ The GARDEN ★

IT'S possible for gardeners to be overly neat about the management of their plots, especially when it comes time to dispose of crop residues. The tendency to uproot and discard old snap bean vines, for example, should be curtailed because these vines should be utilized.

Snap bean plants that have been completely harvested should be cut off with a sickle or other implement just above ground level, leaving the roots in the soil. The roots contain small nodules that return valuable nitrogen to the soil; this would be wasted thru uprooting.

The vines should be piled in one corner of the garden and saved as mulching material for tomato plants. If a frost is forecast, use the vines to cover the tomato plants at night; unless the frost is too severe, this may save the tomato fruits from damage. At season's end the bean vines should be shredded and added to the compost pile.

SUPREME COURT REVERSALS HIT BY NEW BARHEAD

The United States Supreme court's record of reversing itself in several cases, notably its decision on the Texas primary election law in April, 1944, was criticized last night by David A. Simmons, new president of the American Bar association.

Mr. Simmons, speaking before the annual meeting of the University of Chicago Law School association in the Chicago Bar association headquarters, 29 S. La Salle st., advocated, in view of the legal inconsistencies, a determination of "who is going to make the rules that govern the people of this country."

In the April, 1944, decision, Simmons said, the court by an 8 to 1 vote decided that a party primary was an election and that all voters were privileged to exercise their franchise in it. The court reversed a 9 to 0 decision in a 1935 case in which it was held that a primary was not an election.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 14 (AP).—Jackie Cooper, 24 year old movie star, now in a navy V-12 training unit at the University of Notre Dame, and three other defendants will be tried Sept. 29 on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors, Prosecutor Arthur F. Scheer said today.

Store Onions Now or Cry Later, Consumers Warned

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14 (AP).—Faced with what may be one of the largest onion crops in the nation's history, the war food administration today urged consumers to buy and store "a few pounds" of onions at home to insure plenty later and prevent waste.
